I. A. V. F. (Ital.) Signature of a Medallist who was working circa 1555. It occurs on a Portrait-medal of the Modenese Poet and Scholar Pietro Lauri, obv. Bust to r. ℞. CEDATVR. A. MORTE. INIQVE. LACESSENTES. LINGVE. VIPERIBVS. SIMILES. V. — 1555 within laurel-wreath.

Mazzuchelli attributed this medal to the Venetian sculptor Camillo Bossetti, but Armand is of opinion that the letters I. A. V. F. below truncation of Pietro Lauri's bust represent the artist's signature.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Armand, op. cit., I, 185.

I (Swiss). A school-medal of Solothurn, of the weight of Four Ducats, with St. Ursus and St. Victor on obv. and inscription on ℞., undated, is signed I. It is described in Poole, Catalogue of Swiss Coins, p. 415.

I. AVG. (Ital.) Signature of a Medallist who was working circa 1575. A Portrait-medal in the British Museum Collection of Duke Charles Emmanuel of Savoy, 1580-1630, is thus signed. On obv. is a bust to l. of the Duke, in cuirass, and with head bare, and on ℞. DIRIG. DOMINE. GRES. ME. — I. AVG. FEC. Shechinah advancing in front of the Israelites.

Milanesi suggests the Piedmontese sculptor GIOVANNI MARIA AUGUSTELLO as the author of this medal.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Armand, op. cit., I, 266, III, 127.

IADIS (Roman). Probably a fictitious signature on a gem representing Diana walking and about to shoot an arrow. This beryl is or was in the Percy Collection.

Medal of Lothar von Metternich, Achbishop of Treves, by I D B.

(Berlin); — also on a fine oval medal, without date, representing Frederick Count Palatinate and his consort Elisabeth of Great Britain. This last medal, formed by two silver shells united, which was probably executed before 1618, was copied by Christian Maler for trade purposes.

Briot is certainly not the author of these medals, notwithstanding Schlickeysen's suggestion.

INCHIUIN, LORD (Brit.). Vice-President of Munster, under Charles I. A series of undated obsidional money, issued in the early period of the "Irish Rebellion", is called after his name, "although he does not appear to have been in any way concerned with its issue, for at the time he was engaged in suppressing the rebellion in the south of Ireland."

These coins consist of the gold Pistole (only two specimens known), silver Half-crown, Shilling, Ninepence (2 var.); Sixpence (2 var.), Groat (2 var.) and Threepence.

Lord Inchiquin may have caused the issue of the Cork money, "Shillings and Sixpences in silver and Pennies in copper, during his short sojourn in that city in May 1647," and, continues Mr. Grueber, "this attribution somewhat supports the tradition that money was coined there by his order."

IWANOFF, JAÇOB (Russ.). Mint-master at St. Petersburg, 1750-1766.

IWANOFF, TIMOTHEI (Russ.). Russian Medallist and Mint-engraver at St. Petersburg, born in 1729, died in 1802. He entered the Mint in 1745 as a pupil at the School for medal-engraving. The period of his activity extends between 1758 and 1800, and he may be called one of the foremost Medallists Russia has as yet produced. He cut most of the dies for the successive coinages of the Czarina Catherine II., comprising Al. 10, 5, 2 and 1 Rouble pieces, Tchervonetz and Poltinas; R. Roubles, Poltinas, and unsigned subdivisions, as well as copper coins. According to some Russian authorities whom I have consulted, the later coinage of the Czarina Elizabeth, at least since 1758, and that of Peter III., struck at St. Petersburg, were executed by Ivanoff. The currency of this period is unsigned, with the exception of the Prize Rouble of 1759, issued for presentation to combatants in the Battle of Kunersdorf, which bears under the Empress's bust on obv. TIMOΘEI. I. F. and on R. T. I.

Obvs. of Roubles of Catherine II., 1764 and 1787, by T. Ivanoff.

Some of the Moscow Roubles of Catherine II. bear Iwanoff's signature : T. I.

Besides coins, Iwanoff executed a number of medals, in some of which he was assisted by one of the brothers Wächter; the finest are no doubt : 1752. Construction of new Docks at Cronstadt (illustrated); — Coronation of the Czarina Catherine II. at Moscow, 1762; — Building of the Church of St. Isaac, 1768; — Peace with the Sublime Porte; — Restoration of the Kremlin, 1773; — Journey of the Czarina to Cherson, 1787.

Iwanoff's first medal is said to be that commemorating the Victory at Frankfort-on-the-Oder. He also engraved copies of medals relating to Peter the Great : Peace of Carlowitz (after A. Ljalin); — Building of the four Fleets (after Gouin or Haupt); — Second

Expedition of the Russian Fleet to Finland (2 varieties); — Naval Victory of Tweremünde; — Visit of Peter the Great to the Paris Mint (after Duvivier); — Pacification of the Empire (2 var.); —

Building of New Docks at Cronstadt, 1752.

Capture of four Swedish frigates near Grönhamn, 27. July 1702; — Siege of Schlüsselburg, 1702; — Foundation of St. Petersburg, 1703; — Establishment of the Russian fleet on the Baltic Sea, 1703; — Siege of Dorpat; — Siege of Narva, 1704; — Siege of Mitau, 1705; — Capture of Löwenhaupt, 1706; — Surrender of Riga, 1710, and probably many others, some of which are unsigned.

By the same artist are also the following medals: Accession of the Czarina Anna Ivanowna, 1730; — The Reign of the Czarina Anna; — Accession to the Throne of the Czarina Elizabeth, 1741; — General Amnesty granted, 1741, R. by Wächter; — Reduction of Taxes, 1753; — Birth of the Grand Duke Paul Petrowitch, 1754; — New Servia constituted, 1754; — Remission of Crown Debts, 1754; — Settlement of landmark disputes, 1754; — Battles of Frankfort and Palzig, 1759; — Death of the Czarina Elizabeth, 1761; — Accession of Catherine II, 1762; — Reorganization of the St. Petersburg Mint, 1763; — Building of a Foundling Hospital at St. Petersburg, 1763 (2 var. in Boston Coll<sup>n</sup>); — Prize Medal of the Academy of Fine Arts, 1766; — Building of the St. Petersburg Hippodrome, 1766; — Inoculation of the Russian Court against small-pox, 1768; — Naval Victories over the Turks, 1770; — Victory over the Turks by the river Kagul, 1770; — Conclusion of Peace with Turkey, 1774; — Prize Medal for Agriculture R. by Wächter, &c.

Some of these medals, which are only signed on obv., may, notwithstanding, be entirely the work of Iwanoff.

This artist, during his long connection with the Mint, acquired a well-earned reputation, and no Russian Medallist is better known, both for the number and for the excellence of his works.

JACHTMANN, JOHANN LUDWIG (Germ.). Medallist, born at Berlin in 1776, where he died in 1842. “ This Engraver ”, says Bolzen-thal, “ learned the art of Stierle; however in style and composition he progressed with the age, as we may perceive by his medals of reward for Arts and Sciences, struck to commemorate the third centenary of Alb. Dürer, and the Prize medal of the Royal Academy of Arts. He always endeavoured to produce something better than the last. For some time, Jachtmann endeavoured to execute a medal in the old way of casting, for which he spared neither time nor trouble; the attempt was successful, and it was a medal designed for the Academy of Munster. He also executed large dies for seals, which he engraved in steel with much taste, after he had devoted some time to the study of the master-pieces of the middle ages ”.

Jachtmann is the author of the following medals: Third centenary of the Reformation, 1839; — Prize Medal for Arts and Sciences, 1814, with bust of King Frederick William III.; — Another, of different type; — Portrait-medals of King Frederick William IV., (two types); — Third centenary of Martin Luther. ℞. Bust of Calvin, 1817; — Jubilee Medal of C. From 1629 to 1631 he was Mint-master at Sagan, in Wallenstein's service, on whose currency the monogram H<sup>X</sup>I occurs. He may have again been connected with the Breslau Mint, but a document of 1631 only names Ziesler. It is doubtful whether the initials H-I on a square Double Thaler of Archduke Charles Ferdinand, 1631, refer to him.

JACOBSON, ALBERT (Dan.). Medallist of the last quarter of the eighteenth century and first three decades of the nineteenth. Thomson gives his date as 1780-† 1836. He was a son of Salomon Aron Jacobson. His signature occurs on various Prize-medals, as for instance on one with portrait of King Frederick VI. of Denmark, issued as a Reward or Encouragement for scientific investigation.

JACOBSON, JOHANN or JACOB (Gerin.) came from Emden over Danzig to Poland in 1617, where he contracted to work the Bromberg Mint. His distinctive mark I. I.—V. E. occurs for the first time on a medallic Thaler of that year. Until 1623 he administered only the Bromberg Mint, but after that date he extended his superintendence over the mints of Wilna, Warsaw and Krakaw ; in fact, between 1623 and 1639 he was Administrator-general of all the Crown Mints and of those of Lithuania. In 1630, he leased the Mints of Danzig, Thorn and Elbing, which he worked until his death, which took place in 1639.

JACOBSON, SALOMON ARON (Dan.) Medallist, who resided at Copenhagen, 1756-† 1830. He is the author of several medals, amongst which those of Andreas Petrus, Count Barenstorff, 1795, and Cuvier, the French naturalist, 1820, are perhaps best known. This Engraver's work is very creditable. He also executed Portrait-medals of Dr Ole Borch, Copenhagen; — Dr Blumenbach, Göttingen; — Dr Henrik Collisen, Copenhagen, 1805.

JACOBY, MEINHARD (Germ.). Contemporary Modeller and Sculptor, residing at Berlin. He is the author of various types of Christening Plaquettes, struck at the works of Wilhelm Mayer & Frz. Wilhelm at Stuttgart. In artistic merit, they compare favourably with some of the best French medallic productions of recent times.

JACOBY, PHILIPPE JOSEPH (Belg.). Die-sinker of the eighteenth century; he was born in 1708 and at the age of 14 was placed in apprenticeship to an Engraver of the name of L. de Thier, at Cologne. Five years after he settled at Liège, his native town, where he produced some good work as a Line-engraver, and was employed in that capacity and as a Medallist by the Prince-Bishops of Liège John Theodore of Bavaria, Charles d'Oultremont, Francis Charles van Velbruck and Constantine Francis van Hoensbrouck, during the greater part of the second half of the eighteenth century. He died on September 23, 1794.

Pinchart remarks that in the few medals he has produced, Jacoby showed imagination, but that his drawing is very defective and that his engraving leaves also much to be desired.

By this Engraver are: Portrait-medal of John Theodore of Bavaria, Prince-Bishop of Liège (signed: P. I. IACOBY); — Portrait-medal of Charles of Oultremont, Prince-Bishop of Liège (signed: JACOBI or JA. F.); — Another, of 1764; — Foundation of the Academy of Painting at Liège, 1765; — Society of Emulation, The Academy of Painting and Sculpture (2 types, one dated 1785); — Portrait-Medal of Constantine Francis van Hoensbrouck, Prince-Bishop of Liège.

In 1763, Jacoby was appointed Mint-engraver at Liège, a post which he retained until 1788, when he was succeeded by Leonard Jéhotte.

The Prize Medal, for the Neuchâtel Cantonal Rifle Meeting at Fleurier, 1902, is the artist's first attempt at medallic work.

JACOT-GUILLARMOD, EUGÈNE and ALFRED (Swiss). Contemporary Engravers of watch cases, residing at Le Locle. They are father and son. To their joint cooperation is due a commemorative medal, struck at the works of Huguenin frères in 1888, on the inauguration of a monument at Le Locle to Daniel Jean Richard, 1665-1741, the founder of the Neuchâtel watch industry. It is signed : E. JACOT.

By A. Jacot-Guillarmod is also : Cantonal Rifle Meeting of Vaud at Yverdon, 1899.

JACOT, JULES (Swiss). Die-sinker, Seal, and Watch-case Engraver, born at La Chaux-de-Fonds, 28th March 1797, where he died, 4th June 1879.

He is the author of numerous official Seals, cut in commission for the Neuchâtel urban and cantonal government, one of which, the Great Seal of the Mairie et Justice de Neuchâtel (illustrated) is signed : J. J.

This engraver cut also a fine jeton of the Cantonal Rifle Meeting at Neuchâtel, 1849.

He has also engraved a number of jetons, some of which are signed : C. I. F. The 4 Sol pieces of 1677 of Louis XIV., struck at the Mint of Neufville were the joint-work of Lochey de Grandchamp, Clair Jacquemin and Gilbert d'Armand l'Orfelin. In 1675, Jacquemin, who was born in 1638, succeeded Lagier at the Mint of Lyons and remained in office until 1709; he died in April 1713. Rondot mentions that about ninety jetons may be attributed to him, some of which are signed : C. I. F. One was struck to commemorate the Peace of Ryswick, 1697; others, the Consulate of 1696-1697, Louis Dugas, the Duke of Villeroy, Archbishop Camille de Neufville, &c.

JACQUEMIN, CLAIR IV (French) (.1731-1767). Mint-engraver at Lyons, 1759-1760. He has also engraved about thirty consular jetons, between 1756 and 1764, and is the author of at least two medals ; the one a Prize Medal of the Academy of Lyons, after a drawing by Nonnotte, and signed : JACQUEMIN S. C. ; and the other a medal presented by the Consulate of Lyons to Soubriat, for life-saving, in 1766, signed : C. I. F.

JACQUEMOTTE, R. (Germ.). Mint-master at Cugnon, 1634.

JACQUES, JEAN (French). Mint-engraver at Saint-Pourçain, 1371-1388.

JACQUES, JEAN JACQUES CLAUDE (French). Mint-engraver at Rouen, 1760-1792. In 1815, an Engraver of that name executed a Pattern 5 Franc piece for the Coinage Competition of that year. Vide A. Barre, Graveurs généraux et particuliers des Monnaies de France, Ann. num., 1867, p. 163.

JACQUET, NICOLAS GABRIEL (French). Medallist of the first quarter of the seventeenth century (circ. 1601-1609). Mazerolle places the period of his activity between 1601 and 1626, and suggests that he may have been a relative of Jacquet dit Grenoble, Sculptor to Henry IV.

Jacquet is the author of some cast Portrait-medallions : Pomponne de Bellièvre, Chancellor of France, 1601 ; — Omer Talon, Advocate general to the Parliament of Paris, 1609 (both medallions signed : N. G. I. F. and N. GAB. IACQ. F.). A third medal, with bust of Omer Talon on obv., and that of his consort, Suzanne Choart on R., is probably also by him and was executed in 1626.

JAECKLE-SCHNEIDER, BARTH. (Swiss.). Contemporary Medallist and Seal-engraver, who in recent years has produced a number of commemorative and prize-medals. He resides at Zurich, but was born on December 11, 1850, at Schabenhäusen (Baden). His father, who was a watchmaker, settled at Zurich in 1863. Jaeckle visited the schools, made an apprenticeship in a die-sinking establishment at Zurich, and afterwards worked at Cologne, Berlin and Breslau. In 1876, he started business on his own account at Zurich.

I have met with Jaeckle's signature on the following medals: 1880. Zurich "Krugerfest"; — 1881. Dog Show at Zurich; — Ignaz Heim, composer, of Zurich; — 1883. Swiss Federal Exhibition at Zurich (at least 14 varieties); — 1886. Christening medal of Ulrich Ziegler; — 1889. Vinedressers' Festival at Vevey; — 1890. Inauguration of Pestalozzi's Monument at Yverdon; — 1891. Sixth Centenary of the Helvetic Alliance; — Swiss Bakery Exhibition at Zurich; — Souvenir of the Frozen Lake of Zurich; — 1890. Federal Fête of the "Grütli Central" Society; — 1891. Seventh centenary of the Foundation of Berne; — 1894. Fisheries' Exhibition at Zurich; — Various Agricultural and other Prize-medals; — 1894. Cantonal Industrial Exhibition, &c.

This Engraver is perhaps more clever in cutting seals than medals. To him was entrusted the execution of the Zurich official seal and he has produced a great number of seals for private persons, armorial bearings, &c.

JAMAIN, ÉMILE THÉODORE (French). Contemporary Sculptor, Gem-engraver, and Medallist, born at Fumay (Ardennes); pupil of Vaudet and Hiolin. By him were exhibited some cameos and medals at the Salon, between 1888 and 1901 : 1888. Marie de Médicis, sard cameo; — Milo of Croton, sard cameo; — 1890. Faun, sard cameo; — 1891. L'accordée de Village, cameo; — Joan of Arc; — Marguerite; — Agrippa; — 1892. François Truphème, sard cameo; — Marie de Médicis; — Homer, sard cameo; — 1893. Henri Weisse; — 1898. Maurice Brévoire. — 1901. Portrait plaquette of H. Auguste Crouzet, cut in a sardonyx of two strata.

JAMES, C. (Brit.). A London Die-sinker and Medallist of the latter end of the eighteenth century. His signature, generally in full, appears on the following Tradesmen's Tokens; Cumberland Lake Token  $\frac{1}{2}^d$ ; — James's Penny Tokens (2 var.; signed: JAMES ENGRAVER); — Bayly's  $\frac{1}{2}^d$ ; — James'  $\frac{1}{2}^d$ , 1796 (2 var., one illustrated); —

James's Halfpenny Token, 1796.

Orchard's  $\frac{1}{2}^d$ , 1797 (2 var.); — Pidcock's Halfpennies, 1795 (4 var.); — Others, with representations of elephants, rhinoceroses, tigers, nygphaus, zebras, humped cows, kangaroos, monkeys, &c. (Atkins, n<sup>os</sup> 302-340); — Sims' Halfpennies (2 var.); — Spence's Halfpennies (Atk., n<sup>os</sup> 511-535 with perhaps one or two exceptions); — Various Middlesex Halfpennies, with bust of Thelwall, and others; — Pidcock's Farthings (Atk., n<sup>os</sup> 764-773); — Spence's Farthings (types: Prisoner, Slave, Adam and Eve, Bull, Britannia, Cat, &c. — Atk., n<sup>os</sup> 781-816; some of these, which are unsigned, may be the work of Jacobs); — Newcastle Halfpennies (Atk., n<sup>os</sup> 3-24); — Dudley  $\frac{1}{2}^d$ , 1790 (Atk., n<sup>os</sup> 7-19); — Worcester  $\frac{1}{4}^d$ , with bust of George III. and signature: C. I.; — Bedale Pennies (Atk., n<sup>os</sup>-11-14<sup>a</sup>; some of these may have been engraved by Jacobs for Skidmore, the manufacturer); — Also, some Tokens described as Not Local; — Sawbridgeworth Penny, 1801; — Pidcock's Exhibition, London Halfpennies, 1800, 1801.

Pye gives further the following Tokens by James : Aylesbury (Manuf. : Skidmore, Propr. F. Wheeler); — Bungay (Manuf. : Williams; Propr. : T. Miller), and some of those enumerated above.

Most of James's Tokens were manufactured by Lutwyche of Birmingham.

Mr. H. A. Grueber in English Personal Medals (Num. Chron., 1891, pp. 96-97) describes two Tokens, representing, the first, Fox (War with France, 1794) and the second, Fox and Pitt (their rivalry satirized, 1795).

JAMNITZER, WENZEL (Germ.). Goldsmith, Line-engraver and Medallist, born at Vienna in 1508; died at Nuremberg on the 15th of December, 1585. Nagler calls him "der grösste deutsche Goldschmied", and adds: "Er brach vollständig mit der Gothik und schloss sich der italienischen Renaissance an, innerhalb welcher er, unter allen seinen Kunstgenossen, am originellsten und anmuthigsten sich zu bewegen weiss."

"Wenzel Jamnitzer", observes Bolzenthall, who displayed a singular talent in drawing, modelling, enamelling, copper-engraving, in carving in wood and iron, in etching and casting, enjoyed such a famous reputation that Charles V., Ferdinand I., Maximilian II., and Rudolph II., made him their goldsmith. His portrait is found on many medals".

Bergau in Zeitschrift für Numismatik, Bd. XVI, p. 131 sqq. (Medaillen von Wenzel Jamnitzer) ascribes to this artist three medals, and illustrates one of them, which is only a variety of type of the two others, representing on obv. the Birth of Christ and on R. Our Lord standing by the side of the cross. Dr Merzbacher however contends against this attribution in Mittheilungen der Bayerischen Numismatischen Gesellschaft, XVIII. Jahrgang, p. 66 (Nachtrag zu Peter Flötner) showing that a Joachimsthal medal, by the unidentified artist L. R. served as prototype of these medals but at the same time he points out that it is quite possible that a work by Jamnitzer may have served as original prototype of the representation of Christ standing.

Erman does not even mention Jamnitzer in his list of German Medallists, and of course Bolzenthall's attributions are not correct. As Bergau himself remarks, even nowadays, some of the fine medals executed by Valentin Maler, son-in-law of Wenzel Jamnitzer, are described as works by Jamnitzer, from an erroneous reading of the monogram VM.

W. Jamnitzer signed his works W. or W. I. His name also occurs as W. GAMITZER. We know, from the artist's friend Neudörffer, that he cast and cut seals in silver and iron; also that he was employed after 1542 as Die-cutter at the Nuremberg Mint, in succession to Formschneider, and remained in office until 1559.

Wenzel Jamnitzer was ordered in 1549 to cast some medals with portraits of Kings Ferdinand I. and Maximilian (II).

Durand gives a Portrait-medal of this artist.

JAUNER, HEINRICH (Austr.). Contemporary Medallist, residing at Vienna. He is "K. K. Hof-Kammer-Graveur", but began his artistic career as a Painter, having studied under Waldmüller. His father was the founder of one of the foremost Die-sinking establishments in Vienna, at the head of which he now is. One of the finest Portrait-plaquettes by this artist is that of Gottfried von Preyer, the Nestor of Viennese church composers, R. DEI. GLORIAE. INGENIVM. MISSIS. VOVIT. HYMNIS. ET. CANTICIS (62 × 46 mill.). Another medal by him, that executed in honour of Chevalier J. W. Schorer, the Queen of Holland's commissioner in the province of Northern Holland, is reproduced in Dompierre de Chaupefié, Médailles et Plaquettes modernes, I, pl. xxxii, n° 148.

By H. Jauner are further : Commemorative medal of the Battle of Langensalza, 1866, with bust of King George V. of Hanover; Agricultural Prize Medals, 1866 (Austrian Provincial); — Portrait-plaquette of Franz Liszt (65 × 47 mill.); — Major General Baron Josef von Berres-Perez (cast; 65 × 47 mill.); — Cardinal Schönborn, 1889 (50 mill.); — Oval Prize Medal of the Viennese Agricultural Exhibition, 1880; — 25th Anniversary of the new Free Press, 1889; — 40th Birthday of Josef Hellmesberger, 1890; — Eduard von Bauernfeld, 1890; — Golden Wedding of Prince Colredo-Mannsfeld, 1891; — Wilhelm Trinks, numismatist, 1891; — 70th Birthday of the Poet Josef Weyl, 1891; — Dr Leopold Rorschke; — Dr Johann Sw. Presl; — Prof. Carl Rokitsky, 1878; — Commemorative medal of the Military Ride Vienna-Berlin, 1892; — Jubilee of the Hungarian Agricultural Society, 1892; — 70th Birthday of Emmerich Ranzoni, 1893; — 25th Anniversary of the Trieste Stenographical Society, 1894; — Viennese Bird Show, 1894; — 25th Anniversary of the Austrian Touring-Club, 1894; — Golden Wedding of Johann and Adele Medinger, 1895; — Josef Latzl, 1896; — David Valentin Junk, 1896; — Robert Scholtze, 1896; — Mathias Meissner, 1896; — Styrian Choral Society; — Fischau Society of Sports; — Millenary of the House of Segur-Caba, 1876; — L. Van Beethoven; — Raising of a voluntary Firemen Company by Herr Ed. Foest of Vienna, 1897; — 25th Anniversary of the Choral Society “M. G. V. Beethoven”, 1899; — Jubilee of H. M. the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, 1898; — Franz Liszt, 1901; — Amstetten Jubilee Medal, 1898 (2 var.); — Marie, Queen of Hanover, 1898; [a specimen in gold of large size was sold at Christie, Manson & Woods, June 1904 (Duke of Cambridge's Sale) for £ 9.10.0]; — Julius von Piette-Rivage, 1902 (Eine schöne Arbeit des Nestors der Wiener Graveure); — Medal of Reward for Valour in the field, 1866; — Johann Strauss, 1884; — Karl Friedrich Zelter, 1901; — André Com. JEHOTTE, CONSTANT (Belg.). Medallist of the nineteenth century, born at Liège on the 15th of January 1809; died on the 12th of April 1883. He studied drawing at the schools of his native city and learnt medal-engraving under his father Léonard Jéhotte. According to Picqué (Médailles historiques de Belgique), this artist executed 64 medals, ranging from 1847 to 1882.

By him are the following works: The Suspension Bridge of Seraing, 1844; — Modeste Grétry, 1845; — Sébastien La Ruelle, 1846; — Prize Medal for a Competition between School Masters of the Provinces, 1847; — John Cockerill, 1847; — Henri Joseph Orban, 1847; — Horticultural Medal of Verviers, 1845; — Cercle Méd.-chir. et pharmaceutique, Liège, 1844; — Russian Miniature Medal, 1847; — Pattern Five-Franc Piece for the Competition of 1847 (illustrated in Revue de la num. belge, 1850, p. 112); — Auguste Delfosse, 1859; — General Jardon; — François Joseph Gossec, 1734-1829; — Medal with bust of S<sup>t</sup> Laurent, 1882 (remained unfinished).

tique ou collection de portraits en médailles des hommes les plus illustres du pays", &c.

Jéhotte cut his dies direct in steel.

JÉHOTTE, LÉONARD (Belg.). Medallist, born on the 1st August 1772 at Herstal, died at Maestricht, 1st August 1851. He was first apprenticed to a watchmaker, but before long it became evident that nature had endowed him with uncommon gifts for the plastic arts and that his career was laid out in a different direction. In 1784 or thereabout the young man was admitted into the Medallist Philippe Joseph Jacoby's workshop as a pupil. So rapid was his progress that already in 1789, when only seventeen years old, he was called upon to succeed his master as Engraver to the Chapter of the Cathedral of Liège. This office was confirmed to him on the death of Jacoby in 1792. That same year, Jéhotte was entrusted with the cutting of dies for the coinage of the Sede Vacante.

Léonard Jéhotte attained notoriety as a Line-engraver, Medallist, Gem-and Seal-engraver. In 1804 he was presented to Napoleon at Paris, and the Empress Joséphine, who was charmed with his portrait of her consort, made him various promises to better his situation, which however were not fulfilled.

The following is a complete list of Jéhotte's works :

GEMS. The French Cock, rock crystal, 1808; — The Lion of Waterloo, large topaz, presented to King William I. of Holland in 1828 and now in the Museum at The Hague; — Æsculapius, jasper; — Hygiea, amethyst; — Portrait of King William I., carnelian; presented by the artist to the Queen of the Netherlands and now in The Hague Museum; — Portrait of King Leopold I., of Belgium, purchased by the Queen of the Belgians; — numerous official and private seals (between 3 and 400).

WOOD-ENGRAVINGS. The Belgic Lion, 1833, after Eugène Verboeckhoven.

COPPER-PLATE ENGRAVINGS. Napoleon Bonaparte, First Consul, 1793; — The chevalier Goffin and his son in the Beaujonc coal pit, 1812; — Portrait of Marshal de Loudon; — Florian; — J. J. le Franc de Pompignan, 1800; — Frederick II.; — Abbot Feller, 1809; — Full size portrait of Napoleon, 1827; — Portrait of Fréville; — General Desaix, 1805; — Hubert and Mathieu Goffin, 1812; — General Kleber; — General Charbonnier; — General Jardon; — Abbot Delille; — Bonaparte, First Consul, 1805; — La Tour d'Auvergne, 1805; — Saint-Lambert; — Virgo Dolorosa, 1810; and many others; — Notes of the Bank of Liège, 1835.

COINS & MEDALS. Ducat, Ecu and Escalin of the Sede Vacante of Liège, 1792; — Medical Society of Liège, 1808; — Jeton, with attributes of Sciences and Arts, 1818; — Free Society of Emulation of Liège, 1811; — Prize Medal of the City of Liège as a Reward for courage and devotedness, 1822; — Medal executed in 1822 for the Burgomasters &c., with arms of the Netherlands; — Jeton of the family of Méan, 1824; — Prize Medal for the Industrial Exhibition, with bust of William I.; — Decoration of the Urban Guard; — Medal of J. J. Charlier, dit la "Jambe de bois"; — Liège Prize Medal for Life Saving &c., 1834; — Medal presented to Louis Jamme, Burgomaster of Liège, 1834; — N. G. N. J. Anciaux, Surgeon, 1834; — Inauguration of the Bridge of La Boverie, 1837; — Erection of the Monument of the Méan family at Malines, 1837; — Medal for School Masters, 1835; — Cercle médico-chimique et pharmaceutique, 1844; — Construction of the Canal from Liège to Maestricht, 1846; — Creation of the Order of Leopold I., commemorative medal, 1846; — Building of the Railway from the Escaut to the Rhine; — Inauguration of Liège Railway Station, 1842; — Erasme Louis Surlet de Chokier, Regent of Belgium (the two last were never struck and only exist as artist's proofs); — 1830-1843, various commemorative medals of the Belgian Revolution (described in Guioth, Histoire numismatique de la Révolution belge), &c.

Three of Léonard Jéhotte's sons followed their father's vocation. Louis, born at Liège, 7th November 1804, Sculptor and Medallist; Constant, Medallist, born at Liège, 27th November 1805, and Charles, Line-engraver, born at Liège, 3. October 1806, who died quite young.

Léonard Jéhotte was corresponding Member of the Belgian Academy of Fine Arts.

JERBEAULT, J. (French). Die-sinker of the latter portion of the eighteenth century; he was a native of Bordeaux and engraved a pattern coin (1791) which was struck by means of a machine invented by him: Obv. LA NATION | LA LOI | LE ROI within oak-wreath R. Inscription in seven lines under Cap of Liberty: J. JERBEAULT. | INVENTEUR D'UNE | MACHINE QUI | ACCÉLÈRE EXTRA- | ORDINAIREMENT | LE MONNOYAGE | DES ESPÈCES; beneath, three lozenges. Hennin, Histoire numismatique de la Révolution française, p. 231, states that he has been unable to find any particulars of this machine, and M. Evrard de Fayolle of Bordeaux has not been more successful in his research. Jerbeault was paid the sum of six thousand Livres as a reward for his invention. There are varieties of Jerbeault's Pattern Piece.

JETZL, JOHANN ANDREAS (Austr.). Mint-engraver at Salzburg, 1715-1726.

JEUFFROY (French). Goldsmith and Mint-engraver at Paris, circ. 1428.

JEUFFROY, ROMAIN VINCENT (French). Medallist and Gem-engraver, born at Rouen, 16 July 1749, died at Bas-Prunay near Marly on 2. August 1826. He filled the post of Director of the Paris Mint, was a Member of the Institute and a Knight of the Legion of honour.

The first gem engraved by Jeuffroy is a very remarkable copy of a Head of Medusa, in amethyst (illustrated), executed in 1777, after the well-known Renaissance intaglio, with the fictitious signature of Solon.

three of these : Athlete drinking from a cup (signed : JEUFFROY-1777) ; — Genius of Bacchus in chariot driven by a he-goat and a lion (intaglio in carnelian, 1779) ; — Bust of Bacchante (cameo on a sardonyx of two strata). He also executed Portrait-camei and intagli : Unknown Young Lady (signed JEUFFROY. F. 1788) ; — Louis (XVII), the Dauphin (signed JEUFFROY SCVLPSIT. I. IAN. 1788) ; — Bonaparte, First Consul (cameo on sardonyx of two strata, signed JEUFFROY, 1801 ; illustrated) ; — Charles de Wailly, architect (intaglio, 1807) ; — Fourcroy, the chemist (cameo and intaglio) ; — Laure de Bonnevil, 1787, cameo ; — Maria Cosway, English painter, cameo ; — Hancarville, 1787, cameo ; — Prince Lubomirski, cameo, &c.

Portrait-cameo of Bonaparte.

Chavignerie et Auvray mention that Jeuffroy exhibited gems at the Paris Salon, between 1804 and 1819, and adduce the following as some of the most noteworthy : Head of Jupiter ; — Cupid travelling on his Quiver, carnelian ; — Head of Regulus ; — The three Consuls of the French Republic; — M<sup>me</sup> d'Epréménil as Minerva; — M<sup>me</sup> Regnault de Saint-Jean d'Angély; — M<sup>rs</sup> Cosway; — Darcenville(?); — Angel in adoration; — Louis XVI.; — Marie-Antoinette; — A Lion (cameo).

“Jeuffroy”, remarks, M. Babelon “fut le meilleur graveur sur gemmes de son temps et dans le genre néo-grec à la mode, il l'emportait sur les Simon, ce qui explique et justifie le succès dont il jouit. Néanmoins s'il ne manquait pas de talent, l'originalité lui faisait défaut. Les quelques sujets que nous connaissons de lui, qui sont gravés d'après l'antique, montrent que s'il eût persévéré dans cette voie et copié les chefs-d'œuvre de l'antiquité et de la Renaissance italienne, il eût pu rivaliser avec Girometti, Cerbara et les deux frères Jean et Louis Pichler” (Histoire de la gravure sur Gemmes en France, p. 221).

Jeuffroy obtained in 1804 a Grand Prix of the second class as a reward for his exhibit in that year, and with Dumarest and Galle was one of the successful competitors.

As a Medallist, this artist produced a number of works : 1796, Battle of Montenotte (R.); — 1802, The three Consuls. R. Peace of Amiens; — 1803, Conquest of Hanover and Rupture of the Treaty of Amiens; — The Venus de' Medici (illustrated); — 1804,

The Venus de' Medici.

Public Instruction reorganized; — The Camp of Boulogne (obv.); — Ticket of the Members of the Legislative Body; — Coronation at Paris (R.); — Coronation festivities (R.); — Standards presented to the Army (R.); — Napoleon's threatened invasion of England, obv. Laur. head to r.; signed : JEUFFROY FECIT DENON DIREXIT. R. DESCENTE EN ANGLETERRE. Heroic male figure overturning a Tiron-like monster; in exergue : FRAPPEE A LONDRES EN 1804; — 1805, Capitulation of Spandau, Stettin, Magdeburg and Custring (R.); — Blockade of the British Isles (R. only; legend : TOTO DIVISOS ORBE BRI-TANNOS); — 1812, Battle of the Moskowa; — 1816, Accession of King Louis XVIII., &c. By him are also: Head of Jupiter; — Portrait of Fourcroy, State Councillor; — Medal of the Legislative Body; — Seal of the Order of the Legion of Honour; — Bonaparte armed for Peace; — Death of Louis XVII; — The Twentieth of March; — Petrarch; — Saint-Vincent de Paule; — Hospice de la Maternité, Paris; — Hospice des Orphelins, Paris; — Medal of the Academy of Ghent, &c.

In An XI, Jeuffroy participated in the competition for the new Coinage of the French Republic, under the Premier Consulship of Bonaparte (Pattern 5 Franc Piece, illustrated).

Pattern 5 Francs, by Jeuffroy.

The younger Tiolier was one of Jeuffroy's pupils.

JOHN, WILLIAM GOSCOMBE (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Cardiff; Associate of the Royal Academy.

“The son of the sculptural carver to the late Marquess of Bute, Mr. John early followed his father’s craft”, says Mr. Spielmann. “In 1882 he left Cardiff for London, obtained employment with Farmer and Brindley’s, and attended Mr. Frith’s class at Lambeth. In 1884 he entered the Royal Academy Schools, but, after a successful career, he failed to secure the gold medal with his group “An Act of Mercy”. Mr. John became assistant to C.B. Birch A. R. A., then visited Italy and Greece, as advised by Lord Leighton, and, two years after his first failure, he tried for the gold medal again with a group on the subject of "Parting".

This time he won it; and Sir L. Alma-Tadema commissioned him to complete the model ”.

Portrait-medal of Alfred William Hughes, 1900.

“ Mr. John’s portraiture is faithful and characteristic. In the design of his draperies only does the artist sometimes appear open to criticism, occasionally, but not often, as if there were need of a few straight lines and plain surfaces. In such a case the face and hands are liable to suffer. But the details are all beautifully carried out. Indeed, more than strength, delicacy is the quality of Mr. John's sculpture which strikes the spectator".

Mr. John has exhibited at various times medallic works at the Royal Academy, since 1898. I have made a note of the following : 1899. Portrait of a Lady, relief in copper gilt; — Portrait of a Gentleman, relief in copper; — Medal of the National Eisteddfodd Association (illustrated); — 1903. Medal of Lywelyn ap Gruffyd; — Portrait-medal of Alfred William Hughes, 1900 (illustrated);— Salon of 1904, A frame of medals &c.

The medal of Lywelyn ap Gruffyd commemorates the last native Prince of Wales. The reverse shows the crest of Snowdon (Lywelyn was Lord of Snowdonia) with a spray of mountain-ash and a singing nightingale, to symbolise " The Land of Mountain and Song ". The lines on the obverse are from a thirteenth century eulogistic poem to the Prince.

JOHNSON (Brit.). Die-sinker of the eighteenth century, mentioned by Evelyn, who however does not record any medals by this Engraver.

JOHNSON, STEFANO (Ital.). Die-sinking establishment at Milan, founded in 1868 by Stefano Johnson, father of the actual proprietor, Commendatore Federigo Johnson, who since 1880, has the complete direction of the Works, and who gave the firm its present importance and extension.

Furnished with up-to-date machinery, a reducing-machine of the latest type and a chemical laboratory for the colouring of metals, the Johnson works are able to cope with the keenest competition inland and abroad. Not a small factor in the development of the establishment is due to Comm. Johnson's securing the services of a talented and experienced artist, his Chief-engraver and Modeller, Signor Angelo Cappuccio; but the signatures of other artists, such as Egidio Boninsegna, Pogliaghi, Amsler, Levi, &c. occur on medals issued by that firm.

At the Esposizione d'Arte moderna a few years ago, Comm. Fed. Johnson obtained from the Italian Minister of Commerce and Industries a gold medal for his exhibits of cast medals and plaquettes in silver and bronze.

The excellence of the work carried on at the Johnson establishment is proved beyond doubt by the fine productions issued there within recent years : Christopher Columbus (of unusual large size); — Milanese Exhibition of Decorative Arts applied to Industries; — Visit of the German Emperor to Rome, 1888; — Centenary of the " Reggimento Nizza Cavalleria "; — H. H. Leo XIII.; — Expedition of the Duke of the Abruzzi to the North Pole ; — Portrait-medals of Porro ; — Bottini ; — Ceriani ; — Bardelli ; — Bertarelli ; — Stefano Johnson, &c. ; — Plaquettes of the Turin Medical Congress (illustrated), the Volta Society, the Geographical Congress at Milan ; — Athenaeum of Brescia ; — Columbus Fourth Centenary of the Discovery of America, 1892 (modelled by a Danish artist) ; — Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition at Faido, 1893 ; — Italian Presentation Medal of the Swiss Federal Rifle Meeting at Frauenfeld, 1890 ; — Swiss Federal Rifle Meeting at Lugano, 1883 ; — Vittorio Amadeo II., 1890 ; — Mgr. Molo, 1895 ; — Giuseppe Verdi ; — Garibaldi ; — Rossini ; — Gaetano Donizetti ; — Dominico Mustafa ; — Ambrogio Cappuccio); — Memorial of Leo XIII.; — Accession of Pius X. (several medals, of fine design and workmanship); — Swiss federal Fête for Athletic Sports at Lugano, 1894; — Visit of President Loubet to Rome, 1904; — Giuseppe Verdi (several types); — Medals issued in honour of H. R. H. Prince Luigi Amedeo of Savoy, Duke of the Abruzzi : (a.) Canottieri del Po; — (b.) Medaglia dei Veneti; — (c.) Italian Alpine Club; — (d.) Medal of the city of Livorno; — (e.) Medal of the city of Viareggio; — Others, of Dr Giovanni Canna; — Don Adalberto Catina; — Birth of Umberto, Prince of Piedmont, 1904; — Commendatore Alfonso Mandelli, 1904, &c.

JONES, JOHN (Brit.). Medallist of the nineteenth century, who died at Dublin, circa 1880. "He would deserve slight notice except for his continuing to strike medals from Mossop's designs and dies after the death of that artist. He is reported to have come from Liverpool, and commenced his career by pulling the rope for Mossop's Coining press. At one period of his life he went to America and made some money. Strange stories are told of the mode in which he dissipated his earnings".

The following medals are signed : JONES F. : Queen Victoria ; — Daniel O'Connell, 1829 ; — Another, dated 1847 ; — Another, without date ; — Orange Medal (4 var.) ; — Irish Constabulary Medal ; presented in silver to officers and men, who distinguished themselves during the Fenian disturbances in 1868, by the Lord Lieutenant ; — Royal Agricultural Society of Ireland, 1841 ; — Premium medal of the North-East Society of Ireland, 1826 ; — Farming Society, Tipperary Union, 1856 ; — Temperance Medal (2 var.) ; — School Medal (3 var.) ; — Irish Missionary school Ballinasloe ; — Academic Institute, &c.

JONGHELINCK, GASPAR (Belg.). Son of Jacques Jonghelinck ; Mint-warden at Antwerp, 1601.

JONGHELINCK, JACQUES (Belg.). Medallist, Seal-engraver, Sculptor and Caster of bronze statues, born at Antwerp, 21. October 1530, died there, 31. May 1606. As early as 1556, he was entrusted with the cutting of seals for various chanceries of Philip II.'s government and, in 1559, he executed the monument erected at Bruges to the memory of Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy. He is also the author of a colossal statue of the Duke of Alva in the centre of Antwerp citadel, which was destroyed some years later by the infuriated mob. Jonghelinck owned the title of Sculptor, Metal-founder and Seal-engraver to the King, an appointment which he preserved under the Archdukes Albert and Isabella.

By this artist are the following medals : 1555. Charles V. and Philip II., signed on R. IONGELI F. (Van Mieris t. III, p. 408.) No specimen has been met with. This medal was executed at Antwerp by Jacques Jonghelinck. It was issued when Charles V. resigned his dominions to his son Philip, who assumed the title of King of Spain, 24 March 1555-6, the day on which he was solemnly proclaimed at Valladolid; — 1557. Another, with similar obv. and different portrait of Philip II., and same signature (several varieties, Vide Medallie Illustrations, I, p. 82, n<sup>os</sup> 42-45); — Another, with a third portrait of Philip II., bust to l.; legend : PHILIPPVS. HISPANIAR. ET. NOVI ORBIS OCCIDVI. REX Medal on the Siege of St. Quentin, 1557.

(Van Loon, t. I, p. 8); — 1557. Siege of St. Quentin, obv. Bust of Philip. II. ; on truncation : IONGELI F. R. Medallion with full face bust of St. Quentin ; across the field, a long inscription, ANNO M. D. LVII QVARTO ID & c. (Van Mieris III, 408; Med. Illust., I, p. 83, n<sup>o</sup> 47; there is a variety in the Brit. Mus. Collection, illustrated); — Another, on the same event, with similar bust of Philip II., but inscription on R. in German; — Philip II. and Margaret of Parma, obv. as R. of last; R. MARGARETA. AB. AVSTRIA. D. P. ET P. GERM. INFER. G. (Van Loon, t. I, p. 38); — Philip II. and the Duke of Alva, obv. PHILIPVS. II. HISPAN. ET NOVI ORBIS OCCIDVI REX. R. FERDIN. TOLET. ALBAE. DVX. BELG. PRAEF 1567, large silver Medallion, signed on both sides with the artist's monogram J; — Margaret of Austria, natural daughter of Charles V., obv. MARGARETA. DE. AVSTRIA. D. P. ET P. GERMANIÆ. INFERIORIS. GVB. Bust to r. ; on truncation; ÆT. 45. R. FAVENTE. DEO. Female figure, holding sword, palm and olive-sprigs, stands on rock amidst stormy sea; dated 1567 [attributed to Jonghelinck by D<sup>r</sup> Solone Ambrosoli in Rapport du Congrès international de numismatique, 1891, p. 69; a specimen was purchased by Herr Consul Bodmer of Zurich at Ham-burger's Sale of April 1900 (Raritäten-Cabinet, IV. Theil) for 810 Marks; another occurred in the Felix Sale (lot 26); and it is also described in Van Loon, t. I, p. 87]. The medals of Charles V. and Philip II. date from the years 1555 to 1557; they are cast and chased, like all the artist's other medals.

According to Pinchart, several other medals may be ascribed to Jacques Jonghelinck. I give here his reduced list, as published in Histoire de la Gravure des Médailles en Belgique, 1870. None of these medals are signed. 1558. Jérôme de Serooskerke. ℞. DVM SPIRITVS HOS REGET ARTVS. Standing female figure holding a cup in her l. hand (Van Loon, t. I, p. 208); — 1559. Jean Van den Broeck, Almoner general of Antwerp ℞. CHARITAS. OMNIA. SVFFERT Mother suckling her child, two children embracing each other and a third playing with a dog; — Jean Van den Broeck and his consort Bianca Pausana Cariana (Revue de la num. belge, t. II, Pl VIII, p. 240). These four medals Pinchart believes to be Jonghelinck's work, but he hesitates somewhat in the correct attribution of the few following, which present a strong analogy in design and treatment with the Medallist's signed productions: 1556. Two medals of Viglius de Zuichem, President of the Privy Council ℞. VITA. MORTALIVM. VIGILIA. (a.) Table on which books, hour-glass and lighted candle; (b.) shield of arms; — 1559. Christophe d'Assonville, Member of the Privy Council ℞. ΕΠΟΥ ΘΕΩ. The Three Ages of Fate (Van Loon, p. 268); — 1560. Antoine Perrenot, Bishop of Arras ℞. DVRATE. Ship in danger of sinking and Neptune armed with trident (Van Loon, p. 43); — 1565. Three medals of Antoine Van Stralen, Burgomaster of Antwerp; — 1566. Josse de Damhoudere, a celebrated lawyer (Van Loon, I, p. 40); — 1568. Two other medals of Viglius de Zuichem; — 1569. Benoit Arias, a theologian ℞. Nude male figure (Archimedes) running, with open book inscribed ΕΥΦΗΚΑ (Van Loon, p. 136).

Domanig (Portrait-medailen des Erzhauses Oesterreich, p. 7), describes a Portrait-medal of Archduke Albert, dated 1601, which he suggests may be by Jonghelinck, but I fear this attribution is not correct, although the artist is known to have engraved the seals of the Archduke and his consort.

As a Seal-engraver, Jonghelinck executed the Seal of the Order of the Golden Fleece, in 1556, when he was only 25 years old, the seal and signet for the Chancery of Guelders, the seal for Brabant, 1559, that for Burgundy, 1569, those of the three states of the County of Namur, and many others, down to 1600, at which time he was assisted in his work by his nephew Sigebert Waterloos, who succeeded him as Seal-engraver to the Archdukes.

On December 17, 1572, Jonghelinck was appointed Mint-warden at Antwerp, an appointment which the Duke of Parma confirmed to him in 1585.

A document of 1598 records a payment of 148 livres 15 sous 9 deniers made to the artist on account of four medals in gold which he was ordered to execute for the Archduke Albert.

Jonghelinck, suggests Pinchart, may have been a pupil of one of the celebrated Italian medallists who worked in the Netherlands towards the end of Charles V.'s reign, such as Leone Leoni, Jacopo da Trezzo, Poggini and others. He is, without doubt, one of the foremost sixteenth century Medallists of his country.

JONS (Brit.). Forger of coins, mentioned by Burns (The Coinage of Scotland, 1887). “About the year 1860 a watchmaker named Jons, residing in Dunfermline, contrived to obtain impressions of early Scottish coins, both in silver and gold, and executed dies in imitation of these pieces. Some of the forgeries thus fabricated, more particularly those of the portrait Testoons and Half-testoons of Mary, are of clumsy execution, and are readily detected by any one familiar with the genuine coins... Fortunately, like most other fabricators of old coins, Jons was not greatly distinguished by his numismatic knowledge. These forgeries of his passed at first with many, with the less suspicion, from the circumstance that they were struck, instead of cast coins, thus differing from the older and better known fabrications of early Scottish money. The only respect in which the supposititious pieces of Jons are valuable is, that they are struck upon genuine British silver and gold coins of modern issue, well beaten out. Letters or numerals of the genuine coins thus struck over may sometimes be observed peeping out from below the fictitious superposed impressions. The Dunfermline forgeries, even by those unacquainted with the authentic coins, may be detected by their peculiar hardness and newness of surface, by their stiffness of execution, and by the absence on them of those natural indentations observable on early hammered coins, more particularly on the long lines of the cross upon the reverses”.

J. which he has noticed on the medal in question.

JOUANIN, CHARLES VICTOR (French). Contemporary Gem-engraver, born at Paris; pupil of Lequien. At the Salon of 1863, he exhibited a cameo in agate-onyx, representing a Dog playing with a Tortoise, and in 1874, a bas-relief in sardonyx, The Death of Hippolytus, after C. Vernet; — Charles XV., &c.; — 1886. Shell cameos with various Portraits.

JOUANNIN, JULIEN MARIE (French) (.. 1798-1811). Medallist and Gem-engraver of the early part of the nineteenth century. In 1809, he obtained the second Grand Prix de Rome for his competitive gem representing " Mars followed by Victory". The only other gem by him I find a mention of is that exhibited at the Salon of 1831, the subject of which is “Cupid sharpening his Darts”, after Robert Lefèvre.

Bust of Napoleon I.

Amongst Jouannin's medallic works are : 1798, Conquest of Egypt (obv. only, illustrated); — 1805, Schools of Medicine (R. sev. var.); — 1810, Marriage of Napoleon with Marie-Louise (R.); — 1811, Birth of the King of Rome (R.).

JOUVENEL, ADOLPHE CHRISTIAN (Belg.). Sculptor and Medallist, born at Lille on the 10th May, 1798, died at Brussels on the 9th September, 1867. He was the son of the Sculptor and Medallist Jean Baptiste Clément Jouvenel, and pupil of Rude.

In 1846, Jouvenel undertook the publication of a Series of Portrait-medals of the celebrities of his country. This collection was to comprise a first set of 25 bronze medals of 45 mill. in diameter, to be issued one each month at the price of 5 Francs. The prospectus of this Medallic series describes it thus : “ Histoire populaire et métallique des grands hommes de la Belgique, ou collection de médailles représentant leurs portraits, exécutées d’après les monuments les plus authentiques et enrichies d’inscriptions historiques sur leur vie, leur caractère, leurs actions ou leurs ouvrages, gravées et éditées par Ad. Jouvenel, graveur en médailles du Roi.”

In 1847 the artist took part in the competition of the Belgian Monetary commission and obtained a prize of 1000 Francs, with the title of Engraver to the King and a membership of the Royal Academy of Sciences, Letters and Fine Arts of Belgium.

No less than seventy-five medals are known by this Engraver : 1818. Jeton de Présence for the Members of the Regency of Brussels ; — 1824. Medal for the Construction of Brussels Hospital ; — 1825. Jubilee of St. Romwald at Malines ; — 1826. Clinical School of Brussels ; — 1828. Masonic medal, on the Death of M. Honorez ; — 1829. Protection given by the King to Arts and Sciences ; — 1830. Series of twelve Portrait-medals and Jetons of celebrated Belgians: Juste-Lipse; — Margaret of Austria (illustrated); — Dodonaeus; — Jean sans Peur; — Charles V.; — Van Dyck; — Vesalius; — P. P. Rubens; — Stevin; — Philip the Good; — Duquesnoy; — Albert and Isabella; — 1850. Medal of the Law on Public Teaching of 1. May 1850; — Consecration of the Church of St. John and Nicholas at Schaerbeek; — Death of Queen Louise-Marie; — 1851. Charles Rogier; — Frère Orban; — H. R. H. Philip, Count of Flanders, President of the Central Belgian Agricultural Society (2 var.); — Medal of the National Bank; — 1855. J. P. Stevens; — Ferd. Jos. Nicolay; — Armand de Perceval; — 1856. Ch. Rogier, President of the Artistic and Literary Club of Brussels; — 25th Anniversary of the King's reign; — 1859. P. F. X. de Ram, Rector of Louvain University; — 1859. J. F. Loos, Burgomaster of Antwerp; — 1860. Charles de Brouckère, Burgomaster of Brussels; — Frère-Orban, Finance Minister; — 1862. The King returns to Brussels; — 1862. Death of King Leopold I.; — F. J. Geelhand de Merxem (on the occasion of the purchase by the State of his collection of medals); — 1866. J. B. Madou, painter of Brussels; — 1866. General Baron F. Emm. Chazal, Minister of State; — Roland de Lassus de Lattre; — Schola “ Medica practica”, Brussels, 1833; — Royal Belgian Academy of Medicine, 1841; — Seal of the Royal Academy of Medicine; — Prize Medal of William I. of Holland; — Prize Medal of the Royal Horticultural Society of Malines, 1841, &c.

Portrait-Jeton of Margaret of Austria.

Both Jouvenel and Constant Jéhotte had intended to publish a Medallic Gallery of Belgian Celebrities &c., but either from want of support or other reasons, they did not complete their task. Jouvenel executed a series of twelve medals towards his, and Jéhotte even fewer, but I have not been able to ascertain the exact number.

JOUVENEL, JEAN BAPTISTE CLÉMENT (Belg.). Father of Ad. Jouvenel. Sculptor and Medallist, born at Liège in 1773 or 1774. Guioth ascribes four medals to him : 1817. “Jeton de Présence” of the Regency of Antwerp; — 1818, Arms of the Kingdom; — 1830. Souvenir of the Exhibition of National Industry (jeton); — 1846. Medal for the Voluntary Firemen of Tournay; — Royal Belgian Academy of Medicine (sev. var.).

On one of this engraver's medals I have noticed the signature :

JOUVENEL FILS

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — As above.

JOUY (French). Sculptor and Gem-engraver of the fourth quarter of the eighteenth century. He took part in the exhibition of the Royal Academy of 1793. Chavignerie quotes the following works by this artist, who held the title of Sculptor and Gem-engraver to Monsieur, the King's brother : 1774, Portrait of Henry IV., carnelian; — Another, cut in onyx; — Cerberus chained by Hercules, carnelian; — Head of Minerva, &c.

M. Babelon remarks that posterity has done well to forget Jouy's work.

JOY, ALBERT BRUCE- (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medalist, born at Dublin, who from time to time has exhibited Medals and Portrait-plaques at the Royal Academy : 1897. Mrs Bruce-Joy; — Frank Griffin, of New York; — 1898. Elspeth, daughter of Lord Archibald Campbell; — 1899. Miss Elspeth Campbell, medallion in silver; — The late Archbishop of Canterbury; — 1901. T. Cyril Bruce Joy, plaque in silver (illustrated in The Studio, XXIV, p. 58); — 1903. Major-General Sir Edward Hutton, K. C. M. G., medallion in silver; — Mrs Leake, medallion in silver; — Dr Sir Humphrey Davy; — Portrait of a Young Lady; — 1904. Portrait-medallion of Aubin Trevor Battye Esq.; — Sir George Gabriel Stokes Bart., F. R. S.

JOWSIE, ROBERT (Brit.). A merchant of Edinburgh, to whom, in conjunction with Thomas Foulis, goldsmith, the "profits and casualties" of the Edinburgh Mint were let on the 2nd August 1598 for a period of six years at an annual rent of £ 5000, or 7500 Merks. Under this contract a coinage of Riders and Half-riders was issued in 1598, 1599, 1601.

JUDIN, SAMUEL or SAMOILA (Russ.). Medallist of the second half of the eighteenth century. Nagler erroneously places the date of his activity between 1704 and 1740, and gives his signature as S. IOU. or S. IU. Iversen calls him SAMUEL JUDITSCH, and says that he was born in 1730 at St. Petersburg, and was still living in 1800, when he was in receipt of a pension. He entered the School of Engraving at the St. Petersburg Mint in 1741, and in 1762 we find both Judin and Iwanoff as official Medallists. The first signed work of Judin appears to be a Rouble of Peter III. (illustrated) and he is the author of the following medals : Commemoration of the Foundation of St. Andrew ; — Annihilation of the Strelitz dynasty ; — Peace of Carlowitz ; — Institution of Colleges ; — also of some copies, after other Medallists : Birth of Peter the Great ; — Accession of Peter I. ; — Creation of the Russian Fleet ; — Capture of Azow (2 var.); — Capture of Schlüsselburg; — Capture of Narva; — Battle of Poltava (2 var.); — Capture of Pernau; — Battle of Pelkinen; — Capture of Nyschlot; — The four Fleets meeting at Bornholm; — Peter the Great's Visit to the Paris Mint; — Portrait-medal of Empress Anne; — Portrait-medal of Empress Elizabeth, 1761; — Conclusion of Peace between Russia and Sweden 1790, etc.

Rouble of Peter III., 1762.

Durand observes that this artist's medal on the Battle of Poltava has placed him in the front rank of medallists.

JUNIO THALATIONI, C. (Roman). Probably a Seal and Gem-engraver, who also cut coin-dies, during the first century B.C. The Rev. Hands in an article published in Spink's Numismatic Circular, col. 2899 on "The Denarii of the Roman Republic considered as specimens of art" remarks: "From the similarity of work on the seals and the coins we are led to expect that both kinds of work were undertaken by the same craftsmen or artists and this is confirmed by certain inscriptions quoted in Facciolati Lex, sub. voce "sigillaricius", and "flatuarius"; for instance, we have the name of such an artist in the inscrip. ap. Grueb. 638.6 C. Junio Thalationi, C. Maecenatis liberto flatuario sigillariario, and again, other such names quoted from Don. Cl. 8, n. 15 T. Flavio T. F. Largonio fabro, flatuario sigillariario and again, ibid. 61 C. Sellius Onesimus flatuarius de via sacra. The name or word "flatuarius" literally means one who casts metals, but it was evidently continued by an improper use of the word long after casting had been given up in the mints".

KACHEL, LUDWIG (Germ.). Medallist and Mint-engraver at Karlsruhe, circa 1826-1874. Some of his medals are signed K, others L. Kachel. In 1834, he was entrusted by the Grand Duke of Baden with the execution of a medal on the consecration of the monument, placed in the chapel of the castle of Pforzheim, in honour of the 400 Pforzheimers who fell at Wimpfen. He is also the author of a medal with portrait of Ludwig, Grand Duke of Baden, and  $\mathcal{R}$ ., the Karlsruhe mint, 1826. A Kronenthaler of Baden, 1836, struck to commemorate the creation of the Zollverein is signed K on  $\mathcal{R}$ ., and a Portrait-medal of Prince Karl Egon II. of Fürstenberg and Consort Amalie, on their silver wedding, 1843, L. Kachel.

L. Kachel was born on 18. August 1791 at Ludwigsburg and died on 7. February 1878. His artistic career extended over a very long period; before 1816, the artist was employed in a private capacity; in that year he was appointed Assistant-engraver at Mannheim, in 1824, second Mint-warden at the same mint, in 1826, Mint-warden at Karlsruhe; nominated Privy-Councillor in 1836; and retired on a pension in 1874.

KAA (Greek). Coin-engraver's signature which is met with, sometimes also in the still more abbreviated form, K, on currency of Heracleia, Metapontum, Tarentum and Thurium, circ. B.C. 345-334. It generally occurs on types of great merit, and on some silver Staters of Heracleia, Metapontum and Tarentum, it is associated with the signature of the engraver ΑΡΙΣΤΟΞΕΝΟΣ.

Dr Arthur Evans has been the first to recognize an artist's signature in the inscription KAA, K (Horsemen of Tarentum, p. 54 sqq.) and M. M. P. Vlasto has since supplemented our information on the subject (Journal international d'archéologie numismatique, p. 104 sqq.).

The accompanying list of the artist KAA's work is based upon the conclusions of the above-named writers.

HERACLEIA

The artist KAA, who, with his associate Aristoxenos, succeeded Φ, the originator of the Herakles type on Heracleian coins, was probably employed in cutting coin-dies at Heracleia between B.C. 345 and 334. To that same period belong his Metapontine types, and probably also his Tarentine and possibly Thurian issues. All these show a remarkable similarity of style and treatment.

A conjunction of the signatures KAA, ΦΙ and ΑΠΙ occurs at about the same period on coins of Tarentum.

2. Α. Didrachm. Obv. ΗΡΑΚΛΗΙΩΝ. Head of Pallas to r., wearing earring, necklace, and crested Corinthian helmet, on which Skylla; behind Κ; border of dots.

Ρ. ΗΡΑΚΛΗΙΩΝ. Herakles, nude, standing, facing, holding club downwards in r. and bow in l.; over left arm, lion's skin; in field, to l., one-handed vase, beneath which, ΑΘΑ.

Weight, 121,7 grs. — B. M. Cat., p. 229, n° 33.

METAPONTUM

The coins of Metapontum signed KAA and K are all remarkable in style and were struck between B.C. 345 and 334. The latest are probably those exhibiting on obv. the laurel-crowned head of Zeus,

K

K... (Greek). Engraver's signature (possibly that of the artist KAA, q. v.), already noticed by Raoul Rochette on a Thurian Didrachm in his collection.

Κ. Didrachm (Circ. B. C. 390-350). Obv. Head of Pallas to r., wearing Athenian helmet adorned with the monster Scylla hurling a stone; on the flap, the letter K.

Raoul Rochette, op. cit., Pl. III, 23. — Brit. Mus. Cat., Italy, p. 292, n° 53.

Raoul Rochette mentions that he possessed a rare coin of Thurium, perhaps unique, "on which the initial letter K could be seen engraved at once on Minerva's helmet and on the rump of the bull", and he suggests that the K might perhaps stand for the Velian artist, Kleodoros's signature, which supposition however rests on no solid basis.

Various other Thurian coins bear the signature K on the neck-piece of helmet of Pallas.

L. FORRER. — Biographical Notices of Medallists. — III.

This beautiful type of Dionysos has much in common with the head of Apollo or Helios on the Tarentine gold  $\frac{1}{12}$  Staters and silver Diobols struck by the Molossian Alexander in Italy.

8.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Oak-crowned head of the Dodonaean Zeus; behind, fulmen.

Carelli, Pl. CLII, 54. — Evans, Horsemen &c., p. 82.

Weight: 119,8 grs. — Vlasto, op. cit., Pl. 5, 15. B. M. Cat., Italy, p. 249, n° 89. — Evans, Sale Catalogue, 1898.

10.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Didrachm. Similar, without poppy-head on  $\mathcal{R}$ .

Seltman Collection. — Vlasto, op. cit., Pl. 5, 19.

A comparison of these heads of Zeus with that on the Tarentine gold Staters of Alexander of Epirus leaves no doubt that the artist KAA was the engraver of both the Metapontine and Tarentine coins.

With the signature K, Mr. Vlasto illustrates two very rare specimens which are described in Fiorelli's Catalogue of the Santangelo Collection at Naples.

11.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Helmeted head to l. of young hero (probably "Tharragoras"); in front, ΘΑΡΡΑΓΟΡΑΣ; to r., K.

Vlasto, op. cit., Pl. 2, 2. — Fiorelli, Santangelo Cat., n° 4093.

The inscription ONA which occurs on the  $\mathcal{R}$ . of this coin is also found on a Didrachm of Tarentum, with obv. by KAA (Evans, Period IV. type H, n° 4), which constitutes one more proof that the same engraver worked also at Tarentum, and that here he signed en artiste K.

12.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv.  $\Delta$ AMATHP. Head of Demeter to l., wearing corn-wreath: behind, K.

TARENTUM

Both Dr Evans and M. Vlasto have dwelt at length on the question whether the signature KAA or K on coins of Tarentum refers to a magistrate or to an engraver, and they have proved beyond doubt that, not only KAA was a die-cutter, but also that he is the same artist who worked at Heracleia and Metapontum.

Some of the Tarentine productions of KAA are signed, others can only be ascribed to him on account of similarity of work with other known dies by him. Of course, in case of unsigned coins, there is always uncertainty as to their attribution.

Weight: 8,52 grammes. — De Luynes Coll<sup>n</sup>, Paris. — Vlasto, Monnaies d'or de Tarente, Pl. 1E, 1.

Varieties exist of this coin at the British and Berlin Museums, and there was one in the Ashburnham collection.

14.  $\mathcal{R}$ .  $\mathcal{A}$ .  $\frac{1}{6}$  Stater. Obv. Head of Hera, without the veil, wearing stephanê, under which the hair falls down behind in long curls; earrings and necklace; in the field, to l. K; to r., T.M.Φ: border of dots.

Santangelo, n° 2297. — Vlasto, loc. cit., Pl. 1E, 11.

Specimens are in the Museums of Vienna, Paris, Berlin, &c.

15.  $\mathcal{A}$ .  $\frac{1}{12}$  Stater. Head of Hera, as above to r.; in the field to l., T, to r. M—Φ: border of dots.

Specimens in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Naples, &c.

16. Α. Stater of Alexander of Epirus, son of Neoptolemos, struck at Tarentum (?) B.C. 334-330. Obv. Head of Zeus Dodonaeos to r., wearing oak-wreath.

℞. ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΟΥ
ΤΟΥ ΝΕΟΠΤΟΛΕΜΟΥ. Fulmen and spear-head in centre.

Weight : 8,55 grammes. — Vlasto, loc. cit., Pl. 1E, 16. — London and Paris.

This head of Zeus and that on the silver Didrachms of Matapontum (nos 8-10) are identical in style and treatment, and were probably copied from some fine contemporaneous sculpture.

17. Α.  $\frac{1}{12}$  Stater. Obv. Radiate head of Helios, three quarter-face to l.

ΑΑ

℞. Fulmen.

Weight, 0,648 grammes. — Vlasto, loc. cit., Pl. 1E, 13.

Specimens in the Vlasto and Evans Collections.

18. Α. Diobol. Obv. Radiate head of Helios, three-quarter face to l.

Weight : 1,15 grammes. — Vlasto, loc. cit., 1901, Pl. G, 17-18.

Varieties in the Vlasto, Brit. Museum, Naples Museum, &c. collections.

This type of head of Helios is evidently due to the same engraver ΚΑΑ who did the fine Didrachm of Metapontum (no 7) with three-quarter face of Dionysos, on which we find the same characteristic treatment of curls and peculiar smile, as M. Vlasto remarks.

19. Α. Didrachm (Period IV., B.C. 344-334). Obv. Nude boy crowning his horse, foreleg raised, to r.; beneath, Κ and club.

℞. Taras to l. riding on dolphin, holding trident and round shield in l. hand and kantharos in extended r.; beneath, Ω and waves : plain border.

Evans, type B, 1, Pl. iv, 1. — Carelli, cxii, 163.

20. Α. Didrachm. Obv. Nude boy crowned by flying Victory on prancing horse to r., which is embraced by another naked boy; Κ beneath horse : beaded circle.

Evans, type F, 2. Paris.

21. Α. Didrachm. Obv. Similar, but Ι beneath horse. ℞. Taras seated sideways on dolphin to l., as last, extending one-handled vase; behind, Κ.

Evans, type F, 3, Pl. iv, 5. — B. M. Cat., n° 172. — Car., CXI, 150.

22.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. As last.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Similar; K in front of Taras, and behind, a square raised tablet.

Evans, type F, 4, Pl. iv, 6. — Leake Collection.

23.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Similar, with scallop in place of tablet

Evans, type F, 5. — Car., CXI, 149.

24.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Nude horseman in crested helmet to l., holding two lances and round shield in l. hand; shield adorned with hippocamp. In front, Victory winged, clad in diploidion, advancing to l., turns half round and seizes the rearing steed by the rein and forelock; above, TAPANTINON in minute letters; in field to r. TA; beneath horse, M and KAA in minute letters.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Taras astride on dolphin to r., throwing forward l. leg., hurling dart with r., and in his l. holding two spears, while his chlamys, caught on his l. arm, streams in the wind; beneath, KAA in minute letters, and waves.

Evans, type G, 1, Pl. iv, 7. — Santangelo Collection. —
Vlasto, 1901, loc. cit., Pl. z, 7. — B. M. Cat., n° 272. —
Cf. Carelli, CXII, 107.

25.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Nude horseman on prancing horse to r., lancing downward with r. hand; behind, a large round shield and two lances: border of dots; in field to l., T; to r. A;
beneath horse, KAA

$\mathcal{R}$ . Taras astride on dolphin, holding a crested helmet between his hands, with his head slightly bowed towards it; in field, on either side, an eight-rayed star; beneath dolphin,  $\Phi$ .

Evans, type H, 1, Pl. iv, 11. — B. M. Cat., n° 213.

26.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Similar, but on  $\mathcal{R}$ . beneath dolphin, API.

Evans, type H, 2, Pl. iv, 10. — B. M. Cat., n° 210.

The API may here stand for Aristoxenos.

27.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Similar, but on  $\mathcal{R}$ . beneath dolphin, KAA.

Evans, type H, 3. — B. M. Cat., n° 211.

28.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Similar, but on  $\mathcal{R}$ . beneath dolphin, ONA.

Evans, type H, 4. — Nervegna Collection.

The inscription ONA is associated with that of K on a Metapontine Didrachm (n° 11).

29. Ῥ. Didrachm. Obv. Similar; but in field to l. A, to r. N; beneath horse KAΛ. Ῥ. As last, but no stars; beneath dolphin, KAΛ.

Evans, type H, 5, Pl. iv, 9. — Car., cxii, 159. — B. M. Cat., n° 212.

30. Ῥ. Didrachm. Obv. Similar; in field to r., N; beneath horse, KAΛ.

31. Ῥ. Didrachm. Obv. Two Dioskuri cantering to r.; above, TAPAN.....; beneath horse, KAΛ, in microscopic letters.

Evans, type K, 1. — Nervegna Collection.

32. Ῥ. Didrachm. Obv. Nude male figure standing to l., and half turning round to seize forelock and bridle of stationary horse; he holds in l. hand, which is laid on the bridle, a wreath. The horse is mounted by a naked boy; above, TAPANTINΩN; in field to l., +; to r., Δ; beneath horse, KAΛ in microscopic letters: border of dots.

Ῥ. Taras as an Ephebos riding on dolphin to r., and holding in l. hand a strung bow and two arrows, and in his r., behind him, another arrow; beneath, ΦΙ.

Evans, type L, 1, Pl. iv, 8. — Santangelo Collection. — Vlasto, loc. cit., Pl. z, 6.

Some Didrachms of Period III of Evans (Circ. B. C. 380-345) and probably belonging to the end of that period bear the shortened signature of the artist, K or Λ (Vide Evans, Horsemen of Tarentum, p. 52 sqq.).

33.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm (Period III). Obv. Nude boy ( $\alpha\mu\phi\iota\pi\pi\omicron\varsigma$ ) on horse walking to l., who holds the bridle of a second horse walking beside the other; he is crowned by a small Victory flying behind; in field to l.  $\mathbf{K}$ ; beneath horse,  $\Phi\mathbf{I}$ .

Evans, type G, 1. Pl. III, 8. — Evans Collection.

34.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Similar; no letter in field of  $\mathcal{R}$ , trident with cross-bar at top.

Evans, type G, 2. — Car. CXIV, 214.

35.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Similar.  $\mathcal{R}$ . As last, but beneath dolphin,  $\mathbf{N}$ , and in the field to r., square raised tablet (cfr. n° 20).

Evans, type G, 3. Pl. III, 7. — B. M. Cat., n° 185.

36.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Similar.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Taras astride, &c., to l., his l. hand resting on the dolphin's back, and with his r. extending one-handed vase; in field to l.  $\mathbf{K}$ ; below, waves.

Evans, type G, 4. — Car. CXIV, 213.

D<sup>r</sup> Evans points out that "in the present group of coins the initial  $\mathbf{A}$  is associated with the obverse signatures  $\mathbf{K}$  and  $\Phi\mathbf{I}$  in conjunction. This conjunction of signatures answers under an abbreviated form to the conjunction of  $\mathbf{KAA}$ ,  $\Phi\mathbf{I}$  and  $\mathbf{API}$  on a group of coins which presents the clearest example of artistic collaboration on the Tarentine dies... The signature  $\mathbf{K}$  undoubtedly belongs to the same engraver, who at a slightly later date attaches his signature to some of the noblest of the Tarentine types, indifferently with the initial  $\mathbf{K}$  and the fuller form  $\mathbf{KAA}$ ".

37.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Horseman advancing to l. in crested helmet, holding reins in r. hand, shield and spear in l.; beneath horse,  $\Delta$ .

$\mathcal{R}$ . Taras holding trident on shoulder; beneath,  $\mathbf{K}$  and waves.

Evans, type H. — B. M. Cat., n° 193. — Vlasto, 1901, loc. cit., Pl. 2, 5.

On a Didrachm of Period V of Evans (B.C. 334-302) we also meet with the signature  $\mathbf{KAA}$ .

Evans, type C, 1. — Cfr. B. M. Cat., n° 271.

D<sup>r</sup> Evans' judicious remarks and reasons for considering the signatures  $\mathbf{KAA}$ ,  $\Phi\mathbf{I}$ ,  $\mathbf{API}$  &c. as those of Engravers may be quoted here to explain their introduction into the present work: "The private character of the moneyer's industry explains how it is that the same signatures appear on the coins of different cities, it being natural that an Ἀργυροκόπος who had earned a reputation as a good engraver, should at times obtain employment even from remote quarters. But where a system of this kind prevailed and the coinage of the State, instead of issuing as at Athens from a central mint, was entrusted to private enterprise, it became the more necessary that the individual pieces should receive the guarantee of the moneyer or firm of moneyers, who had made themselves responsible for their sterling weight and standard, as well as their artistic excellence. A coiner, who was also his own die-sinker, signed in both qualities. It was open to him in some cases, if he was a great artist, to lay stress on that side of his character and sign upon a coin as he might upon a gem. But local custom, or the accident of the type he had to deal with, was not always favourable to the adoption of such a practice. In cities where private moneyers supplied the public needs, it may well have been required by law that the signature that authenticated the coin and fixed the responsibility of the individual should be made clearly manifest. So at Velia we find both Philistiōn and Kleudoros, although on one side of the coin they follow the purely artistic tradition, signing conspicuously enough on the other side with the first letters of their names, and in a style which recalls the contemporary Tarentine practice. At Tarentum itself, whether owing to special regulations on the part of the State or to natural causes inherent in the type, this seems to have been the only form of signature current, if we except some microscopic signatures of ΚΑΑ and ΦΙ.

“It is a form which emphasizes the official responsibility of the moneyer in all his capacities. But it covers his artistic qualifications; it does not exclude the possibility of his having achieved fame in other fields as an engraver, and where we find, as in the case of ΚΑΑ... of ΑΠΙ... or of ΦΙ... a signature associated with excellent work, we have as much right to place him in the rank of artistic engravers as if he had hidden his name in some part of the design.

“No one doubts that the small and concealed signatures of an earlier period, such as those represented by the great Sicilian works of the close of the fifth and beginning of the fourth century, have a purely artistic value. They belong to a time when, whether owing to the monetary system then in vogue or to other causes, it was not thought necessary for moneyers as such to attach their sign manual. When we find a signature of this kind we have a right to exclaim, “It is an engraver's signature, and therefore an artist's”. But, as we see from the Tarentine series, a practice grew up during the fourth century of engravers initialling every single piece. At times, as in the case of the Velian coins referred to, they continue or revive the older practice of interweaving their name full-length, or in an abbreviated form, with some part of the design. But even in such a case as this they usually repeat their signature in its more official form on the other side of the same coin.

“ At times, as at Thurioi, we are able to trace a regular transition from signatures of the old artistic character to the regulation stamp. But to seize on this difference of type as a proof that the later signatures are not those of the engravers of the dies is to mistake the point at issue. The truth is, that during the later period with which we are specially concerned, it is not the lack of engravers' signatures that should cause perplexity, but their abundance. There are some who, from the noble style of their designs, the gem-like finish of their work, and the fact that they were employed by different cities, evidently enjoyed an artistic reputation in their own day although they may not have signed in the older artistic fashion. There are others, such as the die-sinker who signs EY at Tarentum, who, by the evidence of their own work, have no claim to rank as artists. But to take the last-named example as a crucial test, the very grossness of the features that characterize the coins signed EY proclaims identity of handiwork. The magistrates' names that occur beneath the horses on this group of coins continually vary, but the signature in the field and the style of engraving go hand in hand ; they come in and they depart together. It is an engraver's signature, but not an artist's ”.

THURIUM

M. Vlasto has suggested that this same Engraver KAA or K may have executed some coin-dies for Thurium.

39. ℞. Didrachm. Obv. Head of Pallas to r., wearing necklace and crested Athenian helmet, on the side of which, Skylla, holding trident ; on flap of helmet, K.

B. M. Cat., Italy, p. 293, n° 19. — Vlasto, 1901, loc. cit., Pl. G', n° 20.

The engraver K has placed in the hand of Skylla, instead of the usual oar or stone a trident which is identical with that seen in the hand of

KARLSTEEN, ARFVID (Swede). (1654-1718). Vide Vol. I, p. 212.

We read in Bolzenthall, p. 237 : “ The Court of Stockholm employed an artist, Arvid Karlsten, who in his time received excessive distinction. Born at Karlskoga in Vermland, 1647, he had in his early youth made himself so well acquainted with the Art that he was enabled to pursue his studies in foreign countries; in Paris under Varin, and in London under John Roettier. After he had finished them, he obtained celebrity in Berlin and Dresden, but he however left Germany for love of his native country. He was much esteemed and was soon after raised to the nobility (1692); this he truly deserved as he was so much above his contemporaries. He highly respected his teacher Varin, although his style approaches in a singular manner to that of John Roettier. As to the excellence of his works, it appears to us that he was not equal to his countryman Raymund Faltz; but like him he excelled in engraving portraits, wherein both were wonderfully successful.

Portrait-medal of Arvid Karlsten, by Hedlinger.

Karlsten undertook a series of medals of the kings of Sweden, beginning with Gustavus Wasa and ending with Charles XII. They are about 2 inches in size. His remaining works relate to kings of Sweden, under whom he lived, to Louis XIV. of France, to the Elector Frederick III. of Brandenburg, to Ernest Augustus of Hanover, and to many private persons, &c. This artist was 64 years old when he died (1718).”

Karlsten's usual signature is AK or AK. It occurs also on copper-plate engravings and miniature paintings. His medal series of Swedish Kings from Gustavus I. to Charles II. is well known.

This celebrated artist is the author of the following medals : GUSTAVUS I., War and Peace medals (4 var.); — Commemoration of the Reformation; — The King's son, hereditary Prince; — ERIC XIV., Naval Victory over the Danes; — The King's Motto; — Astrological Studies; — Abdication, 1568; — JOHN III., The two brothers John and

Charles; — Coronation; — SIGISMUND of Poland, King of Sweden (2 var.); — CHARLES IX., Commemoration of the Confession of Augsburg; — The Constitution (2 var.); — Portrait-medal, dated 1606; — GUSTAV ADOLPHUS II., Peace with Denmark; — Marriage with Maria Eleonora of Brandenburg; — Battle of Lützen; Accession of Queen Christina, Portrait-medal; — CHRISTINA, Accession; — Matri Castrorum; — Naval Victory over the Danes, 1644; — Peace of Westphalia (2 var.); — Coronation 20. In 1687, the artist was paid 759 livres by the Paris Medal Mint for dies supplied from Stockholm (3 obvs. and 3 Rzs. of medals).

Ammon states that Karlsteen was first apprenticed at the Stockholm mint, and that some of his first productions were coin-dies for the mint of Alvesta. According to the same authority, he learned engraving in steel from a Knight at the Danish Court, H. Von Falkenstein.

KAUTSCH, HEINRICH (Austr.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Prague in 1859, now residing at Paris. His father was a Goldsmith, under whose tuition he gained the first notions of art. He continued his studies at the city schools of Prague, under Franz von Lenbach, 1904 (obv.).

Professors Popp, Mentzel and Schulz, and already won prizes in 1876 and 1878; afterwards he became a pupil of the Industrial Arts' School at Vienna under Professors Schwartz and König. On his leaving Vienna, the young artist visited the chief art centres of Italy, France and Germany, and made a stay of some duration in each of these countries. Returning to Prague in 1882 he accepted a professorship at the Imperial School of Decorative Arts there; in 1888, he was called to Budweis (Bohemia) to reorganise the Museum of Decorative Arts, and while there he wrote his work “Goldschmiede-Arbeiten des XV. bis XIX. Jahrhunderts” and founded a school for drawing and sculpture. In 1889, he settled at Paris. At the Salon of 1897 he was rewarded for a bust of the Emperor Francis Joseph I. which he exhibited. In 1893, he was a member of the Jury of Fine Arts at the Chicago World's Fair, and official Reporter for Austria on the Fine Arts and Decorative Arts. At the Universal Exhibition of Paris, 1900, he was Vice-President of the Jury (Classe 97), and a member of the Bosnia-Herzegovina Commission. In 1895, he executed another marble bust of the Emperor

Franz von Lenbach (R.).

Francis Joseph, which now adorns the Austrian Embassy. He has been on several Universal Exhibition juries, and he it was who so successfully organised the French section at the Düsseldorf Exhibition of Fine Arts, in 1904.

The artist is a Knight of the Legion of Honour, also of the Order of Francis Joseph, and holds numerous other foreign decorations.

Many of his medals are exhibited at the Luxembourg Museum in Paris.

KELDERE, JEAN VAN DER (Belg.). Goldsmith and Seal-engraver at Brussels, 1480.

KELLEN, DAVID VAN DER (Dutch). Medallist, born at Velzen, 22. September 1764; died at Utrecht, 16. December 1825. Apprenticed first to a goldsmith he learned the art of die-sinking at Amsterdam, where he made the acquaintance of J. G. Holtzhey. He executed a number of medals of William I., King of Holland, and events of his reign, and is also the author of Portrait-pieces of General Chassé; — J. C. J. van Speyk; — Gysbert Karel, Count of Hogendorp, 1813; — Medal on the Jubilee of the Renswoude Institute, 1806; — Prize Medal of the Dutch Oeconomical Society, etc.

The Engraver worked at the Utrecht Mint, first under the direction of Holtzhey, 1806 and 1813-1825. He engraved in 1806 a Pattern Ducat of Louis Napoleon, and cut coin-dies of King William I., for the chief-engraver Michaut; also a medal on the Visit of William I. to the Utrecht Mint, 1814. In 1819 he was appointed Chief-engraver.

KELLEN, DAVID VAN DER (Dutch). Son of the preceding; born at Amsterdam on the 23rd of September 1804, died on the 30th of March 1879; Medallist and Mint-engraver at Utrecht. His first teacher was his father, David van der Kellen Sr, who filled at the Mint of Utrecht, under Louis Napoleon, for a short time, and again from 1813 to 1825, the post of Coin-engraver. He then studied at the Technical Schools of Utrecht and under H. van Oort and B. van Straten. On his father's death, in 1825, he was called to succeed him at the Utrecht Mint, and remained in office until 1874, when he resigned for reasons of health; he had been since 1854 Chief-engraver of the Dutch coins. Numerous distinctions and decorations have been conferred upon him during his long artistic career.

David van der Kellen Junior's activity was prodigious. The coins he cut are very numerous, and he executed besides a large number of medals.

Most of the silver currency of William II. was engraved by him, some of the 2  $\frac{1}{2}$  gulden pieces are signed: VAN DER KELLEN F., others, VDK, but the Rijksdaalder struck in 1839 with the bust of William I. was the work of I. P. Schouberg, who was also entrusted with the preparing of the dies of the gold coinage of William II. Under William III., I. P. Schouberg cut the silver coins, and David van der Kellen, the gold. The latter executed also the Dutch East Indian coins, in silver and copper, struck in compliance with the order of 1852; those of 1834 having been cut by P. W. van der Goor.

William II., 1848, 2  $\frac{1}{2}$  Gulden, by David van der Kellen.

KELLER, DANIEL (Germ.). Mint-warden at Kitzingen, 1622.

KELLER, JOHANN BALTHASAR (Swiss). A celebrated Founder, born at Zurich in 1638, died at Paris in 1702. He was first apprenticed as a Goldsmith and is said to have been very clever at chasing. On the invitation of his elder brother, JOHANN JAKOB (born at Zurich 1635, † at Colmar 1700), who was already in the service of Louis XIV., he went over to France, and for many years the two brothers carried on their profession in Paris, partly in an official capacity.

They were employed to cast guns in the Arsenal, and numerous statues which yet adorn the Parterre d'eau and surrounding avenues in the Versailles gardens. For the city of Lyons, they executed a statue of Louis XIV. which was erected on the Place Bellecour, and for Paris, Johann Balthasar did that of the Place Vendôme, which was demolished at the Revolution.

"Les Keller" were recognized during their life-time as the most important artistic founders of France, and in our own days a certain kind of casting metal composed of 90% of copper and 10% of alloy is known as "fonte Keller".

Johann Balthasar Keller is said to have cast reproductions of large medallions and plaques. His signature J. B. KELLER occurs on a reproduction of G. Dupré's Portrait-medal of Francesco IV. Gonzaga, Duke of Mantua, 1654 (described by Mazerolle, Les Médailleurs français, II, p. 134), and other productions are signed: KELLER or K.

Herr F. O. Pestalozzi however expresses doubt as to the correct attribution of these medals, and writes to me: "Die Angabe bei Füssli, dass der Giesser J. Balth. Keller ursprünglich Goldschmid gewesen sei (u. somit die fragliche Medaille—zumal im Alter von erst 16 Jahren—gegossen haben könnte) ist mir sehr zweifelhaft geworden, denn er fehlt ganz in den zürcherischen Meisterbüchern. Hat er den Beruf gelernt, musste er aus der Lehre genommen worden sein, oder dann liegt Verwechslung vor, mit Goldschmid Hans Balthasar, der 1590 Meister geworden ist. Ob dieser die Medaille gegossen haben kann, ist natürlich auch wieder dubios".

"Les deux Keller", says De La Tour, Jean Jacques et Jean Balthazar, ont donné des fontes irréprochables; il y a, faites d'un bronze qu'on croirait antique et signées d'eux, des médailles de Guillaume Dupré que celui-ci n'aurait pas désavouées".

KELS, HANS (Austr.). Modeller and Wood-engraver of Kaufbauern, and Augsburg, circa 1537-1566. Domanig reproduces two fine Portrait-medallions in box-wood, of the Emperors Maximilian I. and Charles V. with King Ferdinand I., one dated 1534, and the other, larger, 1540.

According to Dr Habich, his name is first mentioned in documents of 1537; and we learn that in 1541 he obtained at Augsburg the prerogative of a Sculptor; he was still living in 1565, but died before the 1st of April 1566.

Hans Kels ranks amongst the most prominent Portrait-carvers of the sixteenth century. His signature is found on a beautiful Draught-board of the Ambraser Collection and on a box-wood medallion with portraits of the Emperor Charles V., King Ferdinand and their consorts; also on the two medallions described by Domanig, and further on the following works: Medal of Adam Oefner, bust to r., signed HK (in the style of Hagenauer); — Medal of Matthäus Schwarz (signed HK, of different work); — Box-wood Models of Laux Kreler and his wife Elizabeth; and perhaps also: wood Medallion of Georg Fugger; and Portrait-piece of Johann Fichard and his wife, 1547.

KILIAN, LUCAS (Germ.). Gem-engraver of Augsburg, of the first half of the seventeenth century. He has been pompously styled “the German Pyrgoteles”. His productions however are quite ordinary.

KIMON (Greek). Coin-engraver at Himera, about the middle years of the fifth century B.C. Dr Arthur Evans discovered his signature on a Tetradrachm of Himera, struck circa 450 B.C., a specimen of which is in the Museo Nazionale at Naples (Catalogo, etc. : Medagliere, 4429).

℞. Tetradrachm. Obv. Quadriga to l., crowned by Nike; horses trotting; in the ex. : retrograde inscription NOIA9EMI divided by cock to l.

“It is evident”, observes Dr Evans, “that the Kimon who signs on these coins cannot be the artist of that name who attaches his signature to the fine tetradrachms and pentekontalitra of Syracuse struck during the last two decades of the fifth century B.C. But in view of the well-known Greek practice of repeating personal names in alternate generations and the prevalence of hereditary succession in artistic industries, of which we have a striking numismatic example in the case of the celebrated group of Syracusan die-sinkers, the probability that the earlier Kimon was the grandfather of the later becomes considerable.”

Prof. Holm does not reject the suggestion offered by Dr Evans as to the relationship between the earlier and the later Kimon, and quite adopts the idea that the latter artist was not a Syracusan, but probably originated from one of the towns of Southern Italy, perhaps Himera, or Messana, where he apparently worked, or even Neapolis, from whose coinage he borrowed some of his Syracusan types.

KIMON (Greek). One of the most celebrated Coin-engravers of ancient times, probably a Neapolitan, who flourished at Syracuse towards the end of the fifth century B.C. and beginning of the fourth century. His fame stands equal with that of Evaenetos, and by some his work is preferred to that of his famous colleague at the Syracusan Mint, as more dignified and bold.

The earliest Syracusan Dekadrachms (so-called "Medallions") are by Kimon. They present a distinct type of female head on obv., that of the nymph Arethusa, wearing hair in a net with head-band, on the frontlet of which the artist's signature  $\begin{matrix} \text{KI} \\ \text{M} \end{matrix}$  sometimes occurs.

They were probably issued on the occasion of the first celebration of the Assinarian Games in B.C. 412, and, as the "Damareteion" issue was called for by the Syracusan Victory at Himera, so these so-called "Medallions" by Kimon and Evaenetos were struck after the Victory at Assinaros.

1.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Dekadrachm. Obv.  $\Sigma\text{ΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ}$ . Head of Arethusa to l., wearing earring in the form of three drops falling from a calyx, and pearl-necklace; the hair is enclosed in net, band tied in front above; on the ampyx of the sphenone  $\begin{matrix} \text{KI} \\ \text{M} \end{matrix}$ ; relief somewhat low; around, four dolphins: border of dots.

$\mathcal{R}$ . Quadriga to l., driven by charioteer holding goad and reins; horses in high action; above, Nike flying to r. about to crown charioteer; in ex. a ledge or step, on and against which is placed a suit of defensive armour, consisting of helmet and shield, cuirass and greaves; beneath,  $\text{ΑΘΛΑ}$ ; on the exergual line,  $\text{KIMΩΝ}$ .

Weight : 667 grs. — B. M. Cat. Sicily, p. 175, n° 200. — Evans, Syracusan Medallions, Pl. I, n° 5. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 12, n° 141 (reproduced). — Hill, Coins of Ancient Sicily, Frontispiece, n° 1. — Head, Coins of Syracuse, Pl. IV, 6. — Macdonald, Catalogue of Greek Coins in the Hunterian Collection, I, p. 228, n° 63.

Mr. Hill observes that on this group of Kimon's Dekadrachms "the head of the nymph Arethusa is marked by a greater restraint and severity of manner than is apparent on his other works, and is also treated in somewhat lower relief"; and he adds: "Its relation to the head on a tetradrachm by Euainetos (Vide Biog. Dict., vol. II, p. 44, n° 21) is obvious. The nymph wears her hair in a net, and her earring has the form of three drops falling from a calyx. The hair is treated with a certain amount of exuberance at the sides of the head, but otherwise the work is fairly reserved. In comparison with Kimon's later types there is a lack of modelling in the face; the curve of the profile taken from the nose upwards and carried on over the frontlet is not pleasing; and the angle made with the throat by the excessively full chin — almost verging on doubleness — is another point which affords excuse for fault-finding. If this is, as it seems to be, Kimon's earliest dekadrachm type, some of the weak points — especially the flatness of the modelling — may be due to the largeness of the scale, which was strange to the artist".

As already noticed, the earliest of Kimon's dekadrachm types fits into the fine tetradrachm of Evaenetos' "first manner"; the position of the horses' heads on R. is quite identical, but some alterations have taken place in the treatment of the female head on obv.; the sphenone is changed into a narrow band with a net, which encloses the hair at the back. The same idea had already been made use of on the older tetradrachms, of the type of Evans, Pl. I, n° 2; Head, Pl. III, n° 5; B. M. Cat., p. 162, n° 124. But, as Dr Holm remarks, Kimon's treatment of the net is more artistic in that the baggy form end of the sphenone disappears, and the hair is disposed with more freedom over the temples and forehead, whilst the regularly combed hair from the partition takes less room.

Kimón kept to that type, except for some gradual modifications.

The next type of Kimón's Dekadrachms, designated by Dr Evans as Type II, is characterised, observes Dr Holm, by the higher chignon, freer neck, reduction in size of the chin, greater prominence of the forehead, lending the physiognomy a greater force of expression, reminding one of the coins of Neapolis.

The issue of this type of Dekadrachms must have closely followed that of Type I (probably B.C. 410).

2. Æ. Dekadrachm. Obv. ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ. Head of Arethusa to l., wearing single earring and pearl-necklace; hair in net, band not tied above; on the frontlet of head-band, κ; around, four dolphins.

℞. Quadriga, &c., in Kimón's usual style, as on n° 1, with the inscription, ΑΘΛΑ visible beneath panoply.

Evans, Syr. Med., Pl. II, n° 1. — B.M.Cat., Sicily, n°s 205, 206. — Hill, op. cit., Frontispiece, n° 2 (Paris specimen).

3. Æ. Dekadrachm (Type II). Similar, with ΚΙ on band; it is uncertain whether the inscription existed also on the dolphin beneath the head. (Description from an impression kindly communicated to me by M. M. P. Vlasto.)

“The comparatively amiable model of Kimón's earlier type has given place”, observes Mr. Hill, “to a haughty beauty with a distinctly sneering expression. The relief is much higher, and there is more modelling to be seen in the features. The curve of the forehead is broken by allowing some of the locks of hair to stray from under the frontlet. The earring is a single drop, instead of the earlier flower-like ornament. The whole design is more restless, chiefly owing to the profusion of small curling locks of hair; it is true that they are hardly more numerous than on the earlier coins, but they are so treated as to attract more attention”.

To this Type II of Kimón's Dekadrachms corresponds a Tetradrachm of exquisite style, with profile head of the Nymph in high relief.

4.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Tetradrachm (Circa B.C. 410). Obv.  $\Sigma\Upsilon\text{P}\text{A}\text{K}\text{O}\Sigma\text{I}\text{O}\text{N}$ . Head of Arethusa to l., resembling in style n° 2; but with band tied above; around, four dolphins: border of dots.

Rv. Quadriga to l., driven by male charioteer holding goad and reins; horses prancing; above, Nike flying to r. about to crown charioteer; in ex.; dolphin to l.: border of dots.

Weight: 269 grs. — B.M.Cat., Sicily, p. 176, n° 207.
— Head, op. cit., Pl. IV, 8. — Evans, op. cit., Pl. II, 2. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 8, n° 95. — Hill, op. cit., Pl. VI, n° 16.

The early coins of Kimon (Type I) served as prototypes for Carthaginian coins with  $Z\iota\zeta$ , the Rv of which reminds us of that signed by the artist  $\text{EY}\Theta$ . Coins of Motya (Evans, Pl. II, 5, 6, etc.) are imitations of Kimon's Type II.

To this same period, circa B.C. 408, soon after the Syracusan Victory over Athens, must belong also the earliest Gold Stater of Kimon, which is in close connection with his dekadrachm and tetradrachm of Type II.

Rv. ( $\Sigma\Upsilon\text{P}\text{A}$ ). Herakles kneeling on r. knee, and strangling lion with both arms; behind, club; above, ivy-leaf (?).

Weight; 89 grs. — Evans, Syr. Med., Pl. II, n° 3. — B.M.Cat., Sicily, p. 170, n° 168. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 14, 161. — Hill, op. cit., Pl. VII, n° 4.

On other specimens, the signature  $\text{KI}$  is found (Paris Cabinet). This coin was imitated by Evaenetos.

In chronological sequence, we now, according to Dr Evans, meet with Kimon's Dekadrachms of Type III.

6.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Dekadrachm (Circ. B.C. 406). Obv. Head of Arethusa, to l., of somewhat different style to n° 2; K on band which is narrower; KIMΩN on dolphin. Fine style.

℞. As before.

Evans, op. cit., Pl. II, 8. — B.M. Cat., Sicily, p. 176, n° 201. — Head, op. cit., Pl. IV, 7. — Holm, Geschichte, Siciliens, III, Pl. v, 8. — Hill, op. cit., Frontispiece, n° 3. — Weil, Künstlerinschriften, Pl. III, 9.

The British Museum specimen, n° 201, is not signed on frontlet of head-band (vide B.M. Cat., p. 176, fig. 201).

7.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Dekadrachm (Circ. B.C. 403). Obv. Similar head, but of coarser workmanship; K on band, and KIMΩN on dolphin beneath neck.

℞. As before.

Evans, Syr. Med., Pl. 15, n° 5. — B.M. Cat., op. cit., n°s 202, 203. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 12, n° 142. — Macdonald, op. cit., I, Pl. xvi, 19.

On Type III, the chignon is again lower and resembles Type I, in the disposition of the hair.

“ The Dekadrachms described as Type III ”, remarks Dr Evans, Syr. Med., p. 82, “ exhibiting a portraiture of Arethusa, which is simply the profile rendering of the same queenly countenance that looks forth from his masterpiece — the tetradrachm with the facing head and the inscription ΑΡΕΘΟΥΣΑ, struck about 409 B. C. These coins represent the supreme development of Kimon’s style, and the individuality of features and expression clearly indicate that they are both of them taken from the same living model, whose beautiful but distinctly haughty face haunts all Kimon’s later presentations of the tutelary Nymph, in much the same manner as the idealised heads of Andrea’s wife or Raffaele’s mistress look forth from their Madonnas ”.

The next coin in the list is Kimon’s masterpiece — “ a work immeasurably superior to his Dekadrachms — the Tetradrachm with the facing head of Arethusa ”.

8. Α. Tetradrachm (Circa B. C. 409). Obv. Head of Arethusa, three-quarter face to l., wearing earring and necklace; hair flowing in loose tresses; across her forehead, ampyx, inscribed ΚΙΜΩΝ; around, four dolphins, two on either side; above, outside border of dots, ΑΡΕΘΟΥΣΑ.

Ρ. ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ. Quadriga to l., driven by male charioteer, holding goad in r. hand, reins in both, with head turned, looking behind him; horses galloping; beneath them, a prostrate column; above, Nike to r., stepping upon the heads of the two nearer horses, and carrying wreath with which she is about to crown the charioteer; in ex., ear of barley to l. : plain border.

Weight : 266. 3 grs. — B. M. Cat., Sicily, p. 177, n° 208. — Evans, op. cit., Pl. III, n° 4. — Weil, Künstlerinschriften, Pl. III, n° 10. — Head, op. cit., Pl. IV, n° 9. — Holm, op. cit., Pl. V, n° 11. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 8, n°s 87-89. — Hill, op. cit., Pl. VI, 15.

9. Α. Tetradrachm. Obv. Similar.

Ρ. ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ (in exergue). Quadriga to l., driven by charioteer, holding goad in r. hand, reins in both, touching with goad the head of the third horse; horses prancing; above, Nike flying to r., about to crown charioteer; on line of ex: KIMΩN; plain border.

— Weil, op. cit., Pl. III, 10<sup>a</sup>).

“Enthusiasm”, says Mr. Hill, “has never been lacking in appreciation of the beauty of the obv. One fact may without hesitation be admitted — it is the most charming of all the front face types produced not only in Sicily, but also around the coasts of the Aegean, as at Amphipolis and Aenus, at Clazomenae and Rhodes... As an example of complicated and delicate design in low relief, this reverse ranks higher than anything else produced even by a Syracusan artist”.

10. Α. Drachm (Circ. B.C. 409). Obv. Head of Arethusa, three-quarter face to l., (similar to n° 8), without inscription; on either side, a dolphin.

Ρ. ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ. Warrior to r., in fighting attitude; in ex.: ΛΕΥΚΑΣΠΙΣ.

Hoffmann Sale Catalogue, n° 146 (1898).

This unique Drachm is evidently by Kimon, and of the highest interest as presenting the facing head of Arethusa in a reduced size.

A small copper coin of Syracuse, with the same head of Arethusa, and Ρ. Σεπία, is probably also the work of Kimon.

This head of Arethusa was imitated on coins of Motya, destroyed in B.C. 397 (Evans, III, 8. 10-12), Camarina, abandoned in B.C. 405 (Evans, III, 9; B.M. Cat., p. 37, n° 20) and Himera, destroyed already in B.C. 409 (Evans, p. 70, fig. 4; Pl. III, 7), which are important points for the dating of the piece, not later than 409 B.C.

This type of the facing head of Arethusa is considered by Prof. Furtwängler as having come to Neapolis from Pheidias and his circle, and Dr Evans has shown that Neapolitan Didrachms with a beautiful three-quarter face head of a Nymph (Evans, Pl. III, 1 and 2) served as prototypes for Kimon's masterpiece, and may even have been engraved by the same artist.

Kimon's facing head of Arethusa was copied further on a bronze Hemilitron of Himera, on Didrachms and Drachms of Larissa, and on Staters of Cilician satraps.

The later gold staters of Kimon correspond to type III (n° 6) of his Dekadrachms.

11. Α. Stater (100 Litra). Similar to n° 5, except in style and expression.

Two varieties are reproduced in Evans, Syr. Med., Pl. II, n°s 4 a and 4 B. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 14, n° 160 (Evaenetos?).

D<sup>r</sup> Evans has convincingly proved that Kimon was not of Syracusan origin; he has even surmised that he may have been the grandson of an earlier Kimon who signed a coin of Himera of the middle years of the fifth century B.C., and it is remarkable that there is only one Syracusan coin on which his signature is associated with that of another artist, IM (Himerios).

12. Α. Drachm. Obv. By the artist IM (ΣΥΡΑ)ΚΟΣΙΩΝ. Female head to r., wearing diadem, earring and necklace; hair flowing; above, IM; in front, a dolphin to l., upwards: plain border.

Weight t 29.8 grs. — B.M. Cat., Sicily, p. 181, n° 233.

Head, op. cit., Pl. v, 8.

To Kimon, or Parmenion, may further be given, according to D<sup>r</sup> Head, a pretty Α Litra.

13. Α. Litra (B.C. 415-400). Obv. ΣΥΡΑΚ. Female head to r., wearing earring and necklace, hair in sphendone; behind, dolphin to l.

Ρ. Sepia.

Not only has Kimon made use of a Neapolitan prototype for his facing head of Arethusa, but as D<sup>r</sup> Evans suggests, he was himself of Chalkidian stock. Before working at Syracuse, the same artist “executed more than one tetrachm die for Messana”, and he may also be the engraver of a Metapontine Didrachm, reproduced by Garrucci.

The Messana Tetrachms by Kimon are undoubtedly earlier than his Syracusan coins.

14. Α. Tetrachm. Obv. Biga of galloping mules driven by a female (?) charioteer, crowned by flying Nike; in ex: barley-spike.

in front of the head, and below the neck... ΩΝ (?); to r. of head, cockle-shell and to l., a corn-spike.

Another Messanian Tetradrachm bears Kimon's signature.

15.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Tetradrachm. Obv. ΜΕΣΣΑΝΙΩΝ. Hare running to l.; beneath, eagle, to l., standing on rock, devouring serpent : border of dots.

— Evans, Syr. Med., p. 187. — Salinas, Notizie degli Scavi. 1888, p. 218, Tav. XVII, 4.

The British Museum specimen does not show distinctly the artist's signature, but on a coin seen by D<sup>r</sup> Evans, "the last four letters of Kimon's name are clearly decipherable". Specimens in the Naples and Paris Cabinets, also in the collections of D<sup>r</sup> Imhoof-Blumer, Herr A. Löbbecke, &c. show the more or less complete signature.

The Metapontine Didrachm, already referred to, I reproduce here from Garrucci, Le Monete dell' Italia antica, Tav. ciii, fig. 16.

It is evident that Kimon was not a Syracusan. Apart from his earlier dies for South Italian Mints, further proofs in corroboration of this fact are furnished by his use on Syracusan coins of Campanian forms of earrings.

There is another type of Syracusan Tetradrachm, one variety of which is signed K on obv., which Sale Cataloguers generally attribute to Kimon, although it is not ascribed to this artist by the various writers on Sicilian Coin-engravers' signatures.

16. Α. Tetradrachm. Obv. By Kimon (?) Female head to l., hair in plain sphenone; broad diadem, over which her hair is drawn back; necklet with pendant pearls; large earring; two dolphins before and two behind; above, at back, ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ; the sphenone is tied above and ornamented with three stars of eight rays.

Ρ. By Parme(nion). (Vide Evans, Syr. Med., Pl. x, 5). Quadriga to r., driven by charioteer crowned by Nike; the rein of the farthest off-horse hangs loose; under the nearest horse's feet, a broken chariot-wheel; in ex., ear of barley.

Weight : 266 grs. — Bunbury Sale Catalogue, 1896, lot 462. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 7, n° 77.

A variety of obv. has beneath the head of Goddess, a head of a bearded satyr to r.

B. M. Cat., Sicily, p. 179, n° 219. — Head, Coins of Syracuse, Pl. v, 2.

17. Α. Tetradrachm. By Kimon (?) ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ. Female head to r., similar to last; hair in broad sphenone, ornamented with stars; behind neck, K.

Ρ. Quadriga to l., similar to last, but without broken rein or wheel under horses.

Weight : 266 grs. — Bunbury Sale Catalogue, 1896, lot 463. — Du Chastel, op. cit., Pl. 7, n° 78.

A variety in the National Collection has  $\aleph$  behind neck.

Another specimen, of the same type is without the signature.

B. M. Cat., Sicily, p. 179, n° 221. — R. Hobart Smith Collection (illustr.). — Bunbury Sale Catalogue, 1896, lot 464. — Du Chastel, op. cit., pl. 7, n° 79. — Hill, op. cit., Pl. VII, n° 3.

The coin, reproduced here, which belongs to Mr. R. Hobart Smith, of New-York, was ascribed to Kimon by M. Arthur Sambon, in the Catalogue of the Sale at which it was purchased some few years back.

The soft style in which this head is treated reminds one strongly of Kimon's First Medallion Type, and indeed Dr Evans reproduces the two coins on the same Plate. I would only draw attention to the remarkable affinity between this type and that of the Tetradrachm, by Eukleidas, signed on dolphin, published by Dr Hirsch (Sale Catalogue, 18. May 1903, lot 991).

In conclusion, the following notes on the artistic merit of Kimon's productions, may add to the interest of this short summary of the great Artist's work :

“Les œuvres de Cimon surpassent de beaucoup ce qui a été fait de plus remarquable dans le même art à la Renaissance. Son style est loin d'être sans défauts ; il recherche un peu trop les tours de force et le côté gracieux des types, aux dépens d'une beauté plus idéale et plus sublime. Ses figures, trop surchargées de détails et d'ornements, manquent de simplicité, et par suite perdent quelque chose du côté de la pureté et du grandiose. En même temps, il a toujours dans l'exécution une certaine âpreté, qui quelquefois atteint presque à la rudesse et contraste singulièrement avec la recherche de grâce dont il paraît toujours préoccupé” (Lenormant, La monnaie dans l'Antiquité, Paris, 1878, III, p. 269).

Dr Weil suggested that Kimon's Medallions were executed after those of Evaenetos, an opinion which Dr Evans has refuted with sufficient reasons not to leave now any doubt on the subject. The author of Die Künstlerinschriften der sicilischen Münzen, p. 19, remarks : “Des Euainetos Rivale in der Anfertigung der Dekadrachmen-Stempel ist Kimon. Dem Kopf der Göttin hat er einen ungleich mehr individuellen Ausdruck verliehen als Jener; das Haar ist von einem Netz gehalten, dessen breites Band über der Stirn zwischen den Locken wieder sichtbar wird. In etwas erhabener Schrift trägt es die Buchstaben  $\begin{matrix} \text{KI} \\ \text{M} \end{matrix}$  oder auch blosses K, ein anderer künstlerisch überlegener Stempel hat dagegen auf dem unter dem Hals befindlichen Delphin KIMΩN. Die Kehrseite ist in der Quadriga, wie in den Waffenstücken des Abschnitts, denen auch hier die Beischrift ΑΘΛΑ hinzugefügt ist, dem Dekadrachmen des Euainetos durchaus entsprechend gebildet; jedoch lässt sich an den mir bekannt gewordenen Exemplaren durchgängig beobachten, dass das Gespann ruhiger gehalten ist, namentlich das Aussenpferd weniger emporbäumt als bei Euainetos. Mit besonderer Feinheit ist die Nike gezeichnet, bei der mehrfach die rechte Brust und das rechte Bein vom Gewand entblösst bleibt. Die auf der Randleiste einst wohl durchgängig vorhandene Aufschrift KIMΩN ist, da sie bei dem hohen Relief vorzugsweise ausgesetzt war nur auf ganz vereinzelt Stücken erhalten geblieben. Auf dem Tetradrachmon, dessen Kopfseite die gleiche Arbeit zeigt wie das Dekadrachmon, ist eine Künstlerinschrift nicht vorhanden. Wohl aber trägt seinen Namen KIMΩN und zwar wiederum auf dem Stirnband der mit Recht so bewunderte Arethusakopf in Vorderansicht. Um das Hochrelief wenigstens etwas vor Abnutzung zu bewahren, hat man wie es scheint absichtlich breitere Metallstücke angewendet, so findet sich noch ausserhalb des Perlkreises, welcher das Münzbild umschliesst, Raum für die Umschrift ΑΡΕΘΟΥΣΑ rechts und links vom Kopf werden theilweise von den Locken verdeckt jederseits zwei Delphine sichtbar. Von den beiden hiermit verbundenen Kehrseitenstempeln trägt der eine mit den stark emporbäumenden Rossen den Namen KIMΩN auf der Randleiste des Abschnitts, der andere ohne Künstlernamen lässt die Nike aufrecht über den Rossen schweben."

"Zu den schönsten Münzen des Alterthums", observes Prof. Brunn, "gehören die grossen Medaillons von Syrakus welche auf der Hauptseite einen weiblichen Kopf nach links gewendet und von vier Delphinen umgeben mit der Inschrift ΣΥΡΑΚΟΣΙΩΝ zeigen. Besonders elegant unter diesen sind wiederum diejenigen bei welchen das Haar im Nacken in einem Netz gesammelt ist. Auf der Rückseite finden wir das gewöhnliche Viergespann nach links gewendet mit der schwebenden Nike, welche dem Lenker einen Kranz entgegen bringt; im Abschnitt ist die Rüstung eines Hopliten gebildet, unter welcher in den besser erhaltenen Exemplaren die Inschrift ΑΘΛΑ steht."

KIRKYN, GEORGE (Brit.). Mint-master in conjunction with Lotto Nicholyn, of Florence, under Edward III., anno 17.

KIRKWOOD, ALEXANDER (Brit.). Medallist of the second and third quarters of the nineteenth century, who resided at Edinburgh, where he died on the 6. August, 1879, at the age of seventy-five, having been born on the 23. August, 1804.

From Cochran-Patrick, we learn that he is the author of the following medals: Montrose Medal of Merit (signed: A. KIRKWOOD); — Medals of the Royal Scottish Society of Arts (2 var.); — Medal of the Photographic Society of Scotland (R. only); — Medal of the Ayrshire Agricultural Association; — Medals of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, etc.

Alexander Kirkwood was the chief partner of the firm of KIRKWOOD & SON, which is now represented by his son, A. KIRKWOOD.

KIRKWOOD, A. (Brit.). Son of the last, and head of the firm of Edinburgh Die-sinkers, KIRKWOOD & SON. He cut a number of medal-dies, some of which are described in Cochran-Patrick's Medals of Scotland: Alexander Kirkwood Senr., 1804-1879; — Agricultural Medals (several varieties; some signed: ALEX. KIRKWOOD; others KIRKWOOD & SON); — Montrose Medal of Merit; — Medals of the Royal Caledonian Club, and others which I shall enumerate under the heading of KIRKWOOD & SON.

KIRKWOOD, HENRY A. (Brit.). Brother of Alexander Kirkwood Sen<sup>r</sup>, and also a Medallist, who worked at Edinburgh during the second half of the nineteenth century. He produced many intagli and camei in stone, and was also a Wood-engraver, but was permanently invalidated, says Cochran-Patrick, from mental strain, in 1856. His signature H<sup>r</sup> K. occurs on a medal struck for the Watt Club in Greenock, and bears a bust of James Watt.

KIRKWOOD & SON (Brit.). This firm has long been connected with medallic work in Edinburgh. The great-grandfather of the present representative and his grandfather were both well-known engravers". (Cochran-Patrick, Medals of Scotland, p. 268). Henry Kirkwood, the author of the Watt Medal, and his brother, Alexander, 1804-1879, are the best known Medallists of the family.

The signature KIRKWOOD & SON or A. KIRKWOOD & SON to which is added sometimes EDINR. occurs on the following medals enumerated by Cochran-Patrick: Alexander Kirkwood Sen<sup>r</sup>, 1804-1879; — The Robert Wilson Memorial Prize; — Medal of George Heriot's Hospital; — Opening of St. Giles Church, Edinburgh, 1883; — Visit of the Queen and Prince Consort to Edinburgh, 1842; — Medal of the Photographic Society of Scotland; — Medal of the Royal Caledonian Horticultural Society; — Medal of the Scottish Society for the Prevention of cruelty to Animals; — Medal of the University of Aberdeen, 1884; — Unveiling of the Tannahill Statue, Paisley, 1883 (signed: K & S); — Jubilee of the Caledonian Youths' Society, Musselburgh, 1877; — Medal of the Caithness Industrial Exhibition, 1868; — Medal of the Argyllshire Gathering; — Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, 1884 (several varieties); — Montrose Medal of Merit; — Medals

KITTEL, JOHANN (Germ.). Medallist of Breslau, born at Namslau in 1656, died on the 25. November 1740. The earliest medals on which his monogram appears (K. or I. K.) are dated 1681, and from that date until his death he executed numerous medals commemorating events in Saxon history as well as personal medals. I could only find descriptions of the following : Bombardment of Belgrade, 1688 ; — Religious Medals (for Christening, Marriage, etc. ceremonies ; also commemorative of Peace festivities) ; — Johann Hartwig, Count of Nostitz ; — Medal of 1690, with busts of Leopold, Joseph, and the Empress ; — Siege of Vienna, 1683 (A. Medal) ; — Peace of Ryswick, 1697 ; — Undated Thaler, with bust of Frederick II. ; — Death of Caspar Neumann, 1715 ; — Coronation of Frederick I. King of Prussia, 1701 ; — Times of Distress, 1702 (2 var.) ; — — Alms Medal, 1704 ; — Accession of Joseph I., 1705 ; — Satirical Medal on the New Century, 1700 ; — Battle of Ramillies and Relief of Barcelona, 1706 ; — Capture of Naples, 1707 ; — End of the Plague at Breslau, 1714 (2 var.) ; — Baptism of Archduke Leopold, 1716 ; — Trial of the Coining-Press invented by Daniel Cracau, 1717 ; — Coronation of Charles VI., 1723 ; — Inauguration of the Evangelical Church at Gross-Wartenberg, 1736 ; — Water Famine (2 var.) ; — Queen Elizabeth Christina of Prussia ; — Coronation of Charles VI., 1711 ; — Memorial Medal of Leopold I. ; — Siege of Azow, 1696 ; — Peace of Carlowitz, 1696 ; — Coronation Jeton of Catherine I., &c. It is however somewhat doubtful whether the Russian medals signed I. K. are by Kittel.

KITTEL, JOHANN GOTTLIEB (Germ.). Medallist of Breslau, son of Johann Kittel, and brother of Georg Wilhelm, was born in 1688 and died in 1727, only 39 years old. His productions are usually signed JGK. These initials occur on a Thaler of 1714 ; — Johann Andreas Baron von Plencken, Chancellor of Silesia, 1718 ; — Thaler on his Jubilee, &c.

Some of the medals engraved by the Kittels are described in Kundmann's "Heimsuchungen" ; a few were designed by the celebrated Caspar Neumann. Many being unsigned, it is impossible to attribute them correctly.

KITZIN, MARCUS (Germ.). Mint-contractor at Lindau, 1415.

KITZKATZ, RUPRECHT NICLAS (Germ.). Medallist and Coin-engraver at Dresden, circa 1615-1633. His name has been discovered by Treble Thaler of John George I. of Saxony, by Kitzkatz.

Julius and Albert Erbsstein, who have shown that the monogram R stands for Kitzkatz, and not Rull, as given by Schlickeysen.

To this Engraver, the compilers of the Engelhardt Catalogue have attributed the following pieces: Christmas Coins, 1617, issued by Prince Elector John George II. in honour of his mother, Sophia ; 1st type, with legends : VT SALOMON SIC EGO MATREM —MATERNIS PRECIBVS NIHIL FORTIVS, Dickthaler, Half Thaler, Small Dickthaler, and Ortsthalers (2 var.) ; 2nd type, with legends : HONOREM HABEBIS MATRI OMNIB. KLGMANN, JEAN BAPTISTE JULES (French). Sculptor, and Medalist, born at Paris on the 1. April 1810, where he died on the 18. January 1867. Pupil of the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Feuchère, and Ramey Jun<sup>r</sup>. He has executed numerous Portrait-medallions in clay and bronze : Dante Alighieri ; — Machiavel ; — Lord Byron ; — Shakespeare ; — Pierre Corneille ; — Prosper Gothi, dramatic artist, &c. At the Salon of 1845, he exhibited three medals.

His works of sculpture are numerous and some are important ; he also executed models for English gold-and silversmiths' work.

KLAUSNITZ, GEORG (Germ.). Mint-worker at Breslau, 1683.

KAH (Greek). This signature, which M. Michel P. Vlasto ascribes to an Engraver, occurs in the present form, or abbreviated, in KA, on Tarentine coins of the end of Evans' fifth Period and beginning of the sixth, circa 320-300.

1. Α. Stater. Obv. Head of young Herakles wearing lion's skin.

Weight : 8.58 gr. — Vlasto, Journ. int. d'arch. num., 1901, Pl. G' 4.

The following Didrachms might also belong to this Artist :

2. Α. Didrachm. Obv. Naked horseman, galloping to r., holding reins with both hands ; behind, EY ; beneath, ΑΡΙΣΤΙΑΣ.

Weight : 7.75 gr. — B. M. Cat., Italy, p. 176, n° 120.

6. ℞. Didrachm. Obv. Similar; horseman not helmeted; he carries a shield; behind, ΣΙ; beneath, ΦΙΛΟΚΛΗΣ.

℞. Similar; Taras holds wreath in r.; beneath, ΚΑ.

B. M. Cat., p. 188, n° 206. — Car. CXIV, 205.

This same signature, observes M. Vlasto, occurs again on rare silver staters (?) of greatly reduced weight, struck at Tarentum under the occupation of Hannibal, associated with the magistrate's signature ΣΗΡΑΜΒΟΣ, but their fabric and late style preclude any possibility of connection between the two ΚΑΗ.

For my own part, I feel rather reluctant to share M. Vlasto's view in considering ΚΑΗ as an Engraver, although I know that Dr. Arthur Evans considers the signature ΕΥ (and others) which occur at the same period as those of Die-sinkers, and points out "that the very grossness of the features that characterize the coins signed ΕΥ proclaims identity of handiwork".

KLEEBERG, AUGUST (Austr.). Contemporary Medallist, residing at Vienna, where since 1864 he has executed a number of Personal and Commemorative medals. He died towards the end of last century. Amongst these I have noticed: Assassination of Maximilian I., Emperor of Mexico, 1867 (2 var.); — The Empress Elizabeth of Austria nursing the sick during the war, 1866; — Centenary Commemoration of the Palatine Archduke Joseph, 1876; — Hungarian Coronation of the Emperor Francis Joseph and Empress Elizabeth, 1866 (4 var.); — Inauguration of the Monument to Field Marshal Prince Schwarzenberg, 1867; — Federal Choral Festival of Lower Austria, at Wiener Neustadt, 1864.

The following information respecting Kleeberg has been kindly favoured by Messrs Brüder Egger of Vienna:

“Wir wissen nur das Kleeberg eigentlich Graveur und Goldarbeiter war, und die Herstellung von Medaillen entweder gar nicht oder nur nebensächlich betrieben hat, indem er Medaillen von anderen arbeiten lies, und nur seinen Namen darunter setzte; z.B. hat Scharff wiederholt erzählt, dass eine Medaille mit dem Kopfe

Richard Wagner's auf die Bayreuther Festspiele im Jahre 1876 von ihm auf Bestellung des Kleeberg angetertigt wurde, und auch die Initialen A. K. auf derselben vorkommen.

“Diese Medaille ist beschrieben im Katalog der Ausstellung von Münzen und Medaillen aus der Regierungszeit Kaiser Franz Josef I, veranstaltet von der Numismatischen-Gesellschaft in Wien im Jahre 1888, unter Nr. 1946.

KLEIN (Germ.). Medallist, who worked at Breslau, circa 1755-1762. Friedensburg, Münzgeschichte Schlesiens, remarks: “In the middle years of the eighteenth century, a Die-sinker of the name of Klein was working at Breslau, and signed in full a rare medal of 1762 on the Battle of Freiberg (Peace of Hamburg between Sweden and Prussia). I have however been unable to obtain any other information about him, and do not know whether he perhaps also signed Silesian medals with a K only. He may have been the Court Goldsmith, Daniel Klein, or Tobias Klein, Assayer at the Breslau Mint, 1736-1741.”

KLEIN, HANS (Germ.). Mint-master at Rostock, 1614-15 and 1621-22.

KLEIN, MICHAEL (Germ.). Mint-warden at Mergentheim, 1535.

KLEIN, PETER, PROF. (Austr.). Designer of a medal of Pope Leo XIII., engraved by Leisek, 1893.

KLEINER, MICHAEL (Germ.). Mint-master at St. Petersburg, 1808-1809, Kolpin, 1810, and Ischora, 1810-1811. He signed his issues M. K.

KLEINERT, FRIEDRICH (Germ.). Born at Bartenstein (Prussia), 1633; Silversmith and Coin-dealer at Nuremberg, where he died in 1714, eighty-one years old. He edited a number of medals, which are signed F. K., and was the first in Germany to give his medals, by machinery, a sharp, clearly cut, raised edge, also to inscribe the edges, which was his own speciality. In conjunction with Lazarus Gottlieb Lauffer, Chief-warden of the mint at Nuremberg, and Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer (q. v.) he issued a large series of historical medals, some of which have reference to England, as the following:

Coronation of William III., 1689; — Security of Britain, 1689; — Toleration Act, 1689; — Death of Schomberg; — Congress of the Allies, February 1691; — Battle of La Hogue, 1692 (3 types); — The French Coast bombarded, Sept. 1694; — Campaign of 1694; — Casale taken and the security of Italy restored, 1695; — Namur retaken, 1695; — Battle of Blenheim, 1704; — British Victories, 1704; — Barcelona relieved and Conquest of Brabant, 1706, &c. Most of these medals were engraved by Philipp Heinrich Müller.

Kleinert's signature F. K. occurs also on the following medals: Recapture of Belgrade from the Turks, 1688; — Bombardment of Belgrade, 1688, and many others, which will be found described under the names of their respective Engravers.

Vide under LAUFFER a fairly complete list of the medals issued by Lazarus Gottlieb, Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer and F. Kleinert, with the collaboration of P. H. Müller, M. Brunner, and other engravers.

KLEINSCHMIDT, WILHELM (Germ.). Mint-master at Hildburghausen, 1760-1770. He is also described as a Die-sinker. His initials W. K. occur on a Conventions Thaler of Ernest Frederick Karl of Saxe-Hildburghausen, on the Peace of Hubertsburg, 1763.

KLEINSTEUBER, C. G. (Germ.). Mint-engineer at Berlin, born Nov. 14, 1773, at Weimar. He was at first a manufacturer of musical instruments, but in 1813 he set up a workshop for the construction of machinery for the Berlin Mint. He improved the coining-press and invented several new tools. The English Government acquired one of Kleinsteuber's presses, which he himself installed at the London Mint. He died 8. Nov. 1834. There is a Portrait-medal of him by Brandt.

KLEINSTEUBER, ERNST (Germ.). Mint-master at Gotha, 1828-1838; died in 1845. His initials occur on coins of Duke Ernest of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha; I have noticed a K on a Thaler of 1729 of that Ruler.

KLEMENT, HANS (Bohem.). Die-cutter at the Mint of Kuttenberg, 1599. A die of 1634 for Bohemian Groschen (Dreikreuzers) is attributed to him.

KLEMMER, SIEGMUND (Austr.). Mint-warden at Vienna, 1765-1776; was in office at Kremnitz in 1779. His issues are usually signed S. K.

KLEON (ΚΛΕΩΝΟΣ). Gem-engraver of the first century A. D. By him is a beautiful head of Amazon and other works (Vide Furtwängler, Antike Gemmen, 1902, Pl. LXI, 37).

KLENTSCHY (Swiss). An Engraver, who worked at Chaux-de-Fonds in the third quarter of the nineteenth century. He was a pupil of Fritz Jeanneret. At the Chaux-de-Fonds Municipal Museum I have seen two medals or medallions by him, of good work.

KLEODOROS (Greek). Coin-engraver of the beginning of the fourth century B. C. whose signature occurs on Didrachms of Velia, often associated with that of another Velian Artist of the same period; Philistionos.

Kleodoros signed some of his productions ΚΛΕΥΔΩΡΟΥ, others with the monogram ΚΛΕΥ, >E. They belong to the finest issues of Velia.

Raoul Rochette had already noticed this Engraver's signature and reproduced the charming coin described below, which ranks very high as an artistic work.

1. AR. Didrachm. Obv. Head of Pallas, nearly facing, in winged Phrygian helmet, the front of which is inscribed : ΚΛΕΥΔΩΡΟΥ; hair long; neck adorned with necklace.

RE. Lion to l. devouring prey; in exergue : ΥΕΛΗΤΩΝ; between the lion's hind legs, >E : plain border.

℞. YEΛHTΩN; (in ex.). Lion to l., head turned back, l. fore-foot on ram's head; beneath, >E : plain border.

Macdonald, op. cit., I, Pl. VIII, 15.

3. ⅂. Didrachm. Obv. Head of Pallas to l., wearing crested Athenian helmet, on which, griffin; flap of helmet, plain; behind, ϙ.

11.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Similar.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Similar, but inscription on raised band; above,  $\Phi$ ; beneath,  $\mathfrak{E}$ .
B. M. Cat., op. cit., n° 79.
12.  $\mathcal{A}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Similar, with  $\mathfrak{J}$ .  $\mathcal{R}$ . Similar, but inscription as usual; no letter above; beneath,  $\mathfrak{A}$ .
Macdonald, op. cit., I, p. 117, n° 67.

A number of other smaller varieties exist.

Prof. Brunn thinks the interpretation of the monogram  $\mathfrak{E}$  into the signature of the artist  $\kappa\lambda\epsilon\upsilon\delta\omicron\rho\sigma$  should be accepted with extreme caution. He remarks: “Mir scheint jedoch diese Annahme mit grosser Vorsicht aufgenommen werden zu müssen, weil sie eine bedeutende Modification der Grundsätze erheischt, nach denen wir die Künstlernamen von denen der Magistrate glauben scheiden zu dürfen. ”

KLEPIKOW, A. (Russ.). Medallist at St. Petersburg, first half of the nineteenth century. He is the author of some rare medals issued to commemorate the wars against France, 1812-1814. One of Alexander I., I reproduce below; another represents the Battle of Katzbach, and is signed : P. A. KJE.

Portrait-medal of Alexander I. of Russia, by Klepikow.

KLESILAX. Signature (added in modern times) on a sardonyx intaglio representing Minerva seated, and reproduced in Raspe's Tassie Gems, Pl. xxvi, 1758.

KLETT or KLETTE, JOHANN GEORG (Germ.). Gem-engraver, born in 1720 at Vesser or Suhl (Henneberg); died in 1792. He was at first Schoolmaster there, but came to Dresden in 1743 where he studied the antique. In 1755 he was appointed Court Gem-engraver. By him is a head of Cicero, and many cameos and intaglios representing mythological subjects.

KLEY, LOUIS. (French). Sculptor of the second half of the nineteenth century, born at Sens in 1833. He executed several Portraitmedallions which were exhibited at the Paris Salon between 1853 and 1880.

KLIMENTOFF, WASSILI (Russ.). Medallist of the second half of the eighteenth century. Very few medals only are signed В. К. by him and these have erroneously been attributed by Reichel and others to Bernard Koch. There is however no doubt at all that the signature В. К. on Russian medals of this period stands for Василий Климентовъ, or Климовъ as he is sometimes called.

Klimentoff cut the large Memorial medal on the Death of the Empress Elizabeth, which bears his full signature : В. Климентов. In 1762 he was called with his assistant, Michael Nikitin, to St. Petersburg, to help in the execution of the Coronation Medals of Catherine II.

By this Engraver are also copies of : Accession Medal of Peter the Great, Commemorative Medal ; — Construction of the Russian Fleet ; — The Four Fleets (after Gouin) ; — Coronation of Catherine I., (after Schultz), &c.

KLIMT, GEORG (Austr.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing at Vienna. M. Roger Marx in Médailleurs modernes en France et à l'Étranger reproduces on Pl. xxv, a fine Plaquette by him representing a male figure seated to r., nude, and deeply engaged in thought.

or KL. occurs on Thalers, Gulden, &c. of 1763, Convention Thalers, Gulden, &c. of Anna Amalia, Duchess Regent of Saxe-Weimar, 1764 and 1765 (Thaler illustrated).

KLINE, J. W. (Amer.). Die-sinker of Philadelphia (U. S. A.), second half of the nineteenth century. He is said to have cut the dies for a medal commemorating the Inauguration of a New Masonic Temple in Philadelphia, 1873.

KLINGENSTEIN, MICHAEL BERTRAM (Germ.). Mint-master at Nuremberg, 1806.

KLINKORSCH, ARTHUR (Austr.). Modeller and Chaser, born in 1846, died in Vienna, 4. October 1895. He founded the firm which bears his name, and edited various medals.

KLINKE, BALTHASAR (Germ.). Mint-master at Mühlhausen in Thuringia, circa 1523.

KLIPFEL, LUDWIG FRIEDRICH EDUARD (Germ.). Director of the Prussian Mint at Berlin, 1865. There is a Portrait-medal of him, by W. Kullrich, on his 50 years' Jubilee of office at the Mint.

Portrait-medal of Ludwig Friedrich Klipfel.

KLUGE, WILHELM FRIEDRICH (French.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Vienna, now naturalized a Frenchman. He is a pupil of Tasset. At the Salon of 1901, he exhibited a Medal of the Central Protestant Society of Missions, and plaster casts of other medals, and in 1904 a Portrait-medal of H. H. Pope Pius X. Amongst his previous works are: 1886. The French Republic, medal.— 1887. Prize Medal for Athletic Sports; — 1888. Medal of the General Transatlantic Company; — 1891. Portrait-medallion of M<sup>lle</sup> Berthe S<sup>***</sup>; — 1892. Seven silver medals, etc.

KLÜNNE, A. (Germ.). Medallist of Altona, during the second and third quarters of the nineteenth century. I have however never met with any medal by him.

KLUSAK VON KOSTELEK, GEORG (Bohem.). Mint-master-general for Bohemia, 1619-1620.

KLÜVER, PHILIPP (Germ.). Mint-master at Dantzig, 1588-1610. His monogram appears on the coins issued by him.

KNAB, SEBASTIAN (Swiss) and Junckherr Leodegari Golder, J. Anthoni von Erlach, contractors of the Lucerne Mint, 1549-1552.

KNAPP (Germ.). Die-sinker's signature on a medal commemorating the fourth year of Napoleon Bonaparte's Consulate, 1803.

KNAUER, GEORGES FRÉDÉRIC (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Gem-engraver; son of Henri Auguste K. At the Salon of 1877, he exhibited a shell cameo representing Captive Hebrews at Babylon; and in 1878, an agate cameo, Castor and Pollux; — 1883. Henry IV. agate cameo; — Minerva, sardonyx cameo; — Themistocles, carnelian cameo; — Joan of Arc, sardonyx intaglio; — Nestor, jasper intaglio; — Bayard, sardonyx intaglio; — Othello and Desdemona, cameo, &c.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Chavignerie et Auvray, op. cit.

KNAUER, HENRI AUGUSTE (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Gem-engraver, born at Ivry-sur-Seine; pupil of his father and V. Douchet. At the Salon of 1877 he exhibited an intaglio in carnelian, representing Hector and Andromache, and in 1878, another intaglio in sardonyx, Demetrius Poliorcetes; later: 1882. Aesculapius, sardonyx intaglio; — Herakles, cameo on sardonyx of three strata, etc.

KNAUER, VICTOR (French). Contemporary Gem-engraver, born at Ivry-sur-Seine; pupil of J. G. Knauer. At the Salon of 1886 he exhibited a Portrait of M. C***, shell cameo.

KNAUST, JOHANN CHRISTIAN (Germ.). Mint-warden at Saalfeld, 1764; Mint-master there, 1765-1794. His initials I.C.K. occur on some of his issues. I have noticed them on the following coins of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt: Ludwig Günther I., Conv. Thaler, 1768; — Conv. Thaler, 1780, on the Marriage of the Hereditary Prince Frederick Charles with Augusta of Saxe-Gotha; — Conv. Thaler, 1786; — Friedrich Carl, Conv. Thaler, 1791; also on currency of Saxe-Saalfeld: Ernst Friedrich, Conv. Thaler, 1765, &c.

KNEASS, WILLIAM (Amer.). Mint-engraver at Philadelphia 1823-1840. He was born at Lancaster, Pa., September, 1781, and was appointed Engraver, January 29, 1824. Before taking office at the Mint, he had been chiefly a plate engraver for book-work. During his term, there were some notable changes in the coinage, as in 1834 and 1838 for gold, and 1836, 1837, 1838, and 1840, for silver. But some of this work was done by Gobrecht. Kneass is the author of a Pattern Half-Dollar of 1838, on which his name appears. Between 1824 and 1836 he appears to have cut most of the dies for the U. S. coinage.

U. S. Half Dollar, 1827, engraved by W. Kneass.

A silver Dollar of 1836 (illustrated) as well as another Pattern Half Dollar of 1838 are the work of Gobrecht, who in 1836, received an appointment as assistant to W. Kneass at the Mint, whom he succeeded in 1840 (Vide Vol. II, p. 284).

Gobrecht's Pattern Dollar, 1836.

Prior to his appointment, Kneass had an engraving office in Chestnut St., Philadelphia, which was a well-known rendezvous for the leading wits and men of culture, for which Philadelphia was then eminent.

W. Kneass died in office, August 27, 1840. He was the second Engraver at the Philadelphia Mint, having succeeded Robert Scot, 1793-1824.

By this Engraver are also medals of George Washington.

M<sup>lle</sup> M. H***; — 1892. Un vieux Limousin; — M. L. G***; — 1893. M. Farge; — 1894. M. R. L***, etc.

KNOL, JAN (Dutch). Mint-master at Medemblik and Hoorn, 1715-1741; distinctive mark, a turnip. In 1736 he executed a medal commemorating the Opening of the state treasure of Westfriesland.

KNOLL (Germ.). Mint-warden at Nuremberg, 1777-1793. His initial K occurs in association with that of Riedener, who was Mint-Master, on the coin-issues of that period. Vide GEORG KNOLL.

KNOLL, GEORG (Germ.). Mint-warden at Nuremberg, after 1779.

KNOPF, HEINRICH (Germ.). Goldsmith and Wax-modeller of Nuremberg, in the early part of the seventeenth century, circa 1601-1610. In contemporary documents he is styled "Conterfeter in Wachs". In 1601 he executed a medal of the Bishop of Bamberg, Johann Philipp von Gebattel (illustrated), and received for the model and moulds 70 florins. These medals, observes Erman, were cast, as they were wanted, in the following years, by Knopf himself and the Bamberg Goldsmiths Paul Imhof, Marx Goldschmid, and Barthel Holstein.

In 1610 Knopf made the medal (Schaugroschen) of the Bishop of Bamberg, Johann Gottfried von Aschhausen. The castings of these in later years were done by Knopf himself, or Heinrich Scheurer, and Barthol. Holstein.

In 1611 Knopf executed also a medal with shield of arms and the Emperor Henry and his consort Kunigunda.

The medals by Knopf are somewhat weak productions, oval in shape, and of very low relief. Both specimens in the Royal Museum at Berlin have the same bordering, which Erman has met with on another enamelled medal of the Bishop, Duke Ulrich of Pomerania, dated 1618, which bears no portrait, only arms, but which may notwithstanding have been done by Knopf.

Knopf, like most of his contemporaries, as Valentin Maler, Carl, etc., first modelled their medals in wax.

A Portrait-medal of Wolf Müntzer of Babenberg is signed H. K. and dated 1567, but Erman does not think it can be ascribed to Knopf, as the style is absolutely different from his.

KOCH, JOHANN CHRISTIAN (Germ.). Medallist of the first half of the eighteenth century; born at Aken on the Elbe in 1680; died in 1742; son of Nicolaus K. of Zerst. He was a pupil of Christian Wermuth and Raimund Faltz; entered about 1706 the service of the Dukes of Saxe-Gotha, for whom he worked until his death as Mint-engraver at Gotha, 1730-1742.

By this Medallist are the following commemorative medals. Death of John William, Duke of Saxe-Gotha, 1707 (signed KOCH F. on obv. and KOCH.FECIT on R.); — Other Medals on the same event (2 var.); — The Principality of Neuchâtel falls to the Crown of Prussia, 1707 (obv. illustrated); — Marriage of Frederick I. of Prussia with Sophia Louise of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, 1708; — Marriage of Princess Charlotte, 1733; — Second Centenary of the Reformation, 1717; — Birth of Princess Elizabeth Caroline of Great Britain, 1740; — Recall to Halle of Christian Wolf, 1740; — 37th

Frederick I., King of Prussia, by Joh. Christ. Koch.

Anniversary of Frederick II., Duke of Saxony, 1712; — Death of Ernest Louis, Duke of Saxony, 1724; — Marriage of George Albert, Prince of East Friesland with Christiane Ludovica Princess of Orange-Nassau; — Medallion Portrait of the Markgrave Frederick of Ansbach; — Medallion Portraits of Duke Frederick II. of Saxe-Gotha and his seven Children; — Charles I., Duke of Brunswick and Lüneburg, 1737; — The American Century Plant, 1700 (Wylls Betts, Historical Medals of America, p. 50, n° 103); — Dr Friedrich Hoffmann, of Halle: — Anthon Gunter, Prince of Schwarzburg, 1709, etc.

“Johann Christian Koch”, says Bolzenthal”, if not Wermuth’s oldest pupil, yet he became his most celebrated one. He was born in 1680 at Aken on the Elbe. At first he learned of Faltz, who however kept the ardent youth so long from the secrets of the art that he was not able to make the wished-for progress, and therefore he went over to Christian Wermuth, whom he left after some time to go to Berlin, as Engraver to the Duke Frederick II. of Saxe-Gotha. He received from the Court at Berlin a sum of money for his travelling expenses, and visited Holland and England. After his return he fixed his abode at Gotha and executed many works which made him celebrated. Death put an end to his exertions in 1742. He left two sons who exercised the art(?)”

KOCH, JOST DIETRICH (Germ.). Mint-master at Paderborn, 1652-1654; Bielefeld, 1655-1676; Tecklenburg, 1655 and 1656; and Paderborn again, 1675 and 1676. His issues are usually signed I. D. K. I have noticed his initials on Thalers and Half Thalers of Theodorich Adolf, Bishop of Paderborn, 1657.

KOCH, KILIAN or CHILIAN (Germ.). A Nuremberg Counter-manufacturer of the end of the sixteenth century. His counters, some of which are dated 1587, 1588, 1600, &c., are not quite so common as those of his great competitors, the KRAUWINKELS and their successors, the LAUFFERS, &c.

A number of Counters by Kilian Koch are described in Neumann, Kupfer-Münzen, vol. V, nos 32203-21; also in Katalog des numismatisch sphragistischen Sammlungen des Herrn Heinrich Lempertz Senior zu Köln, 1899, nos 4090-4096. They depict various subjects and bear legends in Latin, German, French, &c. with the maker's name: CHILIA KOCH; — CHILIANVS COQVVS; — C. K.; — K. K.; — KILIANVS KOCH, etc.

The Makers of these counters at Nuremberg seem at first to have been confined to a very few families only, for we find but the names of four of these from between the middle of the sixteenth to the middle of the seventeenth century, viz. those of Schultz (or Schulthess), with Jorg and Hans; Koch, with Kilianus; Krauwinckel, with Damianus, Egidius, and Hans, which last-named Maker issued more than all the others taken together; Lauffers, with Hans,

Matthew, Wolfgang, Chonrad, Cornelius, and Lazarus Gottlieb." (Snelling, A View of Jettons or Counters, London, 1769, p. 11).

Other Nuremberg Counter-makers were J. M. Lindner, John Weidinger, John Adam Vogel, John Conrad Hoger, Michel Leykauf, and John Jacob Dietzel.

These counters were usually made in brass.

KOCH, LEONHARD MAX, and J. C. (Germ.). Nuremberg Counter-makers of the sixteenth century.

KOCH, LUDWIG CHRISTIAN (Germ.). Mint-engraver at Gotha, 1750-1793. Son of Johann Christian Koch. From 1766 to 1793 he was Director of the Mint.

This Engraver's initials are found on many of the coins issued at Gotha during the period of his activity. I have noticed them on Thalers and subsidiary currency, struck on the Second Centenary of the Religious Peace of 1555. They also occur on a medal commemorating the Free British Society, 1750.

KOCH, MARIUS (Germ.). Mint-master at Koenigsberg in Prussia, 1624-1625.

KOCH, MARIUS (Germ.). Swedish Mint-master, 1628-1663.

KOCH, NICOLAUS (Germ.). Father of Johann Christian Koch. Worked at various German Mints, in particular at Zerbst, 1680, and some years later at Berlin.

KÖHLER (Germ.). Die-sinker at Hanover or Berlin, circa 1706. Probably the same as E. Pomponius Köhler, mentioned below.

KÖHLER, B. (Germ.). Contemporary Medallist, by whom are several Portrait-medals of Bismarck commemorating his death in 1898. This artist resides at Berlin.

KÖHLER, HEINRICH or HENDRIK (Germ.). Mint-master at Copenhagen, 1643-1662. His signature H. K. or HK occurs on coins.

KÖHLER, G. W. (Austr.). Die-sinker of the early part of the eighteenth century. By him is a cabalistic medal of Charles VI. of Austria, dated 1711.

KÖHLER, JOHANN LUDWIG (Germ.). Medallist of the early part of the nineteenth century, born at Kirchheim-Bolanden, in 1770, died at Neustadt a. d. H. in 1828. His signature KÖHLER F. occurs on a Prize Medal of the Frankfort Society for the promotion of Useful Arts; also on a Medal struck for presentation to the Wreckers on the U. S. A sea coast for their services in saving the lives and property of shipwrecked mariners.

KÖHLER, E. POMPONIUS (Germ.). Hessian Die-sinker of the early part of the eighteenth century, whose medals are dated 1711-1714, and signed E.P.K.F. I have noticed his signature Köhler on a Half-Thaler of Charles, Landgrave of Hesse, struck in 1711, on the death of his consort, Maria Amalia of Curland.

KÖHLER, S. (Germ.). Goldsmith of Brieg, last quarter of the seventeenth century. In 1674 he cut dies for the coinage issued at the Mint there, and in 1675 medals commemorating the death of George William, the last Piast.

KÖLESCHER, SAMUEL (Hung.). Die-sinker of the first half of the eighteenth century. His initials occur on a gold medal, weighing 10 ducats, with portrait of Damianus Hugo, Count Virmond, 1721, Commanding general in Transsylvania.

KÖNIG, ANTON FRIEDRICH (Germ.). Son of the celebrated Berlin Miniature Court Painter of the same name; born on June 13, 1756; died January 2, 1838. He learned engraving at the Die-sinking establishment of Loos and under the supervision of the Director-general of the Berlin Mint, Singer. On the 1st of September 1776, the young artist was called to the post of Medallist and Mint-engraver at Breslau, and remained in office there until the spring of 1805, when he retired with a pension. In the next year, October 1806, he accepted the place of Mint-engraver at Berlin, left vacant by the death of Stierle. In 1826 he celebrated his 50th anniversary of official service, on which event his yearly salary was increased, on the suggestion of the Mint-director Gödeking, who in a letter to the Minister of State, Count von Lottum, dated 21. August 1826, wrote, that König "was one of the first Die-cutters who did not work in a mechanical manner, but used science and taste in his branch".

König's signature K, A.K., KO., or A. KÖNIG occurs on coins and medals of Prince Bishop Joseph of Breslau, medals of Oels, Frederick II., and Frederick William II, Personal and Commemorative Silesian medals.

KÖTZNER, ANDREAS (Germ.). Mint-master at Mayence, 1714-1722. He had previously been Mint-engraver there and cut dies for the 1703 coinage. To him must probably also be ascribed the medals of Mayence of 1689, 1694 and 1695, and 1707, which bear his initials A. K. (Vide G. H. Lockner, *Mainzer Münzbeamte des 17. und 18. KOHLHAAS, JAKOB (Germ.). Mint-master at Bonn, 1739-1767. Between 1765 and 1767 he also worked for the Electoral Mint of Cologne, conjointly with Elias Gervais, as the  $\frac{1}{4}$  Stüber pieces of Kurköln of the years 1765-1767 show.

KOHLHAAS, JOHANN WILHELM (Germ.). Mint-master at Schillingsfürst, 1684.

KOHLKOPF, KASPAR (Germ.). Mint-master at Augsburg, 1623.

KOINOS (Greek). Gem-engraver, whose signature KOINOY occurs on a small amethyst, formerly in the Ficorini collection, and which represents a Hunter standing and leaning on cippus, at the foot of which is a dog; a type which reminds one of the celebrated statue known as Narcissus. King observes that "the legend behind the figure reads clearly KOINOY, though variously misread. Koehler, as usual, ascribed this work to Natter, forgetting that it had been already published by Stosch in 1724, whereas Natter did not establish himself at Florence before 1732. Besides, it had been described by Maffei long before the forgery of names had come into vogue". "Die Arbeit ist hübsch aber nicht bedeutend". (Furtwängler).

The inscription KOINOY appears to have been added in modern times to the following gems: Augustus (Stosch's cast); — Head of Demetrius Poliorcetes (Brit. Mus.); — Satyr running; — Head of Hector Poniatoswki; — Pythagoras seated; — Faun carrying hydria; — Perseus, &c.

seventeenth century, who worked at Venice and Rome, during the latter part of his life, for several Cardinals, and Popes Urban VIII. and Innocent X., 1630-1650. We read the following notice of the artist in Bolzenthäl: “A much greater celebrity is attached to the name of Johann Kornmann on whom Nature had liberally bestowed her favours. He was born at Augsburg, but inspired with a noble enthusiasm he went to Italy. He first lived at Venice, then in Rome, and gained in both places as much esteem as fortune, by his excellent works in gold, silver and copper. He was originally a goldsmith, and applying himself to die-engraving, he executed some very clever medals and for the age some very extraordinary. He executed some medals in Rome for Pope Innocent X., one of which refers to the Jubilee of 1650. This and the portrait of M. Antonio Marta († 1630) with the artist's name in Italian CORMANO, indicate the probable time of his residence in Italy and speak for the artist's talent, as do also the portraits of John. Hensch ; — Cardinal Widmann ; — Filippo Pirovani (illustrated) ; — and

Medal of Filippo Pirovani, by J. Kornmann. (Rz)

Franc. M. Brancaccio ; it was his misfortune to fall into the hands of the Inquisition at Rome, and thus to be deprived of his goods and liberty.”

On a medal of Paul Jordan II., Duke of Bracciano, the signature is I.I.C.F., and on the accession Medal of Pope Innocent X., it is OPVS CORMANI.

Sainthill (Olla Podrida, II, p. 341) describes three medals of Paul Jordan II., and remarks: "Cormani's style of engraving is one of extreme and minute delicacy in finish. You might suppose that he works with a diamond pencil. His busts of Innocent X. convey rather the idea of a highly finished dark gem than a bronze medal; the kind of hard sparkling surface of a stone, than any medallic effect — I know of nothing like them."

His signature occurs also on the obv. of a medal of Dr Johann Henis, of Augsburg, but his best known medal is that commemorating Innocent X.'s Jubilee, 1650, which is signed CORMANVS, F.; also on a medal of Henri de Foix, duc de Candalle, signed according to Rondot et De La Tour I.I.KOREMANO.F.(?); — Paul Jordan II., of Bracciano, 1635; — Flavius, Duke of Bracciano, 1672, etc.

A Thaler (Mehlbacher Mining Thaler) and Gulden of 1752 bear on truncation of bust: V.D.K.; and a Thaler of same date, with slightly different obv. but similar R. has the monogram K beneath bust. Ammon remarks that Van der Körs is the author of the Medal of the Heidelberg wine cask of 1746.

KOSBERG, ANDREAS (Germ.). Mint-master at St. Petersburg, under Catherine the Great, 1789-1795. His initials occur on some coins issued by him.

KOSIN, NICOLAUS (Russ.). Mint-engraver, and Medallist at St. Petersburg, circa 1850; he died in 1867. His productions are usually signed: H. K. Iversen states that Kosin was educated at the Technical Mining School of the St. Petersburg Technological Institute, and was appointed Medallist to the St. Petersburg Mint at the end of the forties. In 1855 he became an Academician. A medal on the Transfer of the University to the Building of the twelve Colleges, at St. Petersburg, 1838, is signed: н. козинъ к. I have also seen a Portrait-medal of Nicholas I, 1856, by him.

KRAFFT, HANS (Germ.). Goldsmith of Nuremberg, early part of the sixteenth century; died in 1523 (?) Ehrenberg, Nachrichten über Nürnberger Münz-und Medaillen-Prägungen im Auftrage Friedrichs des Weisen von Sachsen, 1889, has been able to identify him as the Engraver of the coins of Frederick the Wise of Saxony (from circa 1510), from designs by the “Meister Lux”, also named “Maler Moller”, probably Lucas Cranach.

Hans Krafft succeeded Hans Krug the Elder as Mint-engraver at Nuremberg in 1509 and worked in that capacity until 1513, when Hans Krug the Younger was appointed to the office. On the latter's death in 1518, Hans Krafft was once more employed, until 1523.

Thaler of Frederick III. the Wise, by Hans Krafft.

In a document quoted by Schuchardt in Lucas Cranach des Aelteren Leben und Wirken (Leipzig, 1851-71), Krafft is described as an old slow man (alt lanksam Man), for which cause he may probably have been replaced at the Mint in 1513 by Hans Krug Junior.

Hans Krafft may be the Engraver of the coins and medals represented in Tentzel I. Pl. 2, III, IV; 3, IV-VII; 4, I and III and similar pieces; it is certain that he cut the dies of the Guldengroschen of MDXXII and Schreckenberger ( $\frac{1}{4}$  Thaler) of same date, bearing on obv. the Bust of the Prince Elector to r. wearing cap, and on R. \* \* \* VERBVM \* DOMINI \* MANET \* IN \* AETERNVM. Cross, etc.

KRAFFT, GOTTFRIED (Germ.). Gem-engraver of Danzig, second half of the eighteenth century. He was one of the cleverest pupils of Natter, and known at Rome as Il Tedesco, where he attained some notoriety. "He is certainly an Engraver of merit," says Raspe, "and his manner can scarcely be distinguished from Pichler's." By him is a fine cameo with head of Augustus.

KRAFFT, MARTIN (Austr.) Medallist, and Mint-engraver at Vienna, Munich and Milan, during the second and third quarters of the eighteenth century; born in 1738; died at Munich in 1781. He is mentioned as student at the Vienna Mint School of Engraving (Graveurkunstscholar), 1771-1775; Assistant-engraver at the Mint, after 1775. About this time, offers were made to the Engraver of a post at the Brussels mint, which he declined. He engraved, amongst others, a Portrait-medal of Hieronymus, Archbishop of Salzburg, 1772. Vide JOHANN MARTIN KRAFFT supra.

KRAKAU, DANIEL (Germ.). Son of Michael Krakau, employed at the Mint of Breslau. He invented a Coining-press, which was cast at Kremnitz and first put into use at Breslau in 1717. There is a medal by P. H. Müller, 1717, representing Krakau's machine.

KRALLOWITZ, HANS GEORG (Germ.). Seal-engraver at Breslau, 1652 — † 1674 at the age of 63.

KRAMER, BERNARD (Dutch). Mint-master at Campen, 1717-1721.
BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Friedensburg, op. cit.

KRAMER, COENRAAD HENDRIK (Dutch). Mint-master at Medemblik, 1711-1714, later at Campen, 1731-1754 (?)

KRAMER, HANS (Germ.). Mint-engraver at Breslau, 1627.

KRAMER, IGNATZ (Bohem.). Mint-master at Prague, 1746-1747, under the reign of Maria Theresia. Previously, he had filled the office of Mint-warden, 1730-1734, then Mint-master, 1734-1740, at Breslau. He was raised to the nobility as “Edler von Münzburg”, and was Mint-director at Kremnitz when he died.

KRÄMER, JOHANN GEORG (Germ.). Mint-warden at Ratisbon, 1700.

KRAMER, KARL (Germ.). Die-sinker of Cologne (?), whose medals belong to the second quarter of the nineteenth century. One of these commemorates the Carnival at Cologne, 1838, and another, with portrait of Gutenberg, the fourth centenary of the Invention of the Printing Press.

KRAMER, WOLF (Germ.). Goldsmith of Worms, and in conjunction with Hans Kock, Mint-warden to the Landgrave William of Hesse and the Counts Albert and John Louis of Nassau, during the latter end of the sixteenth century.

KRAUER, FRANZ KARL (Swiss). Mint-master at Lucerne, 1724-1737, and again in 1744. Son of Wilhelm Krauer; born in 1691. In 1724 he was appointed Mint-master for Nidwald (Untervalde) in succession to his brother-in-law Gebhard Dub; in 1729 the Lucerne Council obliged him to resign his post as Mint-master in Obwald. Between 1738 and 1745, he acted as Mint-master at Appenzell. He died at Tegerschen in 1745.

KRAUER, HANS JÖRG (Swiss). Goldsmith, Seal-engraver, and Painter of Lucerne. He filled the office of Mint-master there between 1673 and 1677, and again from 1682 to 1694. On 12. Sept. 1677, he was granted a leave of absence to superintend the Mint at Sion for the Bishop Adrian V. von Riedmatten, in whose service he remained until 1682. From 1692-1693, H. J. Krauer acted as Mint-master at Zug. In 1702 he was still living.

KRAUER, WILHELM (Swiss). Son of Hans Jörg Krauer; born in 1661; died in 1718. He first worked as a Goldsmith, but later practised also Die-cutting. In 1707 he was appointed Mint-master at Sion, where the famous J. C. Hedlinger was apprenticed to him; in 1710 he returned to Lucerne, and was appointed Mint-master there on the 31. March 1713 for a period of three years. After many difficulties with the Town Council, his resignation was accepted, and he was free to take the post that was offered to him as Mint-master at Montbéliard, acting at the same time for the Bishop of Basle, Johann Konrad von Reinach, at his Mint of Porrentruy.

Füssli remarks: "Selbst Joh. Karl Hedlinger's Lehrer Krauer war wohl nichts weniger als Künstler. Vielleicht verstund er nichts als das Gepräge gewöhnlicher Münzen, nichts aber von Zeichnung, von Schneiden künstlicher Schaumünzen und dergleichen."

The coins minted at Sion previous to 1710 are heavy and badly cut; those of 1710 which were engraved by Hedlinger are already of a totally different character, notwithstanding that the young artist was not yet twenty years old.

KRAUMANN, ALEXANDER (Germ.). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Budapest in 1870, lately residing at Frankfort-on-M., now at Dresden. The only medalllic productions I have noticed by him are a commemorative plaquette, struck at Mayer & Wilhelm's works at Stuttgart, of the Third Centenary of the Salzbrunn Spa (Silesia), 1901; — Gold Medal for the Venice Fine Art Exhibition, 1903 (reproduced in The Studio, Feb. 1905, p. 78, and described as "rather full of detail on the obverse, and cleverly reminiscent of Venice's one-time Byzantine glory"); — Plaquette, with standing nude figure playing on the harp, and others.

"This artist's plaquettes are exemplary in their distribution of light and shade, and the modelling is in an admirable, large spirit, though in single parts the proportions may not be quite beyond criticism". (Studio, 1905, p. 78).

KRAUS, KLAUS (Bohem.). Mint-master at Joachimsthal, 1531-37. He was appointed in March, 1535, in succession to Ulrich Gebhard. He was a Saxon by origin. For malversation in his office, he suffered imprisonment, from March 1535 to 25. May 1537, when he was released by King Ferdinand's order, but his subsequent history is not known. His mint-mark is a ruff. Hans Weizelmann succeeded him at Joachimsthal.

KRAUSS, CH. (Austr.). Editor of medals of Budapest, who published various medals, amongst which I have noticed : The Jews granted right of possession, 1860 ; — 40th Anniversary of the Emperor Francis Joseph's Reign, 1888 ; — The Emperor's Jubilee, 1898, &c.

KRAUSS, HANNS (Germ.). Mint-engraver at Nuremberg, 1572-1575.

KRAWER. Vide KRAUER suprà.

KRAUWINCKEL, DAMIAN (Germ.). Nuremberg Counter-manufacturer of the end of the sixteenth century, from circa 1566. His name DOMIANVS KRAU WING ; — DAMIANVS KRAUWINCKEL, &c., occurs on counters described by Neumann, Kupfer-Münzen, Vol. V, n<sup>os</sup> 32183-89. Damian and Egidius Krauwinckel were no doubt related to Hans Krauwinckel and seem to have preceded him by a few years.

KRAUWINCKEL, EGIDIUS (Germ.). Nuremberg Counter-manufacturer of the end of the sixteenth century; the date M.D.LXXI occurs on one of his counters, which are usually bearing his name spelt in various forms : EGIDIVS * KR ; — EGIDIVS · KRA ; — EGIDIVS KRAUWINCKEL ; — EGIDI KRAUWINCKELL ; — EGIDII KRAVV ; — E. K. ; — E. KRAUWINCKEL NVR. Neumann describes twelve varieties of counters by Egidius Krauwinckel, most of them from the late Dr Freudenthal's collection.

KRAUWINCKEL, HANS (Germ.). One of the best known Nuremberg Counter-manufacturers of the end of the sixteenth and beginning of the seventeenth centuries. His name occurs in various forms on his issues : HANNS · KRAUWINCKEL · IN · NVR ; — HANNSKRA V WINCKEL · IN · NVRENB ; — HANNS · KRAUWINCKEL · IN · NV ; — HANNS · KRAUWINCKEL · BIN ICH BEKONT, &c. ; — HANS KRAUWINCKEL NVRENB ; — H. K. ; — H. KRAUWI ; — H. KRAV ; — HK, &c.

Neumann describes no less than ninety-two varieties of Counters by this maker (Vol. V, n<sup>os</sup> 32222-32314); some are dated 1588, 1589, 1601, 1605, 1610, 1611, &c.

Hans Krauwinckel's counters bear legends in Latin, German, French, failing sometimes in orthography, now religious in their meaning, now profane, as : GOTTES SEGEN MACHT REICH — GOTTES GABEN SOLL MAN LOBEN — HEVT RODT MORGEN TODT. They represent all sorts of subjects, Alexander the Great, with the inscription : ALEXANDER HANG (!) 1601; Fame; Fortuna Variabilis (!); Adam and Eve R. Christ on the Cross; David and Jonathan; Joab and Amasa; Haman and Mordecai; Judith; Saul and Samuel; Samuel and David; the Beast in Revelation; Jupiter and Ganymede; Jupiter and Europa R. Pallas, Juno, and Venus; Pluto with Cerberus; Neptune, Hercules, and Pallas; Mars and Venus; Apollo and Diana, Meleager and Atalanta; Perseus; Caphalus and Procris; Pyramus and Thisbe; Honos et Virtus; Hannibal; Scipio Africanus; Romulus and Remus; Curtius leaping into the fiery lake; Popilius, the Roman legate, drawing a circle round Antiochus IV. of Syria; Charles V., of Germany; Arms of Constantinople, with Portrait of Sultan; Henry IV. of France, on horseback, 1606; Henry IV. and Marie de Medici, with View of Rheims; Bust of Vespasian R. IVDÆA CAPTA S.C., — but the most common type is the Imperial orb within tressure, or Floral decorations. The execution of most of these pieces is superior to the generality of Nuremberg counters, and accounts for their great success and vogue, which made them sought after even in this country, where they were often circulated as money to supply the dearth of small currency, or used as blanks over which Tradesmen's Tokens were struck.

The "Counters" or "jetons" were originated in France in the thirteenth century and were commonly used in that country, Germany, the Netherlands, and in England, from about the time of Henry VIII., for the purpose of reckoning. Snelling gives an interesting account of the manner in which counters were used, viz. by laying them on lines, increasing in their value from the bottom, which is a line of Units; the second, or next above it, is a line of Tens; the third a line of Hundreds, the fourth of Thousands, and so on. A counter laid on the first line is only 1, being laid on the second line it is 10, on the third it is a 100, on the fourth it is a 1000, on the fifth it is 10000, &c. A counter laid in the space between the first and second line is 5; between the second and third it is 50; between the third and fourth it is 500; and so on; being in all cases equal to five of those which lay on the line under it, and half of one of those on the line over it. By this contrivance, less room is required to perform the operations in, and they are done by half the number; that is, four counters on each line, and one above it, are sufficient, instead of nine, which would otherwise have been wanted on each line". He then goes on to describe how additions and subtractions were made.

In the Netherlands and Austria, historical counters were given as "Etrennes" every New year; in France, the Kings were accustomed to present them to officers of their Household, and Public Bodies in their turn to the Kings and Princes of the Blood.

One of Hans Krauwinkel's counters represents Queen Elizabeth on horseback & Shield of France and England, and another, probably by him, bears on obv. a full blown heraldic rose with the cipher of K H (Henry VIII. and Katharine ?) on R. Another bears allusion on R to the Massacre of the S<sup>t</sup> Bartholomew (Vide Num. Chronicle, 1896, p. 272).

"The counters struck at Nürnberg became current for reckoning in England about 1328, but were forbidden currency by statute in 1335." (Boyne, Trade Tokens, I, preface xx).

— Memorial Medal of King Christian VIII., 1848; — Agricultural Prize Medal, 1861; — Another, of 1863; — Accession Medal of Christian VIII., 1839; — Silver Wedding Medal of Christian VIII., and Caroline Amalie, 1840. (R̄. only; illustrated). The two last medals were designed by the great sculptor Thorwaldsen; — Jubilee of King Frederick VI.; — 4th Centenary of the House of Oldenburg; — Some Coin-dies for the currency of Christian VIII.; — Portrait-medals of celebrated Personages; — Busts, &c.

Bolzenthall makes the following comment on the artist :
“ F. Krohn, born in 1806, has worked as a Medallist since 1833 and was before that a Sculptor, which we may perceive on his medals. On his journey through Germany he went to Berlin, where he studied die-sinking under Brandt. If we compare Krohn's earlier works, such as the medal of the comic poet Hermann Wessel, with his later ones, such as that on the Festivities in commemoration of the acceptance of the Augsburger Confession of Faith, we notice much progress ”.

By him is a Jubilee Plaque of the Loos Die-sinking establishment, 1901, signed A. KRÜGER FEC.; also Medals: First Communion; — Official medal of the Inauguration of the Berlin cathedral, 1905. This last medal has on obv. a bust of William II. and on R. a view of the cathedral.

KRUEGER, CHRISTIAN JOSEPH (Germ.). Mint-engraver and Medalist at Dresden; son of EPHRAIM BENJAMIN K. and younger brother of FRIEDRICH HEINRICH K.; born at Dresden in 1759, and died there on the 4th of February 1814. He studied drawing and sculpture at the Academy of Dresden, under the direction of Hutin and Knöfler. After eight years' studies, he undertook journeys through Livonia and Russia, and worked at various places, giving his special attention to Portrait-medallions in wax, busts and terra-cottas. At St. Petersburg he first began medal-engraving, to which art he later on devoted himself entirely. He was employed in Prussia, and called back to Dresden in 1790, as second Engraver to the Mint.

Amongst his best known medals are; Conclusion of the Treaty of Pilnitz, 1791 (signed: C. I. KRÜGER IUN.); — Mayen captured from the French by the Prussians, 1793 (signed: C. I. KRÜGER F.); — Peace of Tilsit, 1807, R. IM GENUSS WOHLTHÄTIGER RUHE; — The new Century, 1800; — Georg Joachim Zollikofer, theologian of Leipzig, † 1788; — Reinhard, Saxon theologian; — Jubilee of Franz Georg Lock, Bishop of Bautzen, 1801; — Dr E. Jenner, Peace of Lunéville, 1801 (2 var.); — The Electorate of Saxony erected into a Kingdom, 1806; — Napoleon at Dresden, 1807.

By him are also: Crucifix in ivory; — Venus and Amor (after Knöfler); — Charon (after Hutin), &c. in terra cotta.

KRUEGER, GOTTFRIED (Germ.). Medallist and Mint-master at Copenhagen, second half of the seventeenth century, 1645-1680. He engraved various commemorative medals of the reigns of Frederick III. and Christian V., which are usually signed G.K.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Bolzenthall, op. cit. — Jorgensen, Beskrivelse over Danske Moner 1448-1888.

KRUEGER, HANS (Germ.). Seal-engraver at Breslau, 1618. He was a witness against Burkhard Hase when the latter was prosecuted for having exported good coins to Poland.

KRUEGER, KARL REINHARD (Germ.). Mint-engraver and Medallist at Dresden; born at Dresden, 20. March 1794; died there, 20. February 1879. He was apprenticed to D. Loos at Berlin, and became later Medallist to the Court of Saxony. His brother Ferdinand Anton K. was a clever Copper-plate-engraver.

Most of K. R. Krueger's medals are connected with Saxon history; amongst them I may notice : Portrait-medal of Karl Maria von Weber, composer, 1825; — C. A. Böttiger, archaeologist, 1830; — Jubilee of King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, 1818 (2 types; one was executed in collaboration with Stadelmann); — 8th Anniversary of King Anton of Saxony, 1835; — Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, 2nd Centenary of the Battle of Lützen, 1832; — First Centenary of Count Zinzendorf, founder of the Moravian Community, 1822; — Giovanni Perluigi Palestrina, composer, 1842; — Centennial Festival on St. John's day by the Grand Orient of Dresden, 1817; — Golden Wedding of Georg Adolph Fischer and Christiana Sophia, 1823; — Heinrich Posthumus, Duke of Saxony, Gymnasium Prize Medal of Gera, 1845; — F. G. Lock, Bishop of Antioch, 1851; — Rebuilding of St. John's Church at Zittau; — Christian Daniel Beck, Leipzig, 1839; — Dr S. Hahnemann, Meissen, 1829; — Dr Johann August Wilhelm Heden, Dresden; — Adolph von Hanselt, 1838, etc.

KRUG, HANS (SENIOR). (Germ.). Goldsmith, Die-cutter and Mint-master at Nuremberg, 1496-1509; died in 1514. He also excelled in the casting of medals. In a document, dated 1509, he declares himself ready to undertake the casting of two medals (Pfenninge), in a clean and masterly manner (reiner und werklicher), of the Prince-Elector of Saxony, on the casting of which medals Dürer was to have been consulted.

He may have been the Engraver of Tentzel, Pl. II, nos I, II, III, Double Thaler, 1517, Thaler, same date, and subsidiary coins of Frederick III., of the "Bonnet" type, revived by Hans Krug, Junior, after 1513.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Erman, Deutsche Medailleure, 1884. — Gerbert-Nürnberg, Geschichte der Münzstätte der Reichstadt Nürnberg, 1891.

KRUG, HANS (JUNIOR) (Germ.). Goldsmith and Mint-engraver at Nuremberg; died in December, 1518. He was appointed Die-cutter at the Mint in 1513 (auf absteen Hannssen Crafftis ist der Jung Hanns krug Goltschmied zu ainem eyssenegraber ertailt und sol im acht guldin zu russgelt gegeben werden). Mint documents of 1517 again mention the Die-cutter Hans Krug the younger, and one of 1519, states that Hans Krug the younger having died in December 1518, the Town Council of Nuremberg resorted again to Hans Krafft, who had been Mint-engraver from 1509 to 1513.

Hans Krug Junior worked for the Prince-Elector of Saxony, and according to Dr Ehrenberg, he is probably the author of the following coins and medals, reproduced in Tentzel L. E. Pl. I, Nos 1-IV; 2, Nos 1, II, v; 3, I-III : Thaler of 1507, Arms and Eagle; — Half Thaler of Frederick III. the Wise, of Saxony, 1518 (?), probably by Hans Krug Junior.

KRUG, HANS (Germ.). Modeller at Nuremberg, circ. 1570.

KRUG, LUDWIG (Germ.). Goldsmith, Sculptor, Medallist, Painter and Copper plate-engraver of the sixteenth century; died at Nuremberg in 1532. He was the son of Hans Krug the Elder. Neudörffer (p. 124 ed. Lochner) remarks: "Er hatte Verstand der Silber- und Goldarbeit, im Reissen, Stechen, Graben, Schmelzen, Malen, Schneiden, Conterfetten... Was er aber in Stein, Camee und Eisen schnitt das war auch bei den Wahlen (Wälschen) löblich... Als aber Herr Melchior Pfinzing, Propst zu St. Sebald, welcher fürwahr von Kaiser Maximilian her im Giessen und anderen Künsten begierig und verständig war, den Hanns Schwarzen von Augsburg (der dann zu der Zeit in Holz für den besten Conterfetter geachtet wurde) in Pfarrhof bei ihm hatte, war ich dabei, dass er zu diesem Schwarzen sagte, er sollt ihn conterfetten in Holz, so wollt er ihn dagegen einwärts in Stahl conterfetten, daraus man schliessen mag, was dieser Ludwig Krug für ein Künstler gewesen ist."

From Lochner we learn also that Ludwig Krug became Master in 1522 and that he died in 1532. He is called "Meister des Kruges", as he used a Tankard for his special mark. Amongst his engravings, the following are known : Birth of Christ ; — The Adoration of the three Kings (1516) ; — Ecce Homo ; — Nude females with Skull ; — Charity or Madonna ; — St. Sebastian, etc., — and amongst his wood-cuttings : The Fall ; — Banishment from Paradise, &c.

At the Berlin Museum is preserved a small Plaque, representing the Fall (1514), which bears the artist's mark. This appears to be the only authenticated medallic work of Ludwig Krug, to whom one would like to ascribe the charming Portrait-medals of 1525-26, knowing as we do, from Neudörffer, that this Master excelled in the making of Portraits (Conterfetten). It is true that the Berlin plaque and these Nuremberg medals have nothing in common in style, as Erman duly observes ; but a fact he notices too, — the signature LK 152 occurring, engraved on the R. of a uniface impression of the well-known small portrait of Dürer, 1527<sup>1</sup> (Trésor 7, 2) of the important series of Nuremberg medals to which the masterpieces of 1525-26 also belong, — shows that in his mind he still clings to Krug as the possible author of the following pieces, which he declares to be the work of only one and the same artist.

Müller & Singer, Allgemeines Künstler Lexicon, II, p. 401, remarks : "Von ihm im Berliner Museum ein kleines Relief, den Sündenfall darstellend. Ferner andere Reliefs und Medaillen von 1525 und 1526."

Some of the medals enumerated below, belong to "the finest that German Art has created", be their author Ludwig Krug, Flötner, Hagenauer, or other artists.

1525. Paul Gerstner (Berlin Museum) ; — Bastian Starcz (Trésor 5, 7) ; — Casimir of Brandenburg and Susanna (Berlin) ; — Steffan Gabler of Nuremberg ; — Barbara Pfinzing (Berlin) ; — Hedwig von Münsterberg, Margravin of Brandenburg (Berlin) ; — Hans von Obernitz (Berlin) ; — Kuncz Schmirer (Berlin) ; — Wolf Keczel of Nuremberg (Berlin) ; — Barbara..., born Keczel (Berlin ; reproduced in Erman, pl. II, 1) ; — Undated. The same Person, with "Trew ist aller Ern werth". Dannenberg owned a box-wood model of that medal, with inscription of later date. — Dorothea Keczel ; — 1525. Ambrosius Quez (Trésor 6, 1) ; — 1526. Anna Kolbin (Berlin) ; — Sebastian von Rotenhan, Councillor to the Electoral Court of Mayence (Berlin) ; — Michael von Mergetheim, Abbot of St. Stephen's cloister at Würzburg (Berlin) ; — Johannes von Gutenberg, Domdechante (Deacon) at Würzburg.

1. Mr Max Rosenheim, who possesses a specimen of this Dürer medal, is also convinced that it is the work of Ludwig Krug.

(Berlin Museum. — Trésor 6, 8; illustrated); — Margrave Friedrich von Brandenburg, Provost of Würzburg (Trésor 6, 2); — Christoph Kres (Berlin. A specimen described by Imhof is said to have an I on arm); — Hans Nuykum (Berlin); — Georg Kocktzer (Berlin; Trésor 6, 7; Erman, pl. II, 3); — Seb. Staiber (Berlin); — Clemens Volcamer (Berlin); — Bernhard Baumgartner (Berlin); — Georg Ketzel (Berlin); — Christoph Fierer (Berlin; Trésor 6, 4); —

Johannes von Gutenberg, by an unknown artist.

Johann Geuder (Berlin); — Wilhelm, Bishop of Strassburg (Berlin); — Albrecht, Cardinal and Archbishop of Mayence (Berlin); — Jordan von Herzheim (Berlin; Trésor 5, 8); — Friedrich Behaim (Berlin); — Johann Kleberger (Berlin); — Lypold von Kliczengk (Trésor 5, 4), etc. Also 1527. Albrecht Scheurl (Berlin); —

Christoph Kress, by an unknown artist.

Albrecht Dürer (Trésor 7, 2; Rosenheim) and very small medals: 1526. Friedrich Behaim (Berlin; Trésor 6, 9); — Christoph Kress (Berlin; Erman, pl. II, 4); — 1527. Alexander Imhot (Berlin); — Hans Nuykum (Berlin); — Ulrich Stark (Berlin); — Friedrich, Abbot of St. Giles in Nürnberg (Num. Chron., 1904, pl. v, 7; Brit. Mus.).

As common characteristics of most of these medals, Erman mentions the following : the bust reaches downwards to the edge of the medal ; the letters are slender, wavy, with sharp angles, and exhibit peculiar forms ; the legend is usually separated from the field by two incuse concentric lines ; the titles are abbreviated in ZC :

The medal of Albrecht, Archbishop of Mayence, and most of the medals above cited, are attributed to Ludwig Krug, by Domanig, and to Peter Flötner, by Lange.

Ludwig Krug, who is sometimes called the "Master of the Pitcher" was also a Painter and Engraver. Williamson, in Bryan's Dictionary of Painters and Engravers, III, 1904, mentions several prints by him.

KÜBLER, ANTON (Germ.). Mint-engraver at Wiesbaden, 1847.

KÜCHLER, CONRAD HEINRICH (Germ.). Medallist and Coin-engraver of the last quarter of the eighteenth century and early part of the nineteenth. The precise dates of his birth and death I have been unable to ascertain. He was a native of Flanders, appears to have worked at first in Germany as Die-sinker at Darmstadt, 1763-1772, Mannheim, 1766, and Frankfort-on-M., 1775, then in France, and probably came over to England about 1790, where for many years, perhaps until 1806, he was employed by Boulton at the Soho Mint, Birmingham. Joseph und Fellner give 1802 as the probable date of his death, which cannot be correct, as the copper coinage of 1805 and 1806, of an entirely new type, as well as tokens of Dublin, 1818-1821 are signed by him.

While at Birmingham, K chler cut the dies for a large number of English, Irish, Danish, Russian, Portuguese, &c., Coins, and Patterns of coins, amongst which I shall enumerate all the varieties known to me.

"K<sup>ü</sup>chler", says a writer, in Monthly Review, XVI, 119 "gave the

“C. H. Küchler”, (S. Timmins, Birmingham and the Midland Hardware District, 1866, p. 564) “who sunk nearly the whole of the dies for the celebrated Soho coinage, and notably, for the well-known Twopenny piece, worked mainly in the French style. He was at one time living at 22 Bride Court, Fleet Street, Birmingham, where he carried on business as Medal-engraver and Die-sinker. After having been many years at Soho, he quarrelled with Boulton, and seems to have ended his days in straitened circumstances. He lies in Handsworth Churchyard, without a stone to mark his resting-place. At the time of his leaving Soho he had commenced the die for the celebrated medallion of Boulton, for finishing which Pidgeon afterwards received £ 300... Mills was employed after KÜCHLER'S departure”.

Λ, ΞΛ or ΛΕ (Greek). Perhaps an abbreviation for Leôn or Leônidas; signature of a Tarentine Coin-engraver, whose period of activity is comprised between 380-345 B.C. The influence of this artist is very marked on the Tarentine issues, from the beginning of Period III of Evans, and even before, and all the Didrachms signed Λ offer the same characteristics of style and design.

Dr Arthur Evans describes these coins in the following manner: "The coins, characterized by the compact character of the engraving, show considerable skill in composition, and we seem to acquire distinct evidence of the reaction of individual master-pieces of sculpture and painting on the die-sinker's art. Of singularly sculptural aspect is the horseman with the bridle-arm in front of his horse's neck, and his head gracefully inclined towards that of his charger — a masterpiece of skilful pose and harmonious balance, which suggests the influence of some familiar relief in marble. It is as it were a detached figure taken from a frieze, and makes us the more regret that so little of the sculpture of the Tarentine temples has been preserved. Not inferior to this in artistic conception, and, indeed, displaying a marked fellow feeling with it, is the reverse of the same piece representing Taras, his head bowed forward as before, seated sideways on his marine charger, an arm resting on the dolphin's tail, the other lightly laid upon its forehead, his whole attitude instinct with reverie and repose (Vide n° 9). This remarkable coin is signed Λ, assuredly indicating the same artist who signs VE and Λ during Period II, and the same signature is found on several coins of Period III. The coins with these signatures rank among the best examples of the compact style of engraving described above, and from the correspondence alike of signature and of artistic tradition we are justified in concluding that the peculiarities of this class are largely due to the influence of a single engraver. The reverse of the coin signed  $\Xi\Lambda$  in minute letters is, from an artistic point of view, extremely remarkable. Though the horse on the obverse is still somewhat immature, the exquisite figure of Taras pointing downwards at the sea-creature, whatever it may be, at which with his other arm he aims a dart, will not easily find a parallel for playful grace and lightsomeness of touch. In feeling, however, it is curiously in harmony with the beautiful coin signed  $\Lambda$ , while the obverse designs of other coins with the same signature present an equally close agreement in their type of the galloping horseman. Style, signature, and design alike lead us to refer these works to the same artist whose initial Le... may find its completion in such well-established Tarentine names as Leôn or Leônidas (Evans, Horsemen of Tarentum, p. 48).

Period II. Before circ. B.C. 380.

1.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Naked Ephêbos crowning stationary horse to r.; beneath horse,  $\Lambda$ .

9.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Naked youth galloping to r.; beneath horse,  $\Lambda$ .

$\mathcal{R}$ . Taras astride on dolphin, holding out akrostolion.

Evans, op. cit., p. 58, B n° 1. — M. P. Vlasto Collection.

$\mathcal{R}$ . Taras seated sideways on the dolphin to l., his head slightly inclined forward.

Evans, op. cit., p. 58, C n° 1, Pl. III, 5. — M. P. Vlasto Collection.

10.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Didrachm. Obv. Naked Ephēbos (apobate) on horseback galloping to l.; under the horse,  $\Lambda$ .

$\mathcal{R}$ . Taras on dolphin to l.; his right arm resting on dolphin's back and holding in extended right hand an akrostolion; under the dolphin,  $\text{TAPA}\Sigma$ .

B. L. or B L. Vide Vol. I. (Germ.). Signature of a Saxon Medallist, who worked circ. 1669-1694, and produced some excellent work. Erman calls him "ein sehr guter Medailleur", and notices that after 1682 the style of his medals is quite altered and resembles somewhat that of Leygebe, whom he however did not equal.

Thus signed are the following medals: 1664. Johann Caspar von Ampringen, Grand Master of the Teutonic Order (Dudik, Pl. 9, 107); — 1669. John George II. of Saxony (with various reverses, Itzinger. Tentzel Lin. Alb., Pl. 57, 111, 111); — 1669. John George III. as Prince-electoral (Berlin. Tentzel E. 1. Pl. 63 I); — Johann Adam Scherzer.

1669. Andreas Kauxdorff Senior, an ecclesiastic (Berlin); — 1669. Johann Adam Scherzer, professor of theology at Leipzig (illustrated); — 1672. Hans Andreas Hommel (Berlin); — Undated. Martin Geier, Court-preacher at Dresden, after 1665; — 1682. Johann Olearius, Court-preacher at Weissenfels (Berlin); — 1683. Valentin Alberti, professor of theology at Leipzig (Berlin); — Undated. Carl Caspar von der Leyen, Archbishop of Treves (1652-1676); — 1694. Georg Balthasar von Sandrart, painter (Berlin).

These medals are full of character and executed in a free manner.

Several of Lagrange's works may be seen at the Luxembourg Museum, Paris.

“La technique de M. Lagrange, qui est, lui aussi, un ancien, dit-fère de la manière large et libre de ses confrères plus jeunes; mais n'est-il pas intéressant de voir le vieil artiste suivre le mouvement et, en ces dernières années, montrer dans une médaille représentant un Mineur une juvénilité, une souplesse qui témoignent que son esprit alerte a suivi avec intérêt les recherches de la nouvelle école?” (Saunier, La Médaille française contemporaine, L'Art décoratif, Octobre 1901, p. 34).

Lagrange, who distinguished himself also as a statuary, stands foremost in the pleiad of French medallists, and his success is well deserved.

LAING, HENRY (Brit.). Son of the last; was born in London in 1803. At the age of about fourteen he was apprenticed to William Tassie, under whom he acquired a knowledge of drawing and modelling, and imbibed that love for art and archaeology which became the master passion of his life. He remained some eight years with Tassie; and then entered into partnership with Daniel Newton Crouch, a Seal-engraver in London, whose sister he afterwards married. About 1829 he settled in Edinburgh as a Gem-engraver and maker of glass seals which were then in great demand; and, according to a writer in 'Notes and Queries' for 25th May 1861, he was accustomed to supply 'block seals, as well as the enamel casts, and, indeed, everything of the kind which Tassie either made or sold'. He executed a few medallion-portraits in wax from the life, among these, one of his wife, modelled about 1826".

H. Laing Junior, who died in 1883, will perhaps best be remembered as the compiler of two volumes of Ancient Scottish Seals, 1850 and 1866.

LALIQUÉ, RENÉ (French). Artist Goldsmith and Jeweller, born at Ay-en-Champagne (Marne); pupil of the Ecole des Arts décoratifs; worked first for many years as a Designer of jewellery and practical Goldsmith for various firms; started business on his own account in 1885 and won various distinctions at English exhibitions, but owes his fame partly to the patronage and encouragement of the great French actress, M<sup>me</sup> Sarah Bernhard, who brought his genius and talent before the public notice, by wearing in her various rôles jewels and ornaments specially designed and executed for her by him. "It was at the "Exposition des Arts de la Femme", says a writer in Magazine of Art, 1903, "that Lalique first revealed himself. Thenceforward, by his annual exhibitions at the Salon, he forced himself upon the minds and the taste of an unsympathetic public who at first would hardly give him fair consideration, but whom he conquered by sheer pluck and artistic merit".

"Lalique", continues the same writer, "is the apostle of the latest art in one of the most ancient crafts... At the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1900 the Lalique exhibition was a dream of beauty and a delight for the eye. I recollect spending many hours in admiration, perfectly spellbound under the influence of this unexpected triumph of colour, a triumph, indeed, of the highest art."

Portrait-medal of Mme Sarah Bernhard, by Lalique.

"Lalique differs greatly from most of his followers, since, although an artist born, he is also a most careful craftsman. Far from despising gems, he uses them lavishly when they suit his scheme of colour, and he uses them, not because they are expensive, but although they are expensive. Yet he will set richly a worthless matrix of opal, and carve a dancing girl in a piece of wood of no intrinsic value whatever. No material is too common if it is beautiful, none is too rich if it suits his purpose, and he knows no limit but harmony of colour and proportion."

Among the articles of pure jewellery design by René Lalique, many are based on the glyptic art. "Ornament workers in all ages" says M. Roger Marx (Studio, Vol. 15, p. 22) "have willingly undertaken to act as medallists, in the course of their mission as embellishers of materials, and as part of their task as jewellers".

Indeed Lalique ranks high as a gem-engraver, for the many pretty carvings in precious stones that adorn his jewels, and as a Medallist, his Portrait-medal of M<sup>me</sup> Sarah Bernhard and others, not taking into account the many medallic Portrait Brooches and Pendants, have made him also sufficiently well-known.

Enamelled Portrait-Plaque, forming the centre of a parure (belonging to M<sup>me</sup> Waldeck-Rousseau).

“ As an admirer of natural perfection and a delightful colourist, Lalique is an acknowledged master, while every one of his works is impregnated with marvellous taste and artistic feeling... He will always stand alone as the real creator and the ablest representative of one of the most important artistic movements of the nineteenth century." (G. A. Fournier, René Lalique, Magazine of Art, 1903, p. 25).

LALYAME, PHILIPPE or PHILIBERT (French). Sculptor and Medallist of Lyons, 1602-1622. He is the author of a fine cast Portrait-medallion of Pierre de Monconys, which bears his signature, and perhaps also of the following, although they are unsigned: Balthazar de Villars; — Marcel Bozon; — Nicolas de Lange, etc.

By him are a bronze bust of Henry IV., and three statues of St. John and St. Stephen.

The artist was still living in 1622.

“ M. G. Lambert ”, writes M. Babelon, “ qui chaque année, depuis 1879, expose des pierres gravées en creux est, avec M. Lechevrel, un de nos rares artistes qui maintiennent l’intaille au-dessus de la gravure des sceaux héraldiques. Il nous a donné dans ce genre un certain nombre d’œuvres d’un dessin souple et gracieux, qui sont présentement pour la plupart, au Musée Galliera; on lui doit aussi d’excellents portraits. L’œuvre importante qu’il a exposée au Salon, cette année (1902) est une Ronde d’enfants sur une cornaline de grandes dimensions, où l’on retrouve les mêmes qualités de grâce spirituelle, d’harmonie et de souplesse élégante. ” (Revue de l’Art, 1902, II, 27).

Lambert was awarded the Order of the Lion and Sun by the Shah of Persia.

He has collaborated in some of the recent medals issued at Geneva, and is a partner in the die-sinking works of J. Lamunière & H. Schoenenberger at Versoix. His signature occurs on the following pieces : Badge of the Genevese section of the Swiss Society of Federal Officials, 1902 ; — Advertisement Plaque of the Die-sinking works of J. Lamunière & Schoenenberger at Versoix, 1902 ; — Tir de l'Escalade, 1902 ; — Third Centenary of the Escalade of Geneva by the Savoyards in 1602, etc.

M. Stroehlin calls Lamunière a young man with a great future.

LAMY, GUILLAUME (French). Mint-engraver in Béarn, circ. 1577-1610. He may have been a son of Pierre Lamy, who was Mint-engraver at Aix in 1560. The first mention made of him is dated 1577 and records a payment of 802 livres for ten rings mounted with diamonds, rubies and opals. About 1581 he was Mint-assayer at Morlaas. In the same year he married the widow of Jérôme Lenormant, who was Mint-engraver at Pau from 1572 to 1580. In 1582, Lamy issued at Morlaas pieces of Twenty Sols, Liards, and Baquettes, which bear his distinctive mark; in 1583, Liards. He then became Mint-master at Pau and issued there Twenty Sol pieces in 1584 and 1585. Until 1590, he remained Mint-master at Morlaas, coupling this office with that of Engraver of the coins of Morlaas and Pau. Circ. 1591, Lamy is styled Goldsmith to the King and Engraver of the coins of Béarn, and again in 1604 and 1609. 1599-1604, as Mint-master at Bayonne, he issued there also Quarter and Half Ecus. M. Blanchet thinks he probably died in 1610, when he must have been about sixty years old.

LANCE (French). A Portrait-medal of Vincent, Count Piccolomini, 1843, is thus signed.

LANCELOT, CAMILLE PAULIN (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing at Paris. He modelled the ℞ of a Portrait-medal of Beethoven, edited by Bescher in 1899, and previously: 1883. Portrait-medal of Gambetta; — 1884. L'Anatomie en famille, bronze medallion; — 1885. Daphnis and Chloe; — Two Portrait-medallions of Ladies; — 1887. M. & M<sup>me</sup> D***; — 1892. Two Portrait-plaquettes, &c.

LANCELOT-CROCE, M<sup>me</sup> MARCELLE RENÉE (Ital.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist; daughter of the sculptor, Emile Lancelot; was born at Paris, and married the Italian sculptor, Signor Croce; pupil of her father, Eugène Delaplanche, Chaplain and Ponscarne. In 1889, she obtained a medal of the Third class and a " Bourse de voyage", the first ever granted to a lady-artist; in 1892, a medal of the second class.

Before her marriage, M<sup>lle</sup> Lancelot already attracted notice as a Medallist, and since 1878, when she was only fifteen years old, she has been a regular exhibitor at the annual Paris Salons. Chavignerie et Auvray give a list of her exhibits between 1878 and 1882: 1878. Portrait-medallions of M. V<sup>***</sup>. and his grandson; — M. G. L. <sup>***</sup>; — M<sup>lle</sup> J. At the Salon of 1904, this artist exhibited a frame containing medals in gilt and plated bronze.

The Paris Mint struck in June 1904 a gold medal, which was offered by the 3rd Battalion of Bersaglieri to King Victor Emmanuel III, in commemoration of the anniversary of the creation of the Bersaglieri.

Her commemorative medal of President Loubet's Visit to the Italian Sovereigns is one of her best, and she recently executed a very pretty pendant jewel on the occasion of the Christening of the Prince of Piedmont, with his portrait.

"M<sup>me</sup> Lancelot-Croce", says a writer in Art, "dont la beauté brille au plus haut degré par le caractère, cette qualité suprême qui est précisément l'essence même de son talent, M<sup>me</sup> Lancelot-Croce possède le don de l'invention dans des conditions extrêmement équilibrées. Ce qu'elle veut exprimer l'est toujours d'autant mieux que chacune de ses créations est exempte de tout excès. Rien de trop; pas la moindre surcharge. Tout est dit, mais tout l'est avec mesure et vous n'en appréciez que mieux l'extrême saveur de ce talent qu'il faut ranger parmi ceux qui sont incontestablement hors de pair. L'exécution marche, chez elle, constamment de pair avec la pensée; cette main délicate sait imprimer à sa facture des accents virils qui lui donnent une originalité de plus".

M. Bénédite, Keeper of the Luxembourg Museum, says: "Les médailles de M<sup>me</sup> Lancelot-Croce sont d'un art facile et hâtif; on les dirait improvisées."

A number of this artist's medals are reproduced in Marx's Médailleurs Contemporains, Pl. 28 and various Art magazines.

LANDI, DOMENICO (Ital.). Gem-engraver of Lucca, who was working at Rome in the early part of the eighteenth century. In 1716 he cut a bust of Augustus in chalcedony, which had been ordered of him by the Marquis di Fuentes, Portuguese ambassador to the Pope. In 1720, he executed a portrait of N. Duodo, the Venetian envoy, on an emerald. By him are also two fine gems, of larger dimensions than ring-stones, and presenting portraits of Trajan, Plotina, Matidia and Marciana, facing each other; and the other of Septimius Severus, Julia Domna, Caracalla and Geta. His signature appears further on the following gems: Heads of Socrates, and his disciple Plato; — Head of Livia, onyx; — Commodus and Crispina, cornelian, &c.

Vettori calls Landi “one of the most famous artists at present in Rome”.

LANDRY, AMI JEAN JACQUES (Swiss). Watch-case-engraver and Medallist, born at Le Locle (canton Neuchâtel), 9. July 1800, died in March 1856. He was the first to introduce the press to stamp watch-cases in the watch-manufacturing district of Switzerland. His press soon obtained fame, and it was used in 1835 by John and Marc Louis Bovy to strike Antoine Bovy's large Medal of Calvin which on account of the high relief required a powerful press.

As a Medallist, he has produced: Commemorative medal awarded to J. J. Huguenin for his services to the State, 1830; — Third Centenary of the Reformation at Neuchâtel, with bust of William Farel, 1830; — Medal presented by the Legislative Council of Neuchâtel to General von Pfuël, Prussian Royal Commissioner, 1831, etc.

The Medallist, M. Fritz Landry, is Ami Landry's nephew.

LANDRY, FRITZ (Swiss). Painter, Sculptor, Medallist, and Professor of Drawing at Neuchâtel (Switzerland). Born at Le Locle in 1842, his childhood was spent amid surroundings which could not fail to impress his mind with love for art. His father and other members of his family were all watch-case engravers, and from his early youth he was accustomed to use the graving tool. His first laurels were won at the Académie des Beaux-Arts of Geneva. In Paris he studied under the celebrated medallist Antoine Bovy, and afterwards he visited Italy, where the taste for sculpture developed itself in him almost to a passion in studying the works of the Renaissance masters. On his return to his native country, M. Landry determined not to imitate, but to create, and to be himself in his own works.

This artist's medallic productions are of real merit. His Portrait-pieces of Agassiz, the great naturalist, and Fritz Berthoud, the distinguished novelist (illustrated) are treated, according to the personality, either in very bold or low relief. The gifted writer's characteristic head, his picturesque costume and headdress, remind one of the Florentine types of the Renaissance. Agassiz's head is that of the savant; the lofty forehead denotes the thinker; the look is that of the keen observer of nature; great kindness and nobility of feelings are revealed by the delineation of the mouth and chin.

But to my mind, the artist's Portrait-plaquette of Louis Favre, the life-long professor of literature and spirituel novelist of Neuchâtel, is a still greater success. Treated somewhat in the manner of the Viennese school, this portrait is excellent in every respect, and betrays the long personal acquaintance of the artist with the brilliant and profound scholar, and genial author of the Nouvelles neuchâteloises. M. Landry has surpassed himself. The likeness is life-like, full of expression. As a former pupil of M. Favre, I can speak for the accuracy of the physiognomy and wonderful rendering of moral traits which are so characteristic in this plaquette.

M. Landry is the designer of the latest Swiss gold coinage, which forms a new departure in the art of coinage. Helvetia is represented with the features of a Swiss maiden, portrayed from nature; in the freshness and energy of her expression, she symbolises a vigorous, valiant, and industrious nation; her eyes, full of hope, contemplate with pride the lofty summits which have witnessed six centuries of freedom and progress; a true daughter of the Alps, she wears a necklet of edelweiss, which adds grace and charm to the picture.

Another charming plaquette by Landry "Sic fugit Tempus" shows the good taste of the artist and allows comparison with the best productions of the French school, without sharing in some of the defects of Charpentier and his imitators.

Beside these, the Neuchâtel sculptor has executed many other medals : Louise Adèle, Portrait-plaquette ; — Alfred Bovet, Portrait-plaquette ; — Edouard Desor, 1811-1882 ; — Young Girl nursing

The best shots at Swiss federal or cantonal shooting festivals always receive, beside the cups of honour and other prizes, official medals. These had hitherto been, from an artistic point of view, of very commonplace designs — a female holding a carbine, an old Swiss warrior with his arquebuse, William Tell about to shoot the apple off the head of his son, &c. In the medal commemorating the 1898 Federal Tir of Neuchâtel, M. Landry has departed from the old routine, and thus marked a new and thoroughly modern idea of commemorating and representing a great national fête. Not less than the new twenty-franc piece, this work has been the object of sharp criticism and vigorous attacks, which, however, have not had the effect of discouraging the artist. His production is original in its conception and a great achievement as regards the execution. On the obverse, we find a group of marksmen, civilians, and soldiers, and a realistic representation of the Swiss shooting stands of the nineteenth century, with the modern arms, the different types of riflemen, etc. — in a word, a picture of the Swiss people at its great national festival. This is certainly more worthy of being preserved as an historic record than the repetition of well-known emblems and mottoes. The reverse, with the armorial shield of Neuchâtel, heraldic eagle, flags, and in the background a view of the castle and mountains behind, has a most picturesque and charming effect.

M. Landry deserves high praise for his untiring efforts to improve the style of medallic art; surely his best reward for years of patient and persevering labour must be the honour of having signed the coinage of his native country, and handed down to future generations for their contemplation truly Swiss productions of high artistic merit.

LANDRY, ULYSSE (Swiss). Watch-case Engraver of the second half of the nineteenth century. Father of the Medallist Fritz Landry of Neuchâtel. His share in medallic work is only indirect, as I do not know of any medal engraved by him, although I have seen it stated in Sale Catalogues that the medal commemorating the Internment of 80,000 French soldiers in Switzerland, 1871, was by him.

LANE, WILLIAM (Brit.). Gem-engraver of the end of the eighteenth century, by whom are the following gems, usually signed: W. L. or LANE F.: Head of Medusa, carnelian; — Calliope leaning upon a rock, carnelian; — Head of Sappho, carnelian; — The Character of Zingara of the Chevalier Bernini, &c.

LANÉRY, AUGUSTE (French). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Lyons; pupil of M. Fabisch. He is the author of numerous Portrait-medallions.

LANFRANCHI, ANGELO (French). Sculptor of the second half of the nineteenth century, born at Ajaccio; pupil of Toussaint and Barre. His signature A. LANFRANCHI F<sup>it</sup> PARIS 1863 occurs on a large Portrait-medallion in bronze, of Laffitte (?), which M. Florange, of Paris, has kindly brought to my notice. In the sixties, Lanfranchi was a frequent exhibitor at the Salon.

LANFRANCO, PAOLO and LAZZARO (Ital.). Mint-engravers at Milan, in the fourteenth century.

LANGE, KARL. Fiala erroneously gives to a Medallist of that name two medals, signed C. LANGE, commemorating the Marriage of the Emperor Francis Joseph I. and Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria, 1854, and Birth of the Archduchess Sophia, 1857. Both these medals are by KONRAD LANGE (q. v.).

LANGE, KONRAD (Austr.). Medallist and Mint-engraver at Vienna; died in 1856. From 1843 until his death he filled the post of Assistant-engraver at the Vienna Mint, and was employed in cutting dies for the Austrian coinage, under Joh. Bapt. Würth, and often in collaboration with Franz Gaul, Franz Zeichner, and other artists.

As a Medallist, his work deserves praise for the careful modelling of portraits and the great assurance with which he treated his subjects.

Among Lange's productions are : Inauguration of a Monument to Emperor Francis I. on the Burgplatz, 1846 (signed : K. LANGE); — Jubilee of Archduke Joseph, Palatine of Hungary, 1846; — Medals for Valour in the field, 1848-1849; — Baron Franz von Jacquin, naturalist, 1839 (signed : KONR. Archduke Joseph of Austria, by K. Lange.

Mayer von Rothschild, 1844; — Foundation of the German Fleet, 1848; — Prince Aug. Long. de Lobkowitz (1840); — Joseph Freiherr Jellacic von Buzim; — Victory of Novara, 1854; — Building of the Arsenal at Vienna, 1855, etc.

In 1845, Lange was entrusted with the cutting of dies for a new Greek coinage of King Otho. Pattern 5 Drachma pieces of that date exist (signed K. A.) but were not approved of by the Government, and the old dies engraved by Voigt were still used until 1847. In a later attempt, Lange was more successful. The artist's contribution to this series consists of : Α. 40 Drachmai, 1852 (8 specimens known); — 20 Drachmai, 1852 (unique); — Ρ. 5 Drachmai, 1851; — 1 Drachme, 1851; —  $\frac{1}{2}$  Drachme, 1851, 1855; —  $\frac{1}{4}$  Drachme, 1851, 1855; — Α. 10, 5, 2 and 1 Lepta, 1851, 1857.

Among his dies for the Austrian Coinage are : 4 Ducats, A 1852 (obv.); — 2 Ducats, 1852; — Ducats, 1852; — Double Gulden, 1852; — Gulden, 1852; — Sovrani for Lombardy-Venetia, 1853; — Mezzi Sovrani, 1853; — Double Gulden, 1855; — Twenty-Gulden, A, 1855; — Ten Gulden, A, 1855; — Five Gulden, A, 1855; — 4 Ducats, A, 1858.

LANTÉRI, ÉDOUARD (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor, a native of Burgundy, now a naturalised Englishman, is a pupil of the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, of Cavelier, Aimé Millet and Guillaume. He became assistant to Sir Edgar Boehm, when he was but twenty years old. He succeeded M. Dalou as master of the sculpture classes in the National Art Training School, now the Royal College of Art, South Kensington.

Prof. Lantéri is a member of the London Society of Medallists, and the author of a number of cast Portrait-medallions in bronze. Among these, Dr F. Parkes Weber mentions in his book on Nineteenth century English medals by foreign Artists the following : Sir J. Edgar Boehm, Bart., R. A., 1891 (signed : ED. LANTÉRI) ; — Sir Squire Bancroft, actor, 1889 ; — B. Bertrand, fencing master, 1889 ; — Mrs. Adelaide M. Moore, 1893 ; — George Morton, painter, 1889 ; — Robert Glassby, sculptor, 1888 ; — William Glassby, artist, 1888 ; — Andreas Grass, sculptor, 1888 ; — Sir Augustus Harris, 1890 (a struck medal, with R<sup>L</sup> Winged figure of Victory &c. ; modelled by Prof. Lantéri and struck by Heming & Co) ; — The French Hospital in London, 1898 ; — Portrait-plaquette of R. Phené Spiers, 1905 ; — Portrait-plaquette of Mrs L. W. Carnegie and daughter, 1905, &c.

“ Considered as a sculptor only ”, says Mr. Spielmann, “ Mr. Lantéri is a man of exceptional ability, endowed with a highly artistic temperament, and scarcely surpassed in this country or out of it in extreme dexterity in the use of the clay. This cleverness is absolutely marvellous, and his work is brilliant, individual, wonderful ... As a sculptor of portraiture his power is seen to be great ; he is full of vigour and animation ... As a teacher he has no superior, and many a successful sculptor of to-day owes much to his untiring energy, encouragement, and interest, such as he takes in all who have the good fortune to come under his care. ” (Spielmann, British Sculpture and Sculptors of to-day, pp. 127-128).

M. Lantéri's latest exhibits at the Royal Academy are restricted to sculptural work : 1899. Bronze bust of J. Sparkes, Esq. ; — 1900. Statuette of J. A. Grant, Esq. ; — 1901. “ Paysan ”, head in bronze ; — 1902. Rêverie, bust in marble; — 1903. Sir Walter Sendall, G. C. M. G., bust in marble; — Sir William Abney, K. C. B., F. R. S., bust in bronze; — H. M. King Edward VII., bust in bronze (to be placed in the French Hospital, London); — Portrait of a gentleman, bust in marble.

LANTING, KLEIS (Dutch). Silversmith, and Medallist of Amsterdam, born in 1783, died in 1827. “ He was a clever engraver ”, says Bolzenthall, “ and did a number of portraits of distinguished persons, with a masterly hand, in silver, and in the old way ”. Lanting’s medals are often uniface, like those of Pieter van Abeele; he only cared for the likeness which he cut in the steel with great freedom and technical knowledge. By him are : Portrait of Simon Stevin, of Bruges, teacher and friend of Prince Maurice of Orange (after an older work); — Johan de Witt (68×91 mill.); — Cornelis de Witt (72×93 mill.); — Samuel van Hoogstraten (74×100 mill.); — Dr Pieter Camper, of Leyden; — Dr Hermann Boerhaave, of Leyden; — Rutger Jan Schimmelpenninck, 1806, etc.

Bolzenthall eulogizes in highly appreciative terms the portrait-medal of Simon Stevin, but C<sup>te</sup> de Nahuys speaks of it as “ une copie assez mal venue ”.

LATIMER, WILLIAM LORD (Brit.). Mint-engraver in London, under Edward III., and Richard II. (1329-1381). We read in Ruding: "After the death of Lord Boutetourt, in the 18th year of Edward II., Maud his widow sold this office to William Lord Latimer, for himself and his heirs, in the 3rd. year of Edward III. As he made that purchase without the king's license having been first obtained, he was obliged to sue out his pardon; which was allowed; and the king further granted for himself and his heirs, as far as he had power, that the said William should have and hold, for himself and his heirs for ever, the said office of the king and his heirs, by the service due and accustomed, without any impediment, &c."

“ After this he seems to have enjoyed his office quietly until about the 27th year of Edward III., when he presented a petition to the king in parliament, stating that the office of engraver and maker of the king’s dies in the Tower of London and city of Canterbury belonged to him and his heirs, as plainly appeared by divers evidences; that of late he had been disturbed by the king’s servants in having and using the said office, touching the coins of noble, half and farthing noble, and the groat; because the said coins were then but newly commenced. He therefore prayed that the king would please to command full inquiry to be made, in that parliament, touching the same, and do right and reason to him, on the consideration that he had possession of the said office before such coins were made. In consequence of this petition he was commanded to produce his charters and other evidences.

“ The further proceedings do not appear; but it should seem that the determination was favourable to the petitioner, as the office was confirmed to him, about twenty years afterwards, without any exception of the coins above-mentioned.

“ He held this office until his death, in the 4th year of Richard II. ”

According to the above-quoted documents, Latimer is responsible for the dies of the first and subsequent coinages of Nobles, and Groats, &c. of Edward III., and it is interesting to note that on the first issue of Nobles and Quarter Nobles (no Half Nobles having yet been found of that issue), an L occurs in centre of R. This L is said to represent the name of the Mint (London). But after 1346, the L was altered into an €, for the King's initial. It has been suggested (Vide S. M. Spink, The Use of the Initial Letter L upon some of the Gold Coins of Edward III., Num. Circ., XV, 7562), that the alteration might have been made in consequence of possible complaints “ by the king's servants ” against Latimer for having placed on the coins the letter L which would stand for his own initial as well as for that of the London Mint.

The coins issued under Latimer's tenure of the office of Die-cutter are the following : EDWARD III. A. 1st Coinage. Florins, Half Florins and Quarter Florins. 2nd Coinage, 1344. Nobles and Quarter Nobles (L in centre of R). 3rd Coinage, 1346. Nobles, Half and Quarter Nobles (€ in centre of R). 4th Coinage. 1351-1360. Nobles, Half and Quarter Nobles (several varieties, with Title of King of England and France). 1360-1369. Nobles, Half and Quarter Nobles (sev. var., Title of King of France omitted, that of Duke of Aquitaine generally used on the Nobles and Half Nobles). 1369-1377. Nobles, Half and Quarter Nobles (sev. var., Titles of King of France and Duke of Aquitaine both used on Nobles; flag at stern of ship on Half Nobles). — Æ. Groats, Half Groats, Pennies, Halfpennies and Farthings. The Groats belong to three distinct coinages, 1351-1360, 1360-1369, and 1369-1377, varying in the King's titles, as the gold coins. The Half Groats and subsidiary silver coins do not follow the Groats in many particulars. — RICHARD II. Æ. Nobles, Half Nobles and Quarter Nobles (varieties with obv. or ℞. from die or Edward III). — Æ. Groats, Half Groats, Pennies, Halfpennies and Farthings.

An interesting Seal, reproduced here, of the Corporation of Moneyers, temp. Edward III., may have been engraved by, or by order of, Lord Latimer. Beneath the figure of Moneta (or Justice) is a full-faced head of Edward III. between two roses in a quatrefoil compartment, as on the Pattern Groats of that ruler.

LAUCH, BALTHASAR (Germ.). Goldsmith and Medallist of Leipzig, second half of the seventeenth century. His dated medals, mostly cast oval medallions of good workmanship, were produced between 1669 and 1683. Among these are the following: "Gnadenpfennige" of John George II., 1669 (signed B. L. on R.; three varieties, one illustrated); — Ernest the Pious of Gotha and his consort Elizabeth Badge of John George II., Duke of Saxony.

Sophia of Altenburg (unsigned, but attributed to Lauch by Dr Merzbacher); — Jacob Boehme, the sophist and mystic, 1575 (there is a modern reproduction of this medal, or it may be altogether a concoction).

LAUCH, HANS (Germ.). Mint-master at Quedlinburg, 1620-1624 and 1633-1637. His issues are said to be signed H. L. or H.

LAUER, ERNST LUDWIG SIGMUND (Germ.). A Nuremberg Die-sinker and Manufacturer of counters, 1791 — circ. 1797 (according to Kull, Repertorium &c. II, p. 710). He was born in 1762 and died in 1853. At Nuremberg he was known as "Flinderleinsschläger", or maker of tinsel ornaments, pendants, jetons &c.

LAUER, HANS CHRISTOPH (Germ.). Mint-master at Nuremberg, 1623-1639 (Kull, II, 710). Lauer was a Goldsmith by profession, and according to Gebert, he applied for the post of Master of the Mint in October 1618, and already in the same year, on the 9. December, he was entrusted with the issue of 150 Goldgulden for Würzburg, which bear his distinctive mark, a star. In 1619, Lauer restruck a large number of foreign gold coins into Nuremberg Goldgulden; again in 1620, and 1621, he was ordered to coin a large quantity of gold and silver currency. He died in September or October 1639 and was succeeded by his son, Johann or Hans David Lauer. His distinctive mark on the coins is a star.

LAUER, JOHANN FRANZ (Germ.). Mining-and Mint-administrator to the Kingdom of Bohemia, 1721-1732.

LAUER, JOHANN JAKOB (Germ.). Die-sinker and Manufacturer of counters at Nuremberg, born in 1788, died in 1863. He was a son of Ernst Ludwig Sigmund Lauer, and under him the business, which his father had allowed to drift, gradually advanced and regained its former reputation.

LAUER, LUDWIG CHRISTOPH (Germ.). Die-sinking establishment, founded in 1729, and reconstructed in 1860 under the style of "Münz-Präge Anstalt L. Chr. Lauer", Kleinweidenmühle No. 12, Nuremberg.

Begun in modest circumstances, the Lauer business was first developed by Johann Jakob Lauer, 1788-1863, son of Ernst-Ludwig Sigmund Lauer, but the real genius, who gave the establishment its present importance, was Ludwig Christoph Lauer. The vast improvements, both mechanical and artistic, which he introduced, since 1848, when he succeeded his father, Johann Jakob Lauer, until his death, in 1873, speak for the uncommon productive faculties and rare commercial abilities of this great worker. He knew, too, how to foster the ever-growing interest of the masses for medals, and he successfully attained the purpose of his life, in conquering the feeling of prejudice which existed against all the applied arts in general. He raised the standard of medallic art in Germany, and although his productions cannot be said to rank very high in artistic excellence, he paved the way in Germany for the modern school which, borrowing on the one hand from the style of work of French medallists, and on the other from that of the Austrian masters, is gradually making its influence felt, and may even yet revive the glorious traditions of the celebrated Nuremberg artists of the early sixteenth century.

L. Chr. Lauer started business in 1848 in the Waizenstrasse, n° 1468 as Medallist and Counter-manufacturer. In 1854 he introduced one of Uhlhorn's Coining-presses, thus doing away with handiwork. Four years later he moved into the present premises in the Kleinweidenmühle, where water power could be used for the working of the recently acquired presses, balanciers and other machinery.

In 1873, L. Chr. Lauer died, leaving his wife BETTY LAUER and three sons to carry on the works, which still gained in importance and extension. Steam power was added in 1881, and in 1884/85 new buildings with every accommodation were erected to cope with the ever increasing trade. In March 1888, the three brothers JOHANN LAUER, commercial manager, LUDWIG LAUER, technical manager, and the medallist WOLFGANG LAUER took the entire direction of affairs, aided by a competent staff of modellers, die-sinkers, silversmiths, and about one hundred workmen, enabling them to undertake every kind of medallic and decorative work in metal.

Among the best known earlier productions by the Lauers, I may mention the following: Jeton of Louis XVI., 1790; — Another of 1791 (sev. var.); — Death of Louis XVI., 1793; — Peace of Campo Formio 1797; — Coronation of Napoleon I., 1804 (7 var.); — Napoleon I. inaugurates the Golden Age, 1804; — Peace of Presburg, 1805; — Inauguration of the Railway from Nuremberg to Bamberg, 1844; — Foundation of the Masonic Lodge at Nuremberg, 1851; — Archduke John of Austria, Administrator of the Empire, 1848; — Adam von Itzstein; — Deutschland über Alles; — Termination of the Franco-German War, 1871; — Destruction by Fire of the St. Lorenz Church at Nuremberg, 1865; — Battle of Wörth, 1870; — Victory Day, 1871; — 4th Centenary of Albrecht Dürer, 1871; — Death of Pope Pius IX., 1878; — Accession of Leo XIII., 1878; — Rifle Meeting at Frankfort-on-M., 1862; — Birth of Alexander von Dachenhausen, 1848; — Baroness Frederica von Dachenhausen, 1864; — Henry William Edward von Dachenhausen, 1853; — Alfred von Dachenhausen, 1858; — Goethe and Schiller Memorial at Weimar, 1857; — Inauguration of the Railway from Nuremberg to Fürth, 1860; &c.

LAUFFER, CARL GOTTLIEB (Germ.). Mint-master at Nuremberg, 1746-1755. Franks & Grueber call him an Engraver (Vide Med. Ill., II, 730). A Thaler of Hall (Suabia), 1746, is signed C.G.L. It is probable that all the Lauffers, whose names I record here, had connection with die-sinking, and were Counter-manufacturers by trade. Carl Gottlieb Lauffer was a son of Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer, and is said to have left Nuremberg, a bankrupt, for Berlin, in 1755, where he was still living in 1769, and attained to some reputation.

LAUFFER, CASPAR GOTTLIEB (Germ.). Son of Lazarus Gottlieb Lauffer; Mint-master at Nuremberg, and Mint-warden to the District of Franconia, 1700-1745. Franks & Grueber mention that "he appears to be often confused with Carl Gottlieb Lauffer, the engraver", and give the description of a medal, issued by him, on the Capture of Tournay, 1709, engraved by Martin Brunner, and bearing the initials C.G.L.

Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer published in 1742 a Catalogue of medals issued by him, in conjunction probably with Lazarus Gottlieb Lauffer, Johann Gottlieb Lauffer, and Friedrich Kleinert. To this series of medals contributed not only the Lauffers, but also Martin Brunner, Georg Hautsch, Friedr. Kleinert, P. H. Müller, G. W. Vestner, Werner, C. Wermuth, and other artists. C. G. Lauffer evidently possessed the dies, as he offered to supply the medals in gold, silver, copper or tin, in any number.

From this Catalogue (*Das Laufferische Medaillen-Cabinet oder Verzeichniss aller Medaillen, welche sowohl die historischen Begebenheiten von A. 1679, biss A. 1742 als auch andere Christlich und Moralische Betrachtungen, nebst der vollkommenen Reihe der Römischen Päpste enthalten. — Coronation of Charles VII. at Frankfort; — Coronation of the Emperor and Empress, &c.

Lauffer further issued medals of a general character, such as : Religious medals; — Luther's Catechism (10 var.); — The Lord's Prayer; — Christening Medals (13 var.); — New year Souvenirs; — Birth of Christ; — Protection of the Holy Angels (2 var.); — The Love of Jesus; — The Christian Cardinal Virtues; — Faith, Love and Hope; — Faith and Love; — Patience; — Constancy in well doing and its Recompense; — Resignation to God's will; — Gratefulness and Gratitude; — Consideration and Caution; — The necessity and usefulness of Work (2 var.); — Wilful Blindness, Owl wearing spectacles and holding a torch in each claw; — On the Obedience of Children (3 var.); — True Friendship (4 var.); — Bribery; — Love (7 var.); — Conjugal Love (7 var.); — Marriage (7 var.); — Education of Children (2 var.); — Virtues of young men (by Geo. Hautsch); — Virtues of young women (by the same); — The four Ages of Man; — The good and bad Habits; — Hope; — Souvenir Medal, etc.

Beside all these, Lauffer edited a series of Portrait-medals of the Popes, from St Peter to Benedict XIV. (251 medals), and one of Jesus Christ, as Head of the Church.

Many of these medals are very common.

LAUFFER, CASPAR THEOPHIL (Germ.). A Nuremberg citizen who dedicated a medal to Charles VI., on the conclusion of the Peace of Passarowitz, 1718, which is one of the last works of P. H. Müller.

LAUFFER, CONRAD (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer at Nuremberg, during the third quarter of the seventeenth century. "In 1670 he received a special permission to strike Counters for games and reckoning. These often bore the busts of European monarchs." Among these I have noticed : Charles II. of Great Britain, 1662 (with R. legend : COUNTERS.CONR.LAUFFERS.RECH : PFENNING); — Another, 1667, R. Britannia seated (signed : C.L.R.); — Louis XIII. (CONRADT·LAVFER—RECHE PFENNM :); — Louis XIV., several varieties; — Philip IV. of Spain, &c.

By him is also a Portrait-medal, uniface, of Max Gandolph, Archbishop of Salzburg, undated. and signed : C. L.

Great Britain; — Philip III. of Spain; — Philip IV. and Louis XIV.; — The Dauphin (sev. var. signed C. L. with legends: A DELPHINO INCOLVMITAS—GALLICVS DELPHINVS, &c.).

LAUFFER, HANS (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer and Mint-master at Nuremberg, 1607-1645. Neumann describes 25 varieties of brass Jetons by this Die-sinker, signed HANS LAVFER; — HANNS LAVFER; — H. L.; — HANS LAFER; — H. LAVFER IN NVRMBERG; — H. LAVF.; — H. LAV.; — H. LA., &c. The counters refer to Henry IV. of France; — Henry IV. and Marie de Medicis; — Louis XIII. (with HANS LAVFER—VNICO VNIVERSV); — Louis XIII. and Anne of Austria; — Louis XIV.; — Gott allein die Ehr; — Perseus riding on Pegasus; — Arbeit und Tugend macht Edel; — Adam and Eve R. Christ on the cross; — Das Wort Gottes bleib ewich; — Noah in the ark; — The French Dauphin, 1614, &c.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — As above.

LAUFFER, JOHANN GOTTLIEB (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer at Nuremberg, in the early part of the eighteenth century. His signature I.G.L. occurs on commemorative Jetons of the Expedition to Vigo Bay, 1702 (Bust of Queen Anne); — Battle of Blenheim, 1704 (imported into England to be sold in the streets, or to be used as counters); — Coronation of George I. (signed L.), &c.

I have no doubt that Johann Gottlieb Lauffer largely contributed to the series of medals issued by Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Franks and Grueber, op. cit.

LAUFFER, LAZARUS GOTTLIEB (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer at Nuremberg, 1660-1700. Ammon says that he was Mint-master there in 1670, and Chief Mint-Warden of the district of Franconia. Franks and Grueber call him "Medallist and Chief Warden of the Mint at Nuremberg from 1670 to 1690", and add: "After this date he appears to have gone to Vienna and to have worked in partnership with Georg Hautsch", a statment which I have not been able to confirm. It is evident that Geo. Hautsch contributed to the series of medals issued by Lazarus Gottlieb Laufer and continued by his son Caspar Gottlieb Laufer, at least from 1683 to 1712, but I can find no record of Lazarus Gottlieb Laufer's leaving Nuremberg, nor that there were two Lazarus Gottlieb Lauffer, as mentioned in Medallic Illustrations, II, p. 730. I rather think that Lazarus Gottlieb Laufer's activity extended to the early part of the eighteenth century, until about 1717, when his son succeeded him as Chief Warden of the Mint.

All the medals enumerated under Caspar Gottlieb Lauffer, struck previous to 1717, were no doubt issued by this Medallist, who employed several die-sinkers and probably cut many of the dies himself.

His signature, which is usually L.G.L., occurs on many counters, among which I may mention : Marriage of Charles II. and Catharine (signed : L. G.: LAVF. RECH' (illustrated); — Do, with bust of Counter, by L. G. Lauffer.

Charles II. (signed on R. LAZA : GOTTL : LAVFFERS REICH·PFENNING·COUNTERS); Coronation of James II., 1685 (sev. var.); — Coronation of William III., 1689 (several varieties, one engraved by G. Hautsch, others signed : L.G.L.R.; — LAZ. GOTTL. LAVFER, &c.); — William and Mary, 1689 (sev. var.); — The Church of England preserved (obv. Bust of Queen Anne, several varieties); — Louis XIV. (sev. var., Neumann n<sup>os</sup> 32407-13), &c.

Lazarus Gottlieb Lauffer is said to have introduced at Nuremberg the coining-press, which was then already in use in France and England.

LAUFFER, MATHÄUS (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer and Bell-founder at Nuremberg, 1618-1625; Mint-master there in 1622. Neumann describes eleven varieties of counters issued by him : Gottes Segen macht reig (MATHEVS LAVFER); — Der Neid thutt im selbst Leidt; — Louis XIII. (several varieties); — Joab and Amasa (MATTHEVS LAVFFER); — Ambitios a Superbia (M. LAVF.); — Aut Caesar aut Nihil (MAT : LAV : and M. LAV.); — Louis XIII., 1618 (other varieties, signed M. L.; — M. LAVFFER; — M. LAVF); — Soli Deo Gloria, 1619 (MATHEVS·LAVFER·IN·NVRNBERG); — The Fall and the Cross, 1625, &c.

LAUFFER, WOLFGANG (Germ.). Counter-manufacturer at Nuremberg, circ. 1618-1660. His counters are very numerous. Among the best known are : Gottes Segen macht reich (WOLF·LAVFER); — Got alein di Ehre sei (WOLFF LAVFER IN NVRBER); — Wer Got vertraut hat (WVLF LAVFER.IN.NVRMBE.), and other mottoes; — Gottes Reich bleibt ewig (WOLF LAVFER IN NURNBERG); — Anfang bedenks endt; — J'aime et suis aimé; — Louis XIV. (sev. var.); — Louis XIII. (sev. var.); — The French Dauphin (sev. var.); — Ich hab die angenehme Kunst, die macht gerechtik : v : Gunst (WOLFF LAVFFER. — RECHPFENGMACHER); — Gelt macht schelck; — The Astrologist; — Festina lente; — Lucretia plunging the dagger in her breast; — Famam extendere factis; — Henry IV. of France; — Aut Caesar aut Nihil (WOLF. LAUF. and W. LAV.); — Ex pace Ubertas (WOLF. LAVF.); — The Alphabet; — Louis XIV. and Marie Thérèse; — Louis XIV. and Anne of Austria (sev. var., some dated 1615, 1616); — Romulus and Remus, 1619; — Jacob and the Angel, &c.

Most of W. Lauffer's counters are not quite circular, but more or less irregular. Neumann describes over thirty varieties.

LAUNAY. FRANÇOIS DE (French). Mint-engraver at Poitiers, 1616-1618.

LAUNAY, PIERRE DE (French). Goldsmith of Poitiers, son-in-law of François Gaillaudon, and his assistant as Engraver at the Mint of Poitiers, 1606-1616.

LAUNAY. JACQUES DE. Vide DELAUNAY (vol. I).

LAUNAY, NICOLAS DE (French). Director of the Paris Medal-Mint from 1696 to 1727, and one of the most celebrated French Goldsmiths of the end of the seventeenth century and beginning of the eighteenth. He was born in 1647, learned drawing under François Chauveau, and was probably a pupil of the famous Claude Ballin, whose daughter he married. During his tenure of office, he greatly improved the working of the Medal-mint, which reached its highest degree of extension and prosperity. "He succeeded Nicolas Petit, who was the first to hold the appointment of Directeur du balancier des médailles. In 1706, the number of puncheons and dies preserved in the Galerie du Louvre exceeded 4000. Until 1698, the medals of the series of Louis XIV. varied in sizes, between 30, 32 and 36 lines. About this time, the Abbé Bignon entrusted the Engraver Mauger to cut dies for 200 medals at 150 livres each, which were executed between 1699 and 1701, by reducing the module to 18 lines. Others were commissioned to other artists, so that the series of small size medals comprise 350 pieces" (Blanchet, Médailles françaises).

A document of 1698 records in eulogious terms "the fine drawings which Nicolas de Launay gives every day to the Mint of the Louvre."

De Launay was succeeded by his son-in-law Jules Robert de Cotte, who remained in office from 1727 to 1767.

LAUNDALE, JOHN (Brit.). Mint-master at Edinburgh, 1453.

LAUNE, CHRISTOPHE DE (French). Mint-master at Paris (1540-1541), Mint-master and Engraver and Tours (1539-1540 and 1542-1553). He was still living in 1556. In 1540 he had some differences with Claude Lemay, a Paris Mint-engraver, in connection with an issue of jetons. An official of the name of ANTOINE LAUNE filled the post of secretary under his administration. Christoph Laune's distinctive mark occurs on Petits Deniers of the Paris Mint, 1541, and Testons and Douzains of Tours, 1549. He is the first Mint-master who placed an A (for Paris) under king's bust or beneath shield.

LAUNE, ÉTIENNE DE, also STEPHANUS LAUNUS; — ETIENNE DE LAULNE, or DELAULNE (French). A celebrated Goldsmith, Medallist, and Line-engraver, born at Paris circ. 1519, died there in 1583.

Workshop of Stephen Delaune at Augsburg.

By letters patent of the 31. January 1552, he was appointed Mint-engraver at Paris, in conjunction with Jean Erondelle, but already deposed, in favour of Jacques Béguin, on the 25. June of the same year. Towards the end of his life, he went over to Germany; in 1573 and 1580 he was working at “ Argentina ” (Strassburg), in 1576 at “ Augusta ” (Augsburg), and it is most probable that he also resided at Nuremberg, but he returned to Paris some little time before his death, which according to La Croix du Maine took place on Whitsunday, 1583.

Etienne de Laune's fame as a Goldsmith stands unrivalled in France in the sixteenth century. Cellini's works seem to have inspired some of his earlier productions in chasing. Among his most important pieces of plate are the celebrated Ewer and Tray of the Leyland Collection (reproduced in Lasteyrie, Histoire de l'Orfèvrerie, p. 243) and a cup in the Louvre, supported by a beautiful figure of Bacchus, the body of which represents Venus forging the arms of Aeneas.

This artist is considered as one of the most pleasing Copper-plate engravers of the French Renaissance. A number of drawings by his hand of medals, coins, jetons, seals and jewels are still preserved at the Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris. “ Toutes les compositions de ce Maître se distinguent par un respect scrupuleux de la forme ; l'ornementation, si riche qu'elle soit, n'en vient jamais altérer la pureté, ni dénaturer la donnée première ” (Lasteyrie, op. cit., 245).

M. Mazerolle calls Etienne de Laune one of the cleverest sixteenth century medallists and gives a list of his medallic productions : 1551. Henry II., signed S on obv. R. SVA. CIRCVIT. ORBE. FAMA. Victory to r. on globe ; 35 mill. (illustrated) ; — Do, 1552., signed S behind the head of the King. R. NOMEN. AD. ASTRA. 1552 L (Launius) Diana ; 21 mill. Hand issuing from the clouds placing a sword in the hands of a crowned figure; in front of him, the four gods Jupiter, Aeolus, Neptune, and Time; ex: IN · FIL · HOM · NON · EST SALVS 1562; 42 mill., &c.

Mazerolle gives the following jetons to Etienne de Laune: — 1559. Chambre des Comptes; — 1560. Chambre des Comptes. R. Mercury; — 1561. Jeton banal; — 1564. Gendarmerie de France; — Catherine de Clermont, 1564. Many others are given by Mariette in his Abecedario, but they cannot be authenticated.

It is difficult to say what share the artist had in the cutting of the dies of the milled Testons and Half Testons of 1552, in which year he held the appointment of Mint-engraver in conjunction with Jean Erondelle and Jacques Béguin, but comparison of style between these and the Henry II. medals by de Laune which present the same characteristics, seems to show that they were both by the same hand.

Referring to the three first medals above described by Etienne de Laune, of which only later specimens are known from restored dies, Gabriel Schlüsselberger, 1574.

M. Mazerolle says : “ L’expression de la physionomie royale est charmante et les figures des revers ont cette maigreur caractéristique qu’affectionnaient les artistes du règne de Henri II ”.

A Portrait-medal in lead, unsigned, of Jean Rabel of Beauvais (illustrated), in Mr. Max Rosenheim's collection, belongs perhaps to the school of Etienne de Laune, but M. Mazerolle and other experts are not inclined to ascribe it to that artist. I may further add that in the Beauvais Archives nothing could be found concerning this Jean Rabel.

Etienne de Laune's engravings, which date from 1561 to 1581, are occasionally signed Stephanus F or S. F. The signature Stephanus f. occurs on a Portrait-medal of Gabriel Schlüsselberger of Nuremberg, 1574 (illustrated). Erman has no hesitation to give it to Etienne de Laune, who, having embraced the reformed faith, went over to Germany some time after 1569. Another medal, that of Hans Huetter and his wife Ursula, although unsigned, exhibits identical work. M. Mazerolle however does not share Erman's view and thinks the Schlüsselberger medal is absolutely German in character and has no point in common with the known French works of de Laune.

LAUNE, PIERRE DE (French). Mint-master at Paris, 1541-43.

LAUNOIS. Durand (MS. List of Medallists) gives the name of Launois as that of an Engraver of a pattern 5 Franc piece of Charles X., but no doubt in error for CAUNOIS (q. v.).

LAURANA, FRANCESCO (Ital.). Painter, Sculptor and Medallist, circ. 1430-1501; a native of the ancient fortified city of the Templars, La Vrana or Laurana, near Zara. In Neapolitan documents his name occurs also as Francesco Adzara (for Francesco da Zara).

Laurana, the favourite Sculptor and Medallist of René of Anjou, Count of Provence and King of Naples (1458-1480) is the first champion of the Renaissance in France.

Between 1468 and 1471, a Franciscus Laurana, habitor urbis Panormi et civitatis Venetiarum was working in Sicily and executed a statue of the Virgin for the Dome of Palermo, bearing the inscription: Franciscus a Laurana me fecit MCCCCLXXI. Later, circ. 1478-1480, a Franciscus Laurens is mentioned in the accounts of the court of Count René as "tailleur d'ymaiges" and sculptor. In 1490, the name of Laurens occurs as Founder and Chaser, in connection with the mausoleum of Ferry II., Count of Lorraine and Vaudemont, erected in St. George's Church at Nancy. All three references undoubtedly concern the same artist.

Laurana's name is intimately connected with that of his colleague, the architect and medallist Pietro da Milano. Both were attached to the person of King René, and modelled Portrait-medals of their Patron, his Queen and courtiers.

The recent researches of E. Müntz, Maxe-Werly, C. von Fabriczy and others have settled many obscure points in Francesco da Laurana's history. The great artist left Italy soon after 1458, sojourned in Provence (at Aix) until about 1466, then returned to his native land. In 1468, 1471 and 1473 he was working in Sicily for various churches, but in 1478, we find him back in France, and residing at Marseilles, where he married and lived until 1483. Later, circ. 1490, Laurens le fondeur was engaged at Nancy on the mausoleum of the Count of Vaudemont. He appears to have spent the last few years of his life at Avignon, with his daughter and son-in-law the painter Jean de la Barre. In all probability he died in the early part of 1501 and was buried in the chapel which his daughter Maragda (or Meranda) had acquired near the Augustin convent at Avignon, for the sepulture of her family. The last mention of Laurana's name occurs on a contract, dated 14. October 1500, relating to the sale of some house property at Marseilles, and he is there styled : "Franciscus Laurana, scissor ymaginum".

"Pierre de Milan et Francesco Laurana, tous les deux sculpteurs, ont gardé sur notre sol le caractère de leur patrie d'origine. La composition, le dessin, le modelé, tout rappelle l'art italien dans leurs ouvrages. Tout, sauf la fonte; la mauvaise qualité de la fonte confirmerait même le fait de leur exécution en France" (Rondot et De La Tour, Les Médailleurs et les graveurs de monnaies, &c., 1904, p. 71).

Some of the signed medals of Laurana are dated 1461, 1463 and 1466; others are undated. With the exception of the Portrait-piece of Louis XI., they all represent King René, Queen Jeanne, and personages of their court. The following are known: 1461. Triboulet, King René's buffoon, Bust to r. R. Lion seated to l.; above, in three lines: .M. — CCCC. — LXI.; in exergue, in three lines: FRANCISCVS-LAVRANA-F. (Diam. 79 mill.); — Jeanne de Laval, second wife of King René, Bust to l., hair hidden in richly ornamented coiffure. R. PER NON PER. ·M·CCCC·LXI. A pair of turtle-doves, in ex.: FRANCISCVS-LAVRANA FECIT (D. 90). (R. probably designed by King René himself, vide Heiss, p. 19); — 1463. René of Anjou and his consort Jeanne de Laval, Busts conjoined to r. R. PAX AVGVSTI. Peace standing facing, with a sprig of laurel in one hand and helmet in the other; to r., withered trunk of a tree from which issues one shoot; in the field: ·M· — CCCC·—·LXIII.; in ex.: ·FRANCISCVS·LAVRANA· — ·FECIT (D. 90). A variety of obv. exists with legend: DVO·CORPORA·VNVS ANIM. (uniface); — 1464. John of Anjou, Duke of Calabria, Bust to l. R. Circular temple, the cupola sur-

85). Type of R. copied from a Roman sestertius or medallion. The portrait of Louis XI. is very realistic. Von Fabriczy calls it Laurana's masterpiece, and adds: "The cunning craftiness, the suspicion, but at the same time the resolution of this, the first modern despot and incarnate reaction against the ideals and weaknesses of the Middle Ages, are excellently expressed in the portrait". "Notwithstanding", continues the same writer, "Laurana fails by a long way to reach Pisano's grandeur of style, strength of modelling and mastery of technique; his imitation of nature is superficial, at times quite painful, and the treatment of the relief is flat and lacking in character". Varieties exist of the Louis XI. medal; one in silver, uniface (obv. only) was in the Armand collection; another, in the French Cabinet, has on R. SANCTIS·MICHAELIS·ORDINIS·INSTITVTOR. Shield of France within collar of the Order of St Michael; — 1466. Jean Cossa, Count of Troya, Bust to r. (ECCE·COMES·TROIAE., &c.); R. FRANCISCVS·LAVRANA·FECIT·ANNO·DNI·MCCCCLXVI. Within laurel-wreath, between the letters I—C, two broken horseshoes interlinked.

To the above-described medals, Heiss and Armand add a Portrait-piece, undated, of an unknown person, with legend: HIC·IN·TERRIS·MERVIT·SIBI·NOMEN·OLIMPO. The person represented is without much doubt one of the poets of the court of good King René, one of the few princes who, North of the Alps, extended the magnificent patronage of the Italian rulers to sciences and arts, and himself won laurels in painting and verse-making; — 1464. Ferry II., Count of Vaudemont, Bust to r. R. FRANCISCVS·LAVRANA·FECIT. — MCCCCLXIII. The Count on horseback to l. (Collection of the Glasgow University), &c.

Friedländer illustrates a medal of Jean de Matharon († 1495) which he thinks bears analogy with Laurana's work.

Details are wanting as to the artist's collaboration in the decoration of King Alfonso's Triumphal Arch at Naples, but his hand can be traced in many works of sculpture still extant in Italy, South of France and Lorraine, among which are: "Portement de Croix" in St. Didier's Church at Avignon (1481); Mausoleum of Jean de Cossa, Marshal of Provence (1476-1481); Decoration of the St. Lazare Chapel in the "Major" church at Marseilles (1483); The Joinville Mausoleum of Count Ferry de Vaudemont, nephew of King René, and father of René II., Duke of Lorraine; Tomb of Charles IV. of Anjou in the cathedral of Le Mans; Marble statue of the Virgin on the door-way of the chapel of Castelnuovo at Naples; Retable of the Church of Celestins at Avignon; Niche of King René in Tarascon castle; and the mutilated bust of René and Jeanne de Laval in the Tarascon Bibliothèque.

LAUTIZIO (Ital.) of Perugia, is said by Cellini, to have been of great ability, and a clever Seal-engraver. By him is probably a hone-stone medal with portrait of D. Adr. de Ladeuse, Venice, 1522 (described by G. Sparkes in Num. Chronicle 1854, p. 187, n° 5) and a Plaque, with subject in relief of the Adoration of the Magi, in the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington. Milanesi suggested the attribution to him of two Portrait-medals of Giovan Lodovico Toscani, signed L. P.

LAUWIER, PIÉRART (French). Mint-engraver at Valenciennes, circ. 1460.

LAVAU, ANDRÉ (French). Gem-engraver, and Die-sinker of Bordeaux, born in 1722, died on the 28th of February, 1808. He was a pupil of Roettiers of Antwerp.

By him are five jetons of the College of Surgeons of Bordeaux, one of which, signed on both sides, represents on obv. SS. Cosmus and Damianus and on R. a view of the College. He also engraved a signet with a head of Hercules, executed after the antique, and to which he devoted ten years; M. de Fayolle terms this "unpur chef-d'œuvre"; and a medal with R. D<sup>r</sup> de la Martinière, Bordeaux, 1753, signed : LAVAV A BOR<sup>r</sup>.

Lavau largely contributed to the foundation of the Académie de Peinture et Sculpture of Bordeaux, and was appointed Rector of that Institution several times. Among his pupils are the great medallist Andrieu, who studied for eight years under him, the painters Lacour, Taillasson, the brothers Pollières, Monbrun-Barincou, &c.

The artist was intimately acquainted with Gatteaux and other contemporaneous medallists. His portrait was painted by Sicardi.

LAVY, AMADEO (Ital.). Medallist, and Mint-engraver at Turin, circ. 1796-1826; a son of Lorenzo Lavy and brother of Carlo Lavy, who were both employed in the same capacity at the Turin Mint.

Amadeo Lavy usually signed his coins or medals either A. LAVY or A. L., and I believe those signed LAVY only are the work of his brother Carlo, or of the two in conjunction, as the Pattern Five Franc piece of BONAPARTE, PREMIER CONSUL, of An XI.

Five Francs of the Cisalpine Republic, an 9, signed LAVY.

The earliest piece bearing Amadeo's signature is the gold Marengino, obv. L'ITALIE DÉLIVRÉ A MARENGO. Laur. and helmeted bust of Minerva to l.; beneath: A. L. R. LIBERTÉ ÉGALITÉ * ERIDANIA * Within wreath: 20 | FRANCS — | L'AN 9. The decimal Piedmontese Scudo, of the same date (illustrated) has LAVY above the exergual line. Specimens of both denominations exist also of An. 10 (1802-3). In 1803 Piedmont was incorporated with France, and coins of the French type were struck at Turin — with mint-mark U and the Mint-master, Paroletti's symbol, a heart, — from dies cut by A. Lavy after the puncheons or models by P. Tiolier. On the return of Victor Emmanuel from Sardinia to Turin in 1814, Amadeo Lavy, who, by the death of his brother Carlo in 1813, was left sole Engraver at the Mint, remained in office apparently until 1826, when he was succeeded by Giuseppe Ferraris. His smaller issues are invariably signed A. L. whereas the larger coins have A. LAVY.

As far as I have been able to ascertain, the following currency was executed by Amadeo Lavy, after the restoration of King Victor Emmanuel and under his successor Charles Felix : VICTOR EMMANUEL. ℥. Doppia (24 Lire), 1814, 1815, 1816; — 80 Lire, 1821; — 48 Lire, 1821; — 20 Lire, 1816, 1817, 1818, 1819, 1820 and 1821; — ℞. LAVY, CARLO (Ital.). Medallist, and Mint-engraver at Turin, born in 1765, died in 1813; a brother of Amadeo Lavy. He was appointed to the Mint in 1789, but after the French invasion of the Piedmontese territory and the constitution of the Cisalpine Republic, his brother Amadeo was entrusted with the cutting of the coins, at the Turin Mint, 1801.

Pattern Five Franc piece, An. XI.

Carlo Lavy executed several medals from designs by the painter Appiani, some of which celebrate Napoleon I. The two brothers sent in An XI (1803) a pattern Five Franc piece, with bust of Bonaparte, First Consul, to the Paris Monetary Commission. Denise (Le Concours de l'An XI) quotes several letters that were sent by the French Administration des Monnaies to the Brothers Lavy. Their Pattern was not approved of.

Carlo Lavy's signature on medals is usually LAVY : Commemorative medal of the Battle of Marengo, Anno VIII (1800); — The Cisalpine Republic (an VIII); — Marriage of Princess Josephine of Sardinia with Louis Stanislas, Count of Provence, 1771; — Victor Amadeus III., founder of Carouge, 1773; — Foundation of the Academy of Fine Arts at Turin, 1778; — Foundation of the Academy of Sciences, at Turin, 1783; — Agricultural Society Prize Medals, with bust of King Victor Amadeus III.; — Prize Medal for Horse-racing, &c.

LAW (Brit.). Gem-engraver of the end of the eighteenth century and beginning of the nineteenth. The following works bear his signature : Head of Bacchant, carnelian; — Head of Herakles, carnelian; — Head of Medusa; — Head of Socrates; — A term of Xenophon crowned with laurel; — Head of Lucretia, emerald; — Head of Seneca; — Head of Julia, daughter of Titus, sapphire; — Cameo, with head of Antinoüs; — Bust of And. Marvel, Scotch poet; — Cameo, bust of Sir Walter Raleigh; — Cameo, bust of G. Whitefield, the famous Methodist preacher, &c.

LAW, JOHN (Brit.). Financier, born at Edinburgh in 1681, died at Venice in 1729. He was made Comptroller-general of the finances of France, upon the strength of a scheme for establishing a bank, and an East India and a Mississippi Company, by the profits of which the national debt of France was to be paid off. Law's bank, which was opened in 1716, was declared a Royal bank in 1718, but in 1720 this fabric of false credit fell to the ground, spreading ruin throughout the country.

Law initiated the coinage of the copper Sol, Half Sol, and Liard, in 1719.

LEBERECHT, F. (Germ.). Medallist, and Gem-engraver, born at Meiningen in 1749, was appointed Engraver to the Russian Mint in 1775; in 1794 he became an Academician, and a little later, Chief-Medallist to the Court; he further rose to the dignity of a Councillor of State, and died in 1827. For several years, previous to his death, the artist had been enjoying retirement in private life on a pension of 1500 Roubles allowed him by the Russian government.

Bolzenthall remarks: "Few artists of his kind have been so distinguished as Leberecht, who raised himself to the rank of Councillor of State and Knight of the Order of St. Anne, the diamond insignia of which was bestowed on him in 1812. He served, during fifty years, four Russian monarchs, and died in 1827, leaving many pupils, to whom he was a good master and true friend. Leberecht, of whom we may say that he was an artist very much beyond his time, was a clever Gem-engraver. Among his productions, we find medals : Unveiling of the statue of Peter the Great, with bust of Czarina Catherine II. and a representation of the statue, 1782 (signed : CARL LEBERECHT F.); — Prince Potemkin, — Conclusion of Peace with Turkey, 1791; — Coronation of Paul I. (obv. illustrated); — Coronation of Alexander I.; — Foundation of the Exchange at St. Petersburg, 1805; — Frederick Born, 1806; — Centenary of the Battle of Poltawa, 1814; — Presentation medal of the Emperor Paul to the Kossacks of the Tshepligin Wolga Army; — Another to the leader of the Nomadic Camp Siwzoff, 1799; — and various others of the same character (Iversen describes 19 of these Presentation medals); — Presentation medals of the Emperor Alexander I. to various military and civic notabilities (20 varieties, all signed), &c. His masterpiece is a medal of the year 1803 with the bust of the Empress Catherine II. as Minerva. The Russian Court at all times took a keen interest in medallic art, but especially towards the end of the eighteenth century, when a school for Engravers was created, with the object of giving a fresh impetus to this branch of the plastic art."

By Leberecht are also : Reproduction of a Medal on the Alliance between Peter the Great and Frederick IV. of Denmark (signed : B. G.); — Centenary of the Foundation of St. Petersburg; — Foundation of a Hospital at Simbirsk, 1801; — Riga subjugated; — Catherine II.'s Visit to Crimea, 1779; — Peace of Jassy, 1791 (unsigned); — The Plague at Moscow, 1804; — Masonic medal in Honour of the Union of the Lodge "Mildthätigkeit", and that of the "Pelican" under the Swedish rite, with D<sup>r</sup> Freese, who was a member of the Aulic Council, as its presiding officer, St. Petersburg, 1780 (sev. var.); — Portrait-medal of Haydn, issued by the Philharmonic Society of St. Petersburg, 1802; — Visit of King Gustavus Adolphus IV. of Sweden to St. Petersburg, 1800; — Foundation of a Foundling Hospital at Moscow (sev. var.), &c.

A Model; — Child's Portrait, on sardonyx; — 1905. L'Histoire enregistre les découvertes de l'Archéologie, Plaquette issued by the Société des Amis de la Médaille française; — Louis Herbet; — E. Charmet; — Lady Maud Mary Taylor; — The French Republic, &c.

Lechevrel is not a stranger in this country. In 1877 and 1878, he was employed in England to resuscitate the art of engraved vases in glass, in imitation of the famous Portland vase, at the Hodgetts, Richardson & Sons' glass Works at Stourbridge.

For the Paris Exhibition of 1900, the artist completed the first Vase in glass of carved work ever executed by a Frenchman or in France. He has also done very fine work as an Heraldic-engraver, and is the author of a "Traité des matières généralement employées dans la glyptique".

M. E. Babelon (Revue de l'Art, 1902, II, p. 24) praises the suppleness of Lechevrel's talent and M. Roger Marx the assurance of his technique (Médailleurs français, p. 24).

The artist introduces in his medals the delicatessen of the gem-engraver, and he has that advantage over the ordinary medal-modeller that he understands engraving in metal, and can judge of the effect of a model before it is reduced to medal-size better than a mere sculptor who is unaccustomed to the graving tool. Not every subject which looks well large will look well small. The nature of the subject has to be considered. In general, though size be one of the elements of the sublime, the really sublime and ideal work of Art loses but little when reduced in dimension, as long as the proportions are exactly attended to. You can have colossal proportions and god-like power within the circumference of a gem for the finger. Of this, M. Lechevrel is aware, and his plaquettes "History reviving the Past" and "France welcoming and crowning Genius" show that he fully understands what makes the real merit and beauty of a medal.

LECLERC, SEBASTIAN (French). Draughtsman and Engraver of the second half of the seventeenth century. "He was born at Metz in 1637", say Franks & Grueber, "studied at first under his father, a Goldsmith, and in 1665 came to Paris where he worked with Charles Le Brun. In 1672 he was appointed Professor of perspective at the Royal Academy of Painting, and later on, private Engraver to Louis XIV. He designed a large number of types for the medallic series of that monarch, and there is in the British Museum a volume in MS. containing his original designs for this work, with notes by members of the Academy, M. de Pontchartrain, Louis XIV. himself, and others. Leclerc died at Paris, 25. October 1714. ”

Among the medals designed by this artist are : 1658. Battle of Dunkirk (by Roussel and Molart); — Another (by Mauger); — 1689. Louis XIV. receives James II. (by Mauger); — 1690. Battle of Fleurus (by Roussel and Molart); — 1692. Taking of Namur (by Mauger); — Battle of Steinkirk (by Mauger); — Another (by Roussel and Molart); — 1693. LECLERQ, BONAVENTURE (French) Goldsmith of Laon, end of the sixteenth century. On the 12th February 1590, he was commissioned to strike Quarter and  $\frac{1}{2}$  Quarter-Ecus of Charles X. His son, CLAUDE LECLERQ was associated by him in the work of cutting the dies for the coins which were issued at Laon, between 1590 and 1593, when they resigned their office. These coins were : Gold Ecus, Quarter, and Eighth Ecus, Gros de Nesle, and Double Sols, and bear the letters LA at the end of the obv. legend, with L in centre of cross on R. The LA probably signifies LAON whereas the L on R is the Engraver's initial.

LE COUR, PAUL (French). Engraver, Chaser, and Manufacturer of buttons at Lyons, second half of the eighteenth century. He issued religious medals and badges.

LECOMTE, FÉLIX (French). Sculptor, born at Paris on 16. January 1737, died on 18. January 1817; pupil of Falconnet and Vassé. By him are some Portrait-medallions and Plaques : Bacchus and Cupid asleep; — Cardinal de La Rochefoucault, &c.

LE COMTE (French). Die-sinker of Rouen, known by a medal of the "Asiles des Aliénés", Paris, 1867; also the author of the commemorative Medal of the Inauguration of the Northern Railway, of France, June 1846.

LEDEVIN, ÉDOUARD RENÉ (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Paris; pupil of Millet and Truphème. At the Salon of 1892 he exhibited several Portrait-plaquettes in silver; — again in 1893, and Louis XV., plaquettes, representing rustic sceneries.

LE DOUBLE, FRÉDÉRIC AUGUSTE MARIE AIMÉ (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Grégy (Seine-et-Marne); pupil of Georges Lemaire, and Georges Tonnelier.

Among this artist's medallic productions are: Portrait of the Artist, Plaquette in engraved steel; — Confidence, Plaquette in silver; — Orfèvrerie, Plaquette in silver; — Baptism of Chlodvig; — Triumph of Chlodvig, after J. Blanc, Plaquettes (reproductions of two panels); — Fête antique, Plaquette in engraved steel; — On Parade; — English Greyhound; — Portrait of "Voisin Pierriche"; — Truth, Plaquette; — Birth of Venus, plaquette in steel; — Charmeuse; — Seal of the Society of Orientalists; — Fides; — Dawn; — The Art of the Goldsmith; — Sœur de lait; — M.C.***; — The first step; — Diurne, Nocturne, Parisiana (medals); — Return of the Victorious Chlodvig, after J. Blanc. Salon of 1904: Two plaquettes in silver-gilt, engraved direct on steel (reproductions from the frieze of the Pantheon, after J. Blanc). — St. Anthony of Padua; — "Fête antique", plaquette on steel; — Salon of 1905. History of Chlodvig; — Allegory with the artist's portrait; — 1906. Prière de l'enfant; — Chapiteau à contours; — Seal; — M<sup>lle</sup> L. de S***; — M. X***; — Head of the Republic, &c.

"M. Frédéric Le Double", says M. Babelon, "mérite une place à part. Cette année (1902) encore, il a exposé une belle œuvre intitulée Fête antique, plaquette en métal patiné, d'après une feuille d'acier gravée au burin, qui a dû lui coûter de longues veilles. Le mérite de M. Le Double est d'autant plus grand que le public n'apprécie guère la différence, pourtant essentielle, qui existe entre le modelage en matière malléable d'un bas-relief que rapetisse aveuglément le tour à réduire, et la ciselure délicate et pénible d'un bloc d'acier. Ce dernier procédé est de plus en plus abandonné, pourtant, si l'on y avait eu recours directement pour les coins de nos monnaies actuelles, on n'aurait pas abouti aux déplorables résultats qu'on connaît trop, puisqu'ils sont entre toutes les mains" (Revue de l'Art, 1902, II, p. 24).

LEFEBVRE, ANDRÉ RENÉ GABRIEL (French). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Vincennes; pupil of Hiolin, and Antonin Mercié. At the Salon of 1905 he exhibited a Portrait-medal of M. E. D***.

LEFEBVRE, CLAUDE (French). Général des Monnaies, 1593.

LEFEBVRE, HIPPOLYTE (French). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing at Paris; pupil of Cavelier, Barrias, and Coutan; Prix de Rome. He was born at Lille and is still a young man (1906).

Hôpital des jeunes aveugles, by H. Lefebvre.

J. Agache and Céline Desmedt, Plaquette; — M<sup>me</sup> Kulmann, Plaquette; — Edmond Agache, Plaquette; — Edouard Agache; — and 28 Portrait-plaquettes (belonging to M. Schaeffer); — 1900. The Chamber of Commerce of Lille to Philippe de Girard (45 mill.); — 1902. Hospital for young Blind (issued by the "Société des Amis de la Médaille"; (obv. illustrated); — 1904. Portraits of M. & M<sup>me</sup> de Schlumberger ("œuvre d'un art exact sans dureté et d'un modelé très fin").

There is a peculiar interest and pleasure in watching the progress of a young artist, from the time when he manifests such indications of superiority as to attract special notice, through all the several stages of advancement, till he has won for himself an imperishable name. Some do not fulfil the promise of their youth; others continue their onward progress. May this be the case of this Medallist, who has won the sympathy of many, and been entrusted with orders from the "Société des Amis de la Médaille française", a body of connoisseurs whose judgment is guided only by the highest principles of Art.

Without giving up sculpture, Lefebvre has in recent years executed several medals and cast medallions, which are very original in character. M. R. Marx observes that they are "d'une ingéniosité pittoresque très vive", and reproduces several in Médailleurs contemporains, Pl. 29, nos 7-9 and 11.

Twenty-eight Portrait-plaquettes in silver and bronze (belonging to M. Quercia jun<sup>r</sup>, editor); — M. Lecomte; —

Portrait-plaquette of M. E. Molinier.

M. Garrido; — 1901. Mes Parents; — 1903. Léon Duvauchel; — 1905. M. C<sup>**</sup>; — Robert Planquette; — 1905 and 1906. Various Medals and Plaquettes, &c.

The plaquette “La Jeunesse” is considered, with reason, one of the finest examples of modern medallic art; the effect is charming, and the patina very clever.

plusieurs de ses portraits, n'en sont pas moins des effigies qui ont leur réel intérêt d'art."

The artist "had no assistance in his education, and encountered many hardships before he was able to send a picture to the Salon; it was a portrait of his father, exhibited in 1857". In 1859, "The Angelus" attracted much attention, and in 1861 appeared the "Ex Voto", belonging to the Dijon gallery. "Since 1863 Legros has resided in England, where he has received the honour and patronage which he failed to obtain in Paris, and this consideration has at length extended itself to his native country".

"On his arrival in London, says M. Léonce Bénédite, Legros found himself on almost virgin soil, which it delighted him to clear and to cultivate. To this task he devoted more than twenty years of his life, sacrificing his own work, with its prospects of success and other more material advantages, to this labour. Whether in painting or in etching (he restored to his place of honour, next to Rembrandt, our great Meryon, whose influence is to be seen in and love and better understand the divine genius of antiquity), Legros — aided by his friend Lantéri, the modest and learned sculptor — teaching at South Kensington, exercised a profound and a real influence by means of his solid, practical and methodical instruction, by force of his own work, so sober, thoughtful, lofty, grave and even austere, and by dint of studying and admiring the great masters, and noting attentively the grand principles by which they were inspired. ” (Studio, XXIX, 4.)

He has obtained a Mention honorable at the Salon of 1882, a Medal of the third class in 1885, Medal of the second class in 1886, Silver Medal at the Universal Exhibition of 1889, Medal of the first

M<sup>me</sup> Cl. Desclers; — M. de la Pinelais; — Xavier Girard; — A. Minne, etc.; — Medal of the “ Caserne des Célestins ”, &c.

As a sculptor, the artist executed the funereal monuments of M. Rouvier Sen<sup>r</sup> at Marseilles, Serpieri at Athens, Savinien Lapointe at Soucy, near Sens, and the statue of Edouard Normand, mayor of Nantes, &c.

Lemaire is one of the cleverest of modern French Gem-engravers. Some of his fine Portrait-Cameos in sardonyx were reproduced by him in silver Plaquettes with excellent effect. M. Babelon however criticises somewhat President Loubet's portrait : “ C'est un camée de grandes proportions, d'une exécution consciencieuse et fort habile, comme tout ce qui sort des mains de M. Lemaire; mais, en même temps, il n'est pas excessif de dire qu'elle manque de hardiesse et d'originalité. Le relief est sans poussée, trop timide. Vous remarquerez, au dos de la plaque de sardonyx à laquelle M. Lemaire s'est attaqué, une belle couche sanguine qui n'a pas été utilisée. L'artiste n'en a pas tiré profit; il n'a pas osé l'atteindre. C'est pourtant sur cette couche qu'un Pyrgotèle, un Dioscoride, un Valerio Vicentini, un Jacques Guay, aurait tenu par-dessus tout à détacher en vigoureux relief le portrait à exécuter. Telle qu'elle se présente, l'œuvre de M. G. Lemaire est un excellent bas-relief, sur une gemme très dure et de belle nuance; c'est à peine un camée dans le sens que les anciens donnaient à leurs sardonyx multicolores et si profondément affouillées dans le but de tirer de toutes les couches superposées le parti décoratif qu'elles comportent. ” (Revue de l'Art, 1903, II, 28).

LEMAIRE, JACQUES (French). Mint-engraver at Reims, circa 1750.

LE MAIRE or MAIRE, JULIEN (French). Goldsmith of Nancy, who was appointed Mint-engraver there in succession to Jean Le Poivre, circa 1580, and held the office until his death in 1607. He was a native of Bar, and is called a Painter and Engraver; a document speaks of “ l'expérience qu'il avait en la graverie ”. Charles III., Duke of Lorraine, attached him to his service in 1580, in which year the artist executed his first Portrait-medal of the Duke, obv. Bust to r. of Charles III., legend and date, 1580. R. COELITVS. ORTA. HOMINI. PAX. TVTĪOR. INCVBAT. ARMIS. Peace seated to r.; beneath : PIO. PACIS. AVITAE CVSTODI (33 mill.) In 1581, several payments are recorded to Le Maire for medals supplied by him, and from that date to 1607, scarcely one year elapsed, says Lepage, without his being called upon to engrave medals, mostly in gold, which were probably used as decorations. The following Portrait-medals, &c. are attributed to him also : Charles II. of Lorraine, Bishop of Metz; — Charles III., Duke of Lorraine, 1585; — Seal of Charles III. for François de Beaucaire, seigneur of Sarralbe, 1586; — Medals in gold of Charles III., 1587; — Duke or Marquis de Pont-à-Mousson; — Other Portrait-pieces of the Duke Charles III. for presentation to various personages; — Two Seals of the towns of Hombourg and Saint-Avol; — Wax Portrait and various medals of Charles III.; — Portrait-medals of Monseigneur le Marquis Henri, eldest son of Charles III., and of Charles III., various, 1589; — Medals of Charles III., for consignment to Spain, 1590; — Henri, Marquis de Pont-à-Mousson, 1591; — Charles III., various medals, 1593; — Madame la Princesse (Charles III's consort); — Charles III., 1599-1607, various medals (for presentation).

Of the numerous medals engraved by Julien Le Maire very few specimens have come down to us. As they were mostly struck in gold with gold chains, evidently intended for wearing around the neck, it is surmised that they nearly all ended in being melted down, which is to be regretted from an artistic point of view.

This artist signed J. Maire.

LEMAIRE, VICTOR (Belg.). Sculptor, Gem- and Line engraver, and Medallist, born at Liège, 5. February 1826, died at Brussels, 23. February 1882. He was apprenticed at the age of eleven to a goldsmith, and began life as an Engraver when he was nineteen years old. His first trial in die-sinking dates from 1850, when he engraved the reverse of a medal, but his first medal of note commemorates the Inauguration at Ghent of a statue to Jacob van Artevelde, and is dated 1863. M. Alvin considers it as his best work; although the artist himself gives the first rank to a Portrait-medal of Christopher Columbus.

He engraved numerous seals, coats of arms, and even some cameos in onyx which are of some merit. In 1880 he was one of the four Engravers who were entrusted individually with the execution of the official medals issued on the occasion of the Fiftieth Anniversary of Belgian Independence; the portrait of Leopold II. pleased the King so much that he desired Lemaire to reproduce it on the great Seal of State, which is still in use.

From that date, Lemaire paid more attention to medal-engraving, and he was favoured with commissions for medals from various parts of the country. His best known medallic productions, described by M. Alvin, are : 1860. Société royale des Mèlomanes of Ghent, 1860 (with bust of the Count of Flanders); — 1863. Inauguration of the Monument to Jakob van Artevelde at Ghent (2 var.); — 1870. Portrait-medal of Dr Joseph François Kluyskens, 1771-1843; — 1875. Medal of the "Association belge de photographie" founded in 1874; — 1879. Medal presented to the Educational Staff at Ghent; — 1880. Medal of the "Société royale des chœurs" presented to M. de Maere Limnander of Ghent, 1855-1880; — Fiftieth Anniversary of the Independence of Belgium (60 mill.); — Medal of the "Société pour le progrès des études philologiques et historiques" (4 var., struck for presentation to MM. J. Gantrelle, E. Benoist, J. Dufief, and E. Discailles); —

1881. Ghent Naval Installations; — Fiftieth Anniversary of the Royal family of Belgium; — 1883. Medal of Ghent University; — 1884. Horticultural Society "Flora" at Mont-St.-Amand; — 1885. Ghent receives in her port the first steamer from America; — Inauguration of the Liévin Bauwens monument at Ghent; — Provincial Syndical Chamber of Industrial Arts at Ghent; — Horticultural Show at Courtrai; — 1886. 25th Anniversary of the Inauguration of the Railway from Eccloo to Ghent; — Royal Flemish Academy of Arts and Letters; — 1887. To Massenet, the composer; — 1890. P. O. Vander Chijs, numismatist; — 1891. Scientific Society of Brusses; — 1893. Royal Agricultural and Botanical Society of Ghent (signed : L); — “Exposition internationale de boissons fermentées hygiéniques” at Brussels; — Bakery Show at Ghent; — World’s Hygienic Exposition at Chicago (with bust of Christopher Columbus); — 1894. Jeton of the Royal Numismatic Society of Belgium (with bust of P. O. Vander Chijs); — Others, of 1895, and 1896; — 1897. Ticket of the Members of the Communal Council of Ghent; — Presentation medal to Charles Harlaux; — 1898. The city of Ghent to General Van Loo; — Agricultural Show at Ghent; — 1899. Member’s Ticket of the Provincial Exhibition of Ghent; — Prize Medal of the Provincial Exhibition; — 1900. Exhibition of the ancient Guilds and Corporations, at Liège (with bust of Prince Albert of Belgium); — 1901 John Cockerill, 1790-1840; — 1902. To Prosper Claeys; — Undated. Royal Society for the Encouragement of Art; — Jan Frans Willems, 1793-1846; — Portrait-medal of Leopold II.; — Tir aux pigeons, Gentbrugge, &c.

This artist was a Knight of the Order of Leopold.

LEMAY, CLAUDE (sometimes called DE MAY). (French). Mint-engraver at Paris, from before 1527 to 1552; he was born circa 1495; brother of Jean Lemay, Jeton Engraver (1515-1555), and no doubt a relative of Guillaume Lemay (1493-1523) and François Lemay (1532). He filled the office of Mint-engraver for at least twenty-five years; on the 11th of March 1552, the Cour des Monnaies allowed him an assistant, in consideration of his failing eyesight, in the person of his son-in-law, Jean I. Beaucousin.

Claude Lemay does not appear to have always fulfilled his duties to the satisfaction of the Mint-masters, and in 1542 he was even threatened with imprisonment if he did not supply the Mint with the necessary dies. The following are some of the coins engraved by him: 1528. Poitiers. Écus d'or au soleil; — Gros Testons; — Tours. Écus d'or au soleil; — 1529. Saint-Lô. Écus d'or; — Douzains; — Petits Deniers (the dies for all these were delivered to Julien Roupelin, Mint-master at St-Lô); — 1530. Angers. Grands Blancs; — 1531. Troyes. Half Testons; — 1533. Tours. Gros Testons of ten sols tournois; — Angers. Écus d'or; — Douzains; — Poitiers. Écus d'or; — Testons; — Half Testons; — 1535. Troyes. A document of 1578, mentioned by Blanchet reads : " A Jérôme Lenormant, graveur des monnaies du présent pays, 210 livres tournois pour pareille somme délivrée ès mains du Roy, en 60 écus soleil et 30 livres tournois en pièces de 20 et 10 sols tournois qui ont été forgées nouvellement sur le pied des espèces d'or et d'argent que le Roy de France a fait faire en son royaume." In September, 1579, a contract was passed with Jérôme de Normand and Auger de la Garde to work for a period of six years the mints of Pau, Morlaas and Navarre. Lenormant therefore combined the offices of Mint-master and engraver.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — King, Antique Gems, p. 168.

LEONARDO DA VINCI (Ital.). A famous Painter, Architect, Sculptor, Scientist, Engineer, Mechanician and Musician, born at Vinci, near Empoli, in 1452; died at Cloux, near Amboise (France) on the 2nd of May 1519.

Although no medallic work can directly be traced to Leonardo da Vinci, it is beyond doubt that he made his influence felt in this branch of art also, and, as we shall see, he designed the fine Testoni of Giovanni Galeazzo Maria Sforza and Ludovico Moro, which were engraved by Caradosso; furthermore, he is said to have excelled in Gem-engraving. A very brief sketch of this eminent artist's career finds therefore a place here.

Leonardo da Vinci is one of the worthiest representatives of the Florentine school of painting and sculpture. He showed early a wonderful aptitude for art, and studied under Andrea del Verocchio, to whom he was taken by his father, about 1470, and with whom he remained until he was past twenty. His studio companions were Perugino and Lorenzo di Credi. In 1472 he was received in the Company of Painters and obtained his first recorded commission in 1478. Having met with little success at Florence, he appears to have gone to Milan about 1487. In 1503 he was again at Florence, returning to Milan in 1506. In 1514-1515 he was residing in Rome. His great work, the famous “Cenacolo” or “Last Supper” was finished in 1498; he painted it in oil on the wall of the refectory of the Dominican convent of the Madonna delle Grazie; it began to perish from the dampness of the wall almost as soon as it was finished, but fortunately the original sketches still exist. While living in Milan under the protection of Ludovico Il Moro, he executed the colossal equestrian statue of Duke Francesco I., which was demolished by the French in 1499. On his return to Florence, he drew a cartoon from which Filippino painted the altar-piece of the monks of Servi. Subsequently, Leonardo da Vinci seems to have devoted his time principally to portraiture; the best known works of this period are the "Mona Lisa" in the Louvre, Paris, completed about 1504; "La belle Ferronnière"; the "Virgin of the Rocks", National Gallery, London, and another version in the Louvre; "St. John the Baptist", Louvre; St. Anne, Louvre; a cartoon of St. Anne in the Royal Academy, London, &c. He was also commissioned to paint a wall of the Council-hall at Florence, for which he made a cartoon of the "Battle of Anghiari", corresponding to the great cartoon of Michelangelo; both are now lost. On the French occupation of Milan, Louis XII. appointed Leonardo Court-painter. In 1514, the artist accompanied Giuliano de' Medici to Rome, where Leo X. entrusted him with some work at the Vatican. He went to France in 1516, at the invitation of Francis I., and died at the Château de Cloux, aged about sixty-seven.

Testone of Giovanni Galeazzo Sforza and Ludovico Il Moro, engraved by Caradosso, and designed by Leonardo da Vinci.

Leonardo da Vinci was a man of imposing personal appearance; a portrait of him, by himself, is preserved in the Royal Library, Turin. He wrote a "Treatise on Painting", published in 1651, which has been widely translated. Among his many pupils, the most eminent were Bernardino Luini, Andrea Salaino, and Marco d'Oggione. The latter's copy of his Master's "Cenacolo" was reproduced by Raphael Morghen in his celebrated engraving published about 1800.

Under LEONARDO DA MILANO we have noticed that a writer of 1502 eulogizes the talent of four Gem-engravers, among whom is probably Leonardo da Vinci (named there da Milano) and that he says they were "equal to any of the ancients in their profession".

In a remarkable letter, written by Leonardo da Vinci to Ludovico Il Moro, the artist mentions his various qualifications, and says : “I will also undertake any work in sculpture, in marble, in bronze, or in terra-cotta ; likewise in painting I can do what can be done, as well as any man, be he who he may”. Soon after 1480, when Ludovico Maria Sforza took the reins of Government in his nephew’s name, the artist entered into the service of the Duke with a salary of five hundred crowns per annum, and he was consulted in every question concerning art. It is proved beyond doubt that Testone of Ludovico Maria Sforza, engraved by Caradosso, and designed by Leonardo da Vinci.

Caradosso engraved the coins of the Dukes Giovanni Galeazzo Maria Sforza (1481), Giovanni Galeazzo Maria Sforza and the Regent Ludovico (1481-1494), and Ludovico Maria Sforza, called Il Moro (1494-1499) from designs supplied by Leonardo da Vinci (Vide Fratelli Gneccchi, Le Monete di Milano, LXI). These coins consist, according to Rossi, of the following types : Giov. Gal. Maria Sforza, Doppio Testone d’Oro ; — Multiple of the Testone d’argento. — Gio. Gal. Maria and Ludovico Maria Sforza, A. Doppio Zecchino ; — Zecchino ; — Æ. Multiple of Testone ; — Testone (illustrated). — Ludovico Maria Sforza, A. Doppio Testone ; — Æ. Multiple of Testone ; — Testone (illustrated).

King states : “I have seen an enamelled pendant attributed to Da Vinci, and which certainly does bear his usual monogram. Cesare Borgia having appointed him his architect in 1502, L. da Vinci was thus actually brought into contact with the duke’s physician, Camillo : besides, he had made Milan his home ever since entering Ludovico’s service in 1483, which would explain the designation “Da Milano”.

LEONI, LEONE (Ital.). Sculptor and Medallist, born at Arezzo in 1509, died at Milan on July 22., 1590. Whether he belonged to the same family as Giovanni Leone da Arezzo, upon whom the Emperor Sigismund conferred a knighthood in 1418 or not, it is impossible to ascertain. Nothing is known either of this artist’s early career. In 1537 he was appointed Mint-engraver at Rome, a post which he filled until 1540. It would appear that his first medallic work of note was a Portrait-medallion of General Ferrante Gon-zaga's daughter, Isabella, whom he represented at the age of sixteen, in 1537; the General was so delighted with this work that he henceforward became a zealous patron of Leone Leoni, and secured for him, from the Governor of Milan, Alfonso d'Avalos, the important office of Director of the Imperial Mint there, which the artist retained until his death, except for a brief stay at Brussels in 1549-50. Thanks to Ferrante, he was introduced to Charles V., who attached him to his service as Sculptor and Medallist, and raised him to the knighthood.

It is said that Leoni was of a very violent temper; one of his bitterest enemies was Benvenuto Cellini, who accused him of having endeavoured to poison him; he disfigured the pontifical goldsmith Pellegrino di Lenti; did grievous bodily injury to Orazio Veccelli, Titian's son, and had the latter's assistant, Martino, killed by a bravo; we find him ready to use the dagger in his many quarrels with friends and foes. Michelangelo was the only contemporary artist with whom Leoni entertained intimate relations. He executed of him a curious Portrait-medal, on the reverse of which is represented a blind man led by a dog, with the legend: DOCEBOS INIQUOS VIAS TUAS ET INIQUI AD TE CONVERTENTUR; also a Portrait-medallion in wax (illustrated).

Portrait-medallion in wax of Michelangelo, by Leone Leoni.

From the time when Leoni was employed by Charles V. date some of his most important works of sculpture, generally of large size and mostly in bronze. There is only one left in Italy, the beautiful monument of Jacopo de' Medici, Marquis of Melegnano, in the cathedral of Milan, designed, it is said, by Michelangelo. The numerous statues and busts which were commissioned to the artist by the Imperial family are nearly all either in Spain or at Vienna. A group representing Charles V. slaying a monster (Caesaris virtute domitus furor) and commemorating the Victory of Mühlberg was erected in 1526 on the public square of Gustalla, but sent towards the end of the eighteenth century to the castle of Buen Retiro in Spain, whence it has been transferred to the Prado Museum. The same Museum preserves a bust, and half-length figure in bronze of

Charles V., and the Real Academia of San Fernando an alabaster bust of Philip II., marble busts of Queen Mary of Hungary, and Queen Eleonora, sister of Charles V. and consort of Francis I.; all three busts were cast in 1549. In the Vienna Imperial Museum, are treasured a half-length figure in bronze of Charles V., similar to the Madrid one, and a large Portrait-medallion of the same Emperor, as well as a bust of Mary of Hungary. The Louvre acquired within the last twenty years a Portrait-medallion in bronze of Charles V., mentioned by Vasari, who says that it was commissioned by Granvella. "All these portraits", observes M. Bertaux, "are modelled with great firmness; the bronzes offer a refined polish and very rich black patina, which remind one of the busts by the Venetian sculptors Alessandro Vittoria and others; the detail of the draperies, the hair, and ornaments of cuirasses, &c. are of an exquisite finish; and the artist has displayed ingenious taste and discreet fancy in the decoration of his stands and frameworks."

But of surpassing merit are Leone Leoni's medallic productions, including the coins which he engraved at the Milanese Mint; they belong to the finest and boldest works of the latter part of the Renaissance.

Specimens are generally met with in silver, and also in bronze: (1549). Charles V. ℞. DISCITE IVSTITIAM MONITI. Zeus ascribed to Leone Leoni by Domanig; probably the same as the one described by Plon as "The beautiful Filepina"; executed circa 1551; a fine specimen is preserved in the Imperial Museum at Vienna; DIVAE·PHILIPPINAE Bust to r.).

Besides the medals mentioned above, Plon describes a few others which he thinks should be given to Leoni, who in 1555, was informing Cardinal Granvella that he had up to that date executed already thirty medals. Among these are: Bernardo Tasso, Torquato's father; R. TVTE·SITIM·PELLE. Unicorn; 56 mill.; — Bernardo Spina; R. SUPERAT·OMNIA·VIRTVS. Virtue on horseback spearing Envy; 46 mill.; — Giovanbattista Castaldo; R. SVBAC-TAE·DACIAE·RESTITVTORI·OPTIMO. The General raising a female figure seated on implements of war; 51 mill. [In 1555 Castaldo mentions a medal which Leoni was to make of him by desire of Granvella; Von Fabriczy places this medal among Leoni's authenticated works]; — Another; R. OB·REM·MILITAREM·FELICITER·GESTAM. Victory holding wreath and palm-branch; 51 mill.; — Gianello della Torre; R. VIRTVS·NVNQ·DEFICIT. The Fountain of science; 80 mill. [This R. occurs also on a medal of Philip II., which is no doubt by Jacopo da Trezzo, and indeed Von Fabriczy is convinced that the latter artist is the author of this medal also]; — Cardinal Granvella; R. DVRATE. The Ship of Aeneas in a storm; 60 mill.; — Another, executed after 1561; R. Mount Calvary; — Another; R. The ship of Ulysses nearing a rock on which Sirens are playing with various instruments; — Another; R. Neptune striking the ship of Aeneas with his trident. [It is not unlikely however that some at least of the unsigned medals of Granvella are by other artists, as Melone, or Domenico de' Compagni, who both repeatedly portrayed the famous Bishop of Arras on medals]; — Vincenzo Bovi; R. ANTIDOTVM·VITAE. Religion, facing, holding cross (Keary, op. cit., p. 42); — Danae; leg: NON·ABSQVE·PLUVIA·DANAE. Female bust to r. (diam. 67 mill.; in MM. Rollin and Feuardent's Collection).

Between 1537 and 1540 Leone Leoni was employed as Engraver at the Papal Mint of Rome under Paul III., but it is difficult to ascertain which of this Pontiff's coins were engraved by him, as none are dated, and Benvenuto Cellini who was his colleague, and worked there before and after him, is credited with the cutting of most of the dies of that period. At any rate it is now beyond doubt that Cellini is the author of the fine Doppia and Testone of this Pope (Vide G. Castellani, Lo Scudo d'oro di Paolo III conio di Benvenuto Cellini, Num. Circular, XI, col. 7090; Bolletino di Numismatica 1904). Leoni's short tenure of office at the Roman Zecca has all the savour of mediæval romance; out of spite against Cellini, he procured his imprisonment in 1538 under the pretext that during the sack of Rome he had purloined the pontifical jewels; Cellini was able to clear himself of the charge, but soon after Leoni himself was arrested and condemned to the galleys for an act of violence against the German goldsmith Waldener. Delivered from incarceration by his protector Andrea Doria, he accompanied him to Genoa in 1541, where he executed the medals of his benefactor, and in the following year he was appointed Mint-engraver at Milan, a post which he held until 1545, and again from 1550 until his death. In 1546, after several short stays at Venice, where he endeavoured to get rid of a cumbrous assistant by hired banditti, he became Mint-master at Parma; but in 1547 we find him again at Rome working for the Zecca, and in 1549 at Brussels, called there at the special invitation of Charles V. From 1558 to 1590, the artist resided at Milan, and died in the 'Palace', still extant, which the Emperor had presented him in recognition for his services in Art. During the latter period of his life, he once more had recourse to murder, his victim being Titian's son, who had come to Milan to collect a large sum of money and whom he probably wished to rob. Although Leoni remained unpunished, his many misdeeds are so many blots on his memory.

Cardinal Granvella.

D<sup>r</sup> Casati reproduces several Milanese Mint documents, which show that during the whole period of 1542 to 1589 Leoni received payments for dies cut by him, and we are safe in ascribing to him all the more important coins, issued at Milan under Charles V. and Testone of Charles V., by Leone Leoni.

Philip II. Among these I may mention the following : Charles V. (1535-1556). A. Doppio Scudo d'oro, Laur. bust to r. R. The pillars of Hercules in the sea ; between them, a crown ; — R. Ducatone (da Soldi cento) ; R. TE DEVM LAVDAMVS ; ex : S·AGV·S·AMB. St. Augustine abjuring Manichaeism at the feet of St. Ambrosius ; — Ducatone ; R. DISCITE·IVSTITIAM·MONITI. Zeus on Mount Olympus hurling fulmen at the Titans ; — Mezzo

Ducatone; Type of the preceding; — Ducatone; R. CVIQ. SVVM Crowned eagle standing on fulmen above the globe; dated 1551; — Mezzo Ducatone; similar type; dated 1552 (2 or 3 var.); — Burigozzo (da 32 Soldi); R. St. Ambrosius; — Testone; R. Pietas (2 var.); St. Ambrosius (4 var.); Salus Augusta (2 var.); The Pillars of Hercules (3 or 4 var.; one illustrated); — Mezzo Testone; R. OB | INSVB | RIAM | SERVA | TAM within wreath; — 10 Soldi; — 8 Soldi 3 Denari; — 5 Soldi; — Mezzo Bianco; — Parpagliola; — Quindicino; — Sesino; — Trillina; — Denaro. — Philip II. (1556-1598; Leoni at the Mint of Milan until 1589). A. 6 Zecchini; obv. Radiated bust of Philip II. R. Facing bust of St. Ambrosius; — Proof of the Mezzo Ducatone (2 var.); — Doppia da tre; R. Arms; 1555; — Quadrupla or Doppia da due (3 var.); — Doppia (15 var. in Gneccchi); — Scudo d'oro; R. MVNDI · SALVS · VNICA Cross; — Scudo d'oro del Sole; R. MEDIOLANI D. (3 var.); — Scudo d'oro; — R. Ducatone (22 types described by Gneccchi, but some bear dates after 1590 and are consequently not by Leoni); — Mezzo Ducatone (many varieties, some dated 1577, 1579, 1582, 1584, 1588); — Quarto di Ducatone; — Scudo or Filippo; — 40 Soldi; — Lira; — Mezza Lira; — 5 Soldi; — Grosso da 2  $\frac{1}{2}$  soldi; — Soldino; — Parpagliola; — Sesino; — Trillina; — Denaro.

Leoni distinguished himself also as a Gem-engraver, but we have unfortunately no record of his productions in that particular branch. Plon describes a cameo representing the Emperor Charles V., the Prince of Spain Don Philip and the Empress Isabella, which is only known by a letter of the artist to Granvella.

“The emperor Charles V. was a lover and collector of cameos. Leone Leoni of Arezzo cut a fine one of him with his son on one side and another of his Empress on the other side, this being the earliest recorded instance of the making of a double cameo, a fashion which was not uncommon during the Renaissance, and sometimes shows an antique backed by a modern piece of work” (Davenport, op. cit., p. 50).

The Madrid and Vienna Museums preserve medallions in coloured wax by Leoni, and there is one of Michael Angelo in the British Museum (illustrated). “The head is modelled with the greatest care for detail. Every line and wrinkle is faithfully reproduced, as is also each hair of the head and beard. The ear is delightfully expressive, and what a refined, sensitive nature it indicates. The colour of the wax is uniform — a yellowish red of the shade of terra cotta. The inscription on the reverse of the medallion runs: MICHAEL ANGELO BUONAROTTI SUO RITRATTO FATTO DAL NATURALE DA LEONE LEONI ARETINO SUO AMICO 1562” (B. Kendell, Jewelled Waxes and others, The Connoisseur, vol. VIII, p. 134).

Some Plaques are attributed to Leone Leoni by Molinier, although one only appears to be undoubtedly by him, as it forms the reverse of one of his authenticated medals : Andrea Doria as Neptune; 95 × 70 mill. (Berlin and South Kensington Museums); — Allegory of the “ Fountain of science ” (R. of Gianello della Torre’s medal, which is now ascribed to Jacopo da Trezzo, by C. von Fabriczy); — Apotheosis of Charles V. (Vatican Library) [erroneously attributed to Cellini by Plon].

In the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, there is a circular Medallion, representing a Female figure holding on her head a vase from which water flows on either side; young and aged men drink and gather it in jars; inscribed above, VIRTUS; beneath, NVNQ : DEFICIT. This Plaque, which is of the year 1562, is ascribed to Leone Leoni by Fortnum.

“ Vasari ”, says Keary “ speaks in high praise of Leoni’s performances as a sculptor, the greatest of which was a bronze statue of Charles V. Leoni brought into requisition his silversmith’s art, and made a suit of armour of thin silver plates, with which the nude figure could upon occasion be clothed. When the figure was completed he made a large die for the purpose of striking medals of the Emperor; on the reverse was Jupiter launching his thunderbolt at the Titans. “ For these works his Majesty gave the artist a pension of a hundred and fifty ducats, secured on the Mint of Milan, with a commodious house in the Contrada de’ Moroni. Charles also made him a knight, conferring at the same time a patent of nobility upon his descendants; and while Leoni was in Brussels he had rooms in the palace of the Emperor, who sometimes amused himself by going to see the artist at his work ” (Num. Chron., 1879, p. 210).

Although Leone Leoni does not equal some of the earlier medalists, and perhaps not even Valerio Belli or Cellini, his contemporaries, still he deserves a place in the front ranks of Italian artists of his period, were it alone for his exquisite coin-dies of Charles V., which continue at Milan the fine series of Caradosso, and will remain a perpetual witness of one of the most glorious epochs in Art the world ever saw. “ His was one of those unrestrained, overflowing, forceful natures such as the decline of the Renaissance produced. ” (Von Fabriczy).

LEONI, LODOVICO called IL PADOVANINO or IL PADOVANO (Ital.). Painter, Modeller in wax, Medallist, and Coin-engraver, born at Padua in 1531; died at Rome in 1606; some say in 1612. He executed Portrait-medallions in wax, besides painting in oil and fresco landscapes and historical subjects. He is said to have been employed as Engraver at the Mint of Rome, circa 1573-1586; notwithstanding, only one of the many medals of Pope Gregory XIII. bears his signature L. PADOVAN.; others may be looked for among his unsigned pieces. The artist spent the greater part of his life at Padua, and executed there the Portrait-medal of Baldassare d'Ossa, signed: LOD. LEONI (reproduced in Fabriczy), and another of Francesco Lomellini, obv. signed: LVD; L, R. DVRABO. Landscape over which the sun is shining (Brit. Mus. Guide, p. 56, n° 179); perhaps also a medal of Pope Gregory XIII., 1775, signed L. L. P.

The coinage of Gregory XIII. may safely be ascribed to this artist and his colleague at the Mint of Rome, Lorenzo Fragni; payments were made to these Engravers in 1574, 1576 and 1586. This coinage consists of: A. Scudo d'oro MDLXXV Jubilee type; — Scudo d'oro; R. Bust of Christ (7 var.); — Scudo d'oro; R. Charity (6 var.); — Another, Assumption of the Virgin; — Another, St. Peter's Miracle; — Another; R. NIGRA SED FORMOSA ROMA; — A. Testone. R. LETAMINI GENTES (9 var.); — Another; R. Porta Santa (Jubilee type; illustrated); — Another R. Religion seated (6 var.); — Another; R. ALMA ROMA Arms (2 var.); — Another; R. Christ delivering the keys to St. Peter (8 var.; some dated 1584); — Another; R. ME SEQVERE. The Angel rescuing Peter from prison (8 var.); — Another; R. Seated figure of Fides Jubilee Testone of Gregory XIII., 1575.

(4 var.); — Another; R. St. Peter seated (2 var.); — Another; R. NVNQVAM DEFICIET ROMA. Standing figure of Fides (8 var.); — Another; R. Christ and the Samaritan woman at the well; — Another; R. Christ's baptism (7 var.); — Another; R. The brazen serpent in the wilderness; — Another; R. Moses changing his rod into a snake (4 var.); — Another; R. Christ and the multitude; — A. Giulio (various types); — A. Grosso (var. types); — A. Mezzo Grosso (var. types) and subsidiary coinage.

LEONI, OTTAVIO called IL PADOVANINO (Ital.). According to Bolzenthall, a son of Lodovico Leoni. He is said to have cast medals in all kinds of metals, and to have imitated with extraordinary cleverness antique coin-types. None of his productions have however come down to us.

LEONI, POMPEO (Ital.). Sculptor and Medallist of the second half of the sixteenth century; a son of Leone Leoni; died at Madrid in 1610. He served the Imperial House of Austria and assisted his father in several of his works, notably in his famous group of Charles V. slaying the Monster, which was commissioned by Ferrante Gonzaga in 1547, achieved in 1556, and bears the signature : LEO P. POMPE F. ARET. F.

Pompeo Leoni spent the greater part of his life in Spain, where most of his works of sculpture are still preserved : a statue of Philip II. at Aranjuez, and in the Church of the Escorial, fifteen statues of Saints in gilt bronze, and Royal statues of Charles V., his Queen Isabella, his daughter Mary of Hungary, his sisters, the Queens of France, and England; Philip II., his Queen, Anne; Queen Mary; and Queen Isabella, for their funereal monuments.

As a Medallist, this artist produced also some fine works, which stand almost on a par with the exquisite portrait-pieces by Poggini : Granvella, 1552 (mentioned by Leone Leoni in a letter to the Bishop of Arras); — Ercole II. d'Este; obv. Bust to l.; signed :

Concordia, cameo by Pompeo Leoni.

Referring to Pompeo's Don Carlos medal, Von Fabriczy observes : " Diese Medaille zeigt, wie weit die verschwommene Manier Pompeos hinter dem robusten Realismus seines Vaters zurücksteht — man sehe nur die sanft-und kraftlose Gestalt des Apollo auf der Rückseite! Oder wollte der Künstler damit etwa den Charakter seines Helden symbolisieren?! "

To this artist should also be ascribed a Portrait-medal of Mary of Austria, unsigned, which has a similar reverse to that of Don Carlos, which is signed; probably also, from a similarity of style, the medal described as follows in the Maxwell Sale Catalogue, 26. March 1906 (Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge) :

This medal sold for £ 50. — A very excessive price.

The reverse of the medal of Ercole II. d'Este has been added to a modern copy of Primavera's medal of Mary, Queen of Scots, 1572, and it occurs also as the reverse of a medal of John Rantzau (Med. Ill., I, p. 118). The reverse COGITATIO MEA AD DOMINVM is also found attached to a portrait of Margaretha von Calslagen, wife of Joachim Polites of Antwerp (Van Loon, I, 202). The medal is by Stephen of Holland, according to Armand.

Bolzenthal remarks that Pompeo Leoni was a man of science and an artist much esteemed on account of his fine draughtmanship.

LEPÈRE, JEAN (French). Goldsmith and Medallist of Lyons, who, in 1500, was entrusted, in conjunction with his brother Colin, to execute the medal issued in honour of Louis XII. and Anne of Brittany's visit to Lyons, and the models for which were prepared by Nicolas Leclerc and Jehan de St. Priest.

This medal of which only silver and bronze specimens now exist appears to have been held in high estimation by contemporaneous artists; it is, observes M. Mazerolle, the first medal of large dimensions and bold relief, cast by Frenchmen, but, although inspired from Italian art, it lacks both in vigour and suppleness.

Louis XII. and Anne of Brittany.

Jean Lepère was also entrusted with the execution of the medal of Charles VIII. and Anne of Brittany.

LEPÈRE, LOUIS (French). Goldsmith and Medallist of Lyons; father of Jean and Colin Lepère, already mentioned, died circ. 1534-1537.

Louis Lepère, Nicolas de Florence, his son-in-law († 1499) and Jean Lepère, his eldest son, modelled the medals which were presented to King Charles VIII. and Anne of Brittany on the occasion of their Visit to Lyons, 1494.

Charles VIII. and Anne of Brittany.

Louis Lepère, and Nicolas de Florence cut the dies from designs supplied by the celebrated artist Jehan Perréal; and Jean Lepère was entrusted with the execution of the medals, restrikes of which were made in 1502 and 1514.

N. Rondot states that this is the first French medal, thus described in documents, and at the same time the first bearing the effigy of a personage in bust form.

Georges Berger, Deputy of the Seine; — M. Alexandre Barbier, 1896; — M<sup>lle</sup> Clémence Tetu, 1897; — Ceres and Bacchus, medal, 1898, &c.

Levillain has been called “ un puissant évocateur de l'antique ”. Most of his subjects are drawn from mythology, but he has adapted them to modern ideas, without falling into the excesses of some of the representatives of the modern school. His feminine forms, whether nude or encllothed in drapery are natural and delicately modelled. Most of his compositions, in sculpture, decorative art, as well as in medal-engraving, are well drawn, carefully designed and elaborately executed.

M. Roger Marx has described Levillain as a very able artist, who has been successful in modernizing the antique and stamping his work with his own individuality ”.

LEYGEBE or LEIGEBE, GOTTFRIED (Germ.). Medallist of the seventeenth century; born at Freistadt (Silesia) in 1630, learned the art of die-cutting at Nuremberg in 1645, worked at Dresden, and in 1668 was appointed Mint-engraver at Berlin, where he remained until his death in 1683. He attained an early celebrity as already in 1660 the Nuremberg copper-plate engraver Andreas Greiff had made his portrait.

As a Sculptor in iron, Leygebe is not only the first but also the most famous; his statuettes cut out of solid iron are most important works; one of them, a small equestrian statue of the Great Elector, represented as Bellerophon slaying the three-headed Chimaera, is now preserved in the Hohenzollern Museum.

By this artist are the following medallic productions: Portrait-medallion of the Great Elector, in life-size (signed: 1671. G. LEIGEBE AD VIV : FECIT); — 1664. J. M. Dilherr, Nuremberg; — 1665. Hieronymus Gutthäter; — 1666. J. M. Dilherr (without the usual signature: G. L.); — Balthasar Kauffman; — 1667. Johann Mich. Dilherr (a copy, of smaller module, of the medal dated 1664); — Undated. Jodocus Christoph Kress (profile bust); — 1668. Jod. Christ. Kress (facing portrait); — Undated. The Great Elector (facing bust); — Another (profile portrait); — 1669. The Great Elector, on his return from Prussia; — 1670. Birth of Princess Maria Amalia, obv. Bust of the Electress Dorothea QVAE PATRE SCEPTRIGERO, &c. Palm-tree, &c.; — 1673. Prince Charles Emil, on the Campaign in Alsace; — 1673. Frederick III., Margrave of Brandenburg SVVM CVIQVE. The city of Berlin, above which an eagle; — 1675. Octavian Burger, of Dresden (illustrated); — 1677. The Great Elector (similar to that of 1673); — 1678. Heinrich Zipfel (not signed); — 1679. Elizabeth Henrietta, first consort of the Great Elector; — (1680). Raban von Canstein; — 1680. 11th Birthday of Prince Philip William of Brandenburg; — Undated. The Great Elector and his consort. All these are mentioned by Friedländer, but I have found records of some others: 1675. Battle of Fehrbellin (2 var.); — Schauthaler on the same event R. PAX VNA TRIVMPHIS INNVMERIS POTIOR. Peace; ex. : F : BELLINVM 18. JVN. 1675; — 1667. Death of the Great Elector's consort, Louise Henriette, 1667 (6 var.); — 1677. Capture of Stettin, R. NON NISI IUSTA PROBANTUR ARMA. Justice; — 1669. Marriage of the Great Elector with Princess Elizabeth Henrietta of Hesse-Cassel; — 1681. Henrietta Catherina, Princess of Orange, etc.

Octavian Burger, 1675, by G. Leygebe.

Most of this artist's medals are cast and chased, but some are also struck. To the cast specimens belong those dated 1664-1667, which were executed in all probability at Nuremberg, and also his earlier Berlin productions; they are by far the best, as the models were prepared in wax in a very free manner.

Leygebe's initials occur also on currency of Brandenburg. I have noticed them on a Thaler of the Great Elector, dated 1679.

LIGIER, GEOFFROY or GEUFFROY (French). Goldsmith and Mint-engraver at Troyes, 1482-1515.

LIGORIO, PIRRO (Ital.). A Neapolitan Forger of the seventeenth century, whose productions are commonly known as "Ligoriana", and consist mostly of ancient coins, probably Roman Imperial copper coins, which he cleverly patinated, also coins and medals of Popes and Cardinals, amongst which the medal of Cardinal Jacomo Savello (later Pope Honorius IV., 1285-1287), &c.

Prof. Dressel of Berlin suggests that many of the so-called Paduans are probably by Ligorio, and quotes the following documents concerning this renowned Forger from Martinelli's "Roma ex ethnica sacra" (Rome, 1653, p. 423).

Pirro Ligorio, mi disse Jacomo Card. Sauello, il quale l'haueua conosciuto, ch'era un antiquario, che faceua professione di cercare li vestigi antichi delle fabriche di Roma, e di disegnarli : si dilettaua delle meda-

glie antiche, & ne fece improntare molte di nuouo, dandoli una ruggine verde, ò altro fuco, acciò paressero antiche, delle quali ne fece, ò contrafece gran quantità, che hanno ingannato molti. Tali medaglie stampò anche de Papi e Cardinali, tanto de tempi antichi, come de tempi bassi, & questo mi disse il detto Jacomo Card. Sauello un giorno, ch'io giouane li portai una medaglia di Jacomo Card. Sauello Cardinale antico di questa casa, che fù Papa Honorio IV dicendomi, non è antica, deue essere di Pirro Ligorio, & mi significò ch'era huomo manuale & non di lettere, come si può vedere da questo libretto, al quale non est tutum credere.

LINDENSCHMIDT, JOHANN (Germ.). Medallist and Coin-engraver, born in 1770 at Camberg in Westerwald, died at Wiesbaden in 1819. "He was brought up at first to be a gunsmith", says Dr F. P. Weber, "his father Wilhelm's trade, but soon found means to educate himself in drawing, engraving, &c. and worked as a Medallist and Mint-engraver, first in Mayence, 1790-1808, then at Wiesbaden, 1808-1819. Wilhelm Lindenschmidt, the historical painter, and Dr Ludwig Lindenschmidt, the antiquary, were his sons". He was highly esteemed at Mayence, although from circumstances he was almost limited to mere mechanical works. "He however", observes Bolzenthal, "executed some medals which show his ability, especially one with his own likeness and that of his wife."

Lindenschmidt was "Hof-und Münzgraveur"; Mint-master at Usingen (Nassau), 1808-1819; and supplied dies to the mints of Ehrenbreitstein, Darmstadt, Mayence, Arolsen, and Wiesbaden; he worked also for Frederick Charles Joseph, Baron von Erthal, Bishop of Mayence; the Grand Duke of Hesse, Ludwig I.; George, Prince of Waldeck-Pyrmont; and the Dukes of Nassau, Frederick Augustus, and Wilhelm.

Most of the coins engraved by Lindenschmidt are signed L.; some however: LINDENSCHMIDT, or I. L. Amongst these are: NASSAU, Duke Frederick Augustus. 1808. Darmstadt 6 Kreuzer; 3 Kreuzer; 1 Kreuzer (sev. var.); Dickkreuzer; Æ Proof of the Dickkreuzer; Conv. Thaler of Frederick Augustus of Nassau, 1811, by Lindenschmidt.

$\frac{1}{4}$  Kreuzer (or Heller) (sev. var.); Æ Proof of the  $\frac{1}{4}$  Kreuzer or Heller; — Ehrenbreitstein, Similar currency; — 1809. Æ. Ducat (and Proofs in Æ); Conv. Lindenschmidt's best known medals are: Opening of the navigation on the Lahn up to Weilburg, 1810; — Abolition of Serfdom, 1812; — Visit of Frederick Augustus, Duke of Nassau, to the Ehrenbreitstein Mint, 1815; — Proclamation Medal of Duke Frederick Augustus, struck at the Mint of Ehrenbreitstein, 1808; — Medal of Merit, with bust of the same Ruler; — Portrait-medal of Nicolaus Fischer (of Thaler size), 1812; — Medal for Valour in the field, with bust of Duke Frederick I. (signed LINDENSCHMIDT F.); — The Waterloo Medal (granted to the troops of Nassau by Duke Frederick Augustus; — Pfarrer Zeitmann, of Frankfort-on-M., 1809, on his Jubilee; — Portrait-medal of the Artist himself and his wife (one of Lindenschmidt's best productions).

Obsidional Conv. Thaler of Mayence, 1794.

“Lindenschmidt worked more as a Seal-engraver than a Medallist”, remarks Dr Weber. “His name should be familiar to all antiquaries on account of one of his sons, the late Dr Ludwig Lindenschmidt, Hon. F. S. A., to whose untiring energy the splendid collection illustrative of Teutonic antiquities at Mayence owes so much”.

LINDERMAN, HON. HENRY RICHARD (Amer.). Director of the Mints and Assay offices of the United States, 1873-1878. In 1855, he received his first appointment as Chief Clerk of the Philadelphia Mint, and held it until 1864; in 1867, President Johnson appointed him Director of the Mint, a post which he resigned in 1869.

“ It was Dr Linderman who projected the trade dollar, solely for commerce, and not intended to enter into circulation in the United States. It was a successful means of finding a market for the great surplus of silver, which he sought to send to Oriental countries rather than flood his own and depreciate its fickle value ”. (Evans, op. cit., p. 106.)

Dr Linderman died at Washington in January 1879.

LIPHARD, or LIPHART, HANS (Germ.). Mint-master at Erfurt, 1592-1599. Schlickeysen-Pallmann suggest that he may have acted in the same capacity at Göttingen, 1601-1606, but this is rather doubtful.

LIPOVSKY, MARTIN CARL (Bohem.). Mint-engraver at Prague, 1718-1726, and probably until after 1731, although Fiala mentions only the former dates.

He cut dies for the Bohemian Half Kreuzers of 1728, Groschen and Kreuzers of 1731; also  $\frac{1}{4}$  Ducats, Thalers, Half Thalers, and Groschen of 1718 (with bust of Charles VI.), etc.

LIUNG, T. (Swed.). A Prize Medal of the Royal Historical and Archaeological Society of Sweden, with bust of King Charles XIV. John, 1826, bears this signature, which is probably that of a Die-sinker.

LJUNGBERGER, GUSTAV (Swed.). Medallist of the second half of the eighteenth century, born circ. 1740, who worked at Stockholm, 1765-1801. On the death of Fehrman in 1780, he was appointed Court-medallist. His talent found recognition from the Academies of Florence, Bologna, Vienna, and Copenhagen which received him as a member, and the King of Sweden (Gustavus III.) invested him with the Order of Wasa.

Among this artist's best known productions are the following medals : Medal of the Lodge "Eintracht", of Stralsund, commemorating the Convocation in that Lodge of Swedish Masons, at the close of the Seven Years' War, and presented to those who attended (2 var. of 1762); — Another, issued by the officers and members of a Swedish Army Lodge, when in Stralsund, during the Seven Years' War (2 var. of 1757); — Badge of honour for wounded soldiers in a Swedish Army Lodge, during the Seven years' War [All these medals were cut by Ljungberger at Stralsund, the capital of Pomerania, which at that time was Swedish territory]; — Prince Charles of Sweden, 1788 (medal struck at Stockholm by the Grand Land Lodge for presentation to the Grand Duke); — Jubilee of the Bank of Stockholm, 1768; — Jacob Albrecht, Baron von Lantingshausen, Lieutenant General of Stockholm, 1770; — Prize Medal of the Swedish Royal Academy of Sciences, with bust of Jon. LOBSINGER, HANS (Germ.). Founder, Gem-engraver, and Worker in metal and hone-stone, who worked at Nuremberg, circ. 1530-1570. He was born in 1510 and died about 1570.

Doppelmayer, speaking of Hans Lobsinger, says that he was skilled in many things, and showed much talent in modelling and casting in metal, wax and plaster, and in cutting precious stones, and it is therefore probable that a place in the circle of artists belongs to him. However, the medal which is shown as his work, having his portrait at the age of 29, and which is dated 1539, does not quite merit this eulogium. If on the contrary we could ascribe to him with certainty a medal having the portrait of Lorenz Stayber of Nuremberg, and his wife, of the year 1535, and signed by the author L, then Doppelmayr's praise would fall far short of its merit, to such a pitch of perfection is this medal brought." LODOVICO DA FOLIGNO (Vide vol. II, p. 118). Von Fabriczy makes the following comment on Armand and Heiss's attribution to this artist of the medals of Pietro and Giovanni de' Medici. "Beide Medaillen sind wahrscheinlich, wie auch die Cosimos, über Auftrag Piero Medicis entstanden, und zwar zwischen 1465 und 1469. Auf das Zeugnis eines Schreibens hin, das der seit 1451 in Ferrara thätige Goldschmied und Medailleur Lodovico da Foligno im Juni 1471 an Lorenzo de' Medici richtete, hat Armand und nach ihm Heiss geglaubt, sie diesem zuschreiben zu sollen. Uns scheint der Brief gerade das Gegenteil zu besagen. Obwohl er nämlich die Sendung einer Denkmünze der Herzogin Bona von Mailand begleitete, und somit fast selbstverständlich dazu aufforderte, die Medaillen von Lorenzos Vater und Oheim zu erwähnen, wenn Lodovico solche früher ausgeführt hätte, so spricht der Meister darin nur "von der Liebe, die er stets für seine Herrlichkeit den edlen Herrn Piero de Cosimo gehegt habe", sowie auch von dem dringenden Wunsche, Lorenzo zu sehen (der Ausdruck kann auch als "kennen zu lernen" gedeutet werden, womit dann bewiesen wäre, dass Lodovico in den Jahren 1465-1469 nicht in Florenz gewesen sei). Leider ist uns keine der urkundlich bezeugten Denkmünzen des Künstlers (auf Galeazzo Maria Sforza<sup>1</sup>) und seine Gemahlin Bona, auf Lionello und Sigismondo d'Este) erhalten geblieben und somit der stilistische Vergleich derselben mit den beiden Medicistücken versagt. Aber diese scheinen uns denn doch in ihrem strengen, die Hässlichkeit der Dargestellten in nichts beschönigenden oder mildernden Realismus viel eher auf Florenz als auf die um jene Zeit in ihrem Charakter weichere ferraresische Medaillistik zu weisen. Sollten wir aber für sie einen Autor nennen, so

1. Oder sollten wir in dem grossen (Diam. 5 cm.) 1470 datierten geprägten Medaillon mit dem behelmten Sforzalöwen auf dem Revers eine dieser Arbeiten vor uns haben? Friedländer hat sie Taf. XXXVI, 11 unter den von ihm dem Carosso zugetheilten Münzen und Medaillen abgebildet.

Nun ist es aber kaum glaublich, dass man dem erst Achtzehnjährigen eine so bedeutende Arbeit sollte anvertraut haben (er ist frühestens 1452, nicht wie Friedländer will, schon 1445 geboren). Auch will sie stilistisch gar nicht zu Carossos beglaubigten Prägungen stimmen. Man kennt davon nur Silberexemplare, und Lodovico sagt ja in seinem Briefe, er bilde sie in Silber. Die um ein Jahr verspätete Datierung könnte ein Versehen des Künstlers sein; oder aber-wahrscheinlicher-hatte er das Wachsmo-

wäre es vor allen, auch den anonymen Florentinern, am ehesten : Niccolo Fiorentino." (C. von Fabriczy, Medaillen der italienischen Renaissance, p. 55 sqq.)

LOISY, CLAUDE JOSEPH DE (French). Goldsmith of Besançon; son of Pièrre de Loisy; born 27. April 1644 and died 9. June 1717. He was Mint-engraver at Besançon, 1673-1694, and issued many Jetons.

LOISY, JEAN PIERRE DE (French). Goldsmith, Line-engraver, and Jeton-engraver of the first half of the seventeenth century at Besançon, circ. 1601-†1659. He was for some time Mint-master and Engraver there, 1637-1659, and obtained from the Government the exclusive privilege of engraving and selling medals.

LOISY, JEAN PIERRE DE (French). Goldsmith of Besançon, Line-engraver, Medallist and Jeton-engraver. Son of the last and his pupil; he was born at Besançon 20. September 1619; Engraver at the Mint there, 12. April 1666. in succession to Claude Poux, until 1667. By him are some fine engravings, and he also worked as a Medallist and Seal-engraver, and shared his father's "Privilège de frapper et de vendre des médailles dans l'étendue de la juridiction bisontine." His best engravings are : Portrait of Philip IV., King of Spain ; — Estat de l'illustre Confrérie de Saint-Georges en la France ; — Series of Religious Subjects, in the style of Wiericx, &c. By Pierre de Loisy are the Jetons of Governors of Besançon, 1665-1669. In 1664-65 Pierre de Loisy engraved the "Pièces de circonstance" commemorating the reunion of Besançon to Franche-Comté. A Portrait-medal of Leopold I. on his election in 1658 is also by him.

LOMBARDI, ALFONSO CITADELLA, surnamed ALFONSO (Ital.). A Ferrarese Sculptor and Medallist of the first three decades of the sixteenth century ; he died in 1537. The medals, described below, which are ascribed to this artist, are still unknown. " Their attribution to Alfonso Lombardi ", says Armand, " rests on documents which M. G. Milanesi has been kind enough to indicate to me ". The most important of these are two letters addressed by Alfonso to the Duke of Mantua, Federigo II. Gonzaga. One, dated 6. May 1536, informs us that he had executed a medal of Pope Paul III. ; from the other we gather that he cut the medals of Molza, Antonio Tebaldeo, and Cardinal Hippolytus de' Medici ; and in commission for the same cardinal Alfonso would appear to have made the medal of Giulia Gonzaga (widow of Vespasiano Colonna).

LONGACRE, JAMES B. (Amer.). Mint-engraver at Philadelphia, September 6, 1844 to 31 December 1868. He was born on August 11, 1794, in Delaware Co., Pa., and served an apprenticeship as a Line-engraver with George Murray, Philadelphia, doing some high-class plate-work before he was free, in 1819. He was one of the originators of the National Portrait Gallery of distinguished Americans, the first volume of which appeared in 1834. Longacre drew from life and engraved many of the portraits entire. — Like his predecessors, he died in office, on January 1, 1869. During his term Longacre was variously assisted by P. F. Cross, William Barber, Anthony C. Paquet, and William H. Key. The changes and additions during the Longacre term were numerous and important, both as to alloys and denominations. The pattern pieces also record various experiments in the art of coining. (Evans, Illustrated History of the United States Mint, p. 127).

Longacre's signature occurs on the R. of a medal of Captain Ingraham, the obv. of which is by P. F. Cross.

LONGERICH, JOHANN (Germ.). Mint-master at Sayn, Mühlheim-on-Rhine, Dortmund and Münster, 1664-1680.

LONGERICH, JOHANN ADAM (Germ.). Mint-master at Cologne, 1700; Dortmund, 1700-1705; Düsseldorf, 1707-1708. According to Schlickeysen-Pallmann the initials I. A. L. on a Gimborn 5 Ducat piece of 1696 (which bears reference to Prince Ferdinand von Schwarzenberg) may stand for this Mint-master's name.

LONGERICH, JOSEPH (Germ.). Mint-master and Engraver at Treves, 1690. His initial L. occurs on an undated Double Thaler of the Archbishop Johann Hugo von Orsbeck; and a medal with bust of the Prelate is signed I. L.

LONGERICH, MATHIAS (Germ.). Mint-master at Idstein (Nassau), 1692.

LONGERICH, NIKOLAUS (Germ.). Mint-master at Düsseldorf, 1682-1690; later at Bonn, 1693-1694; Cologne, 1699-1700; and in 1688 also at Dortmund and Essen. I have noticed his initials N. L. on Jülicher Double Thalers, Thalers and Gulden, &c. of various dates of Count Palatine John William (1690-1716); also on Thalers and subsidiary coinage of Joseph Clement, Archbishop of Cologne (1680-1702).

LONGUEIL, HONORÉ DE (French). Grandson of the celebrated Line-engraver, Joseph de Longueil († 1792), was born on the 16th February 1818 at Paris; settled in business as an Engraver, rue Royale, 8, in 1838; retired into private life in 1861, and died on the 31. July 1889 at Grignon Castle, Thiais (Seine), his nephew's residence.

By this Engraver are several medals and jetons, some of which are signed : DELONGUEIL F. I have come across the following : Jetons of the Asphalte Works of Seyssel-Lobsann, 1839; — Hospice de Gisors, 1859; — Pascal and Poussin, Prize Medal of the Academy of Sciences, Letters and Arts of Bordeaux; — Jean de la Quintinie, Horticultural Prize Medal of Beaune, &c.

LONGUET, GERMAIN (French). Général des Monnaies, circ. 1559-1589.

LONISON or LONYSON, JOHN (Brit.). Mint-master at London, anni 14-19 of Elizabeth, 1571-1576. Kenyon makes two references to this Mint-master: "By an indenture of the 19th April, 1572, made with John Lonison, only three gold coins were to be made, namely, Angels, Angelets, and Quarter Angels, of the old standard and the same weight as before, and these were to be current at their old values of 10 s., 5 s., and 2 s 6 d respectively.

"On the 19th December, 1578, a commission was made out, authorizing Lonison slightly to debase the coins, making the gold 23 cts. 3 $\frac{1}{4}$  grs. fine instead of 23 cts. 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  grs; and a pound weight of gold, which had hitherto been coined into £ 36 by tale, was now to be coined into £ 36. 1 s. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$  d, so that the angel would now weigh 79 $\frac{9}{77}$  grs. instead of 80 grs." In 1582-3, however, by an indenture with Richard Martin, the old standard and weight were restored, and the coinage was to be as ordered in 1572.

Lonyson was a goldsmith by profession; he died in 1583, aetat 59, and was buried in the church of St. Vedast, alias St. Foster's Church, in Foster Lane.

LOPES-TEXEIRA, JOSÉ JOAQUIN (Port.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing at Villa Nova de Gaya, where he was born; pupil of Jouffroy. At the Paris Universal Exhibition of 1900, he exhibited several medallic productions: Head of a young Girl; — Christ; — Portrait-medallions, &c.

LOOF, JAN (Dutch). Medallist of Middleburg, second quarter of the seventeenth century. His medals are dated between 1627 and 1660. He received a special permission from the States General of Holland to commemorate remarkable events by medals. Amongst his best known medallic productions are: 1629. Taking of Bois-le-Duc (2 var.); — 1631. Naval Engagement at Slaak (2 var.); — 1632. Death of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden; — 1637. Taking of Breda by Prince Frederick Henry of Orange (2 var.); — 1639. Destruction of the Spanish Fleet by the Dutch off Dover (size: 2.5 in.; signed: I. Loof f.; illustrated.) Another variety (signed:

I. LOOFF FE.); — Other varieties (Catalogus, &c., nos 663-665); — 1647. Preliminaries of Peace with Spain (Van Loon, II, p. 306, I.); — Golden Wedding of Hans van Loon and Anna Ruyckhavers; —

1648. Peace of Münster; — 1651. Admiral Martin Harpetzoon Tromp (diescut by D. van Rijswick); — 1660. Presentation Medal of the State of Zeeland to Trewleben for his raising the ship and cargo of the wrecked vessel of Captain Waterdrinker; — 1644. Ghent taken by Prince Frederick Henry; — 1645. Hulst taken by Prince Frederick Henry, etc.

Loof signed his medals : J. L. or J. LOOFF F.

“ Loof ”, says Bolzenthall, “ endeavoured by an excessive length of inscriptions to make up for want of talent in the composition, as his medals prove, of the Conquest of Bois-le-Duc, Sea Victory of Prince Frederick Henry of Orange, and Capture of Breda. He obtained a Patent and showed great industry. ”

“Loos”, observes Bolzenthall, “was a diligent artist and was assisted by his talented son, who, alas! too soon ended his life. To these two artists and Abrahamson belong the merit of having, in a time of bad taste, applied themselves to the study of portraiture and ancient types. The elder Loos had made himself known by various discoveries in the art of striking and was an inventor in the mechanism of coining. He formed two pupils, Koenig, and Stierle, by whom he was surpassed, especially by the latter.”

On the 1. May 1816, D. F. Loos had been serving the Prussian government for sixty years.

LOOS, GOTTFRIED BERNHARD (Germ.). Second son of Daniel F. Loos, born 6. August 1774, and died 29. July 1843; Mint-master at Berlin, 1806-1812; General Warden to the Prussian Mint, etc. In 1812 he opened the famous Die-sinking establishment of Loos at Berlin, which produced a large number of medals, and employed some of the best German medallists. The medallic establishment which he founded now exists as the "Berlin Medallic Mint of L. Ostermann (q. v.), formerly G. Loos." There are medals with the portraits of G. Loos and his father D. F. Loos made by C. Pfeuffer and Goetze respectively.

G. Loos is the author of a work on the art of detecting forgeries.

It is not possible to enumerate all the productions of the Loos Works, and I shall content myself with mentioning a few of the best known or more important ones: Portrait-medal of Augusta, Princess of Liegnitz (engraved by Gube); — Marriage of Crown-Prince Maximilian of Bavaria with Mary, Princess Royal of Prussia, 5 Oct. 1832 (König); — Marriage of Charles, Prince of Hesse, with Princess Elizabeth of Prussia, 1836 (F. LORENZ, CARL HEINRICH (Germ.). Medallist and Coin-engraver, born at Berlin on the 24th of August 1810; died in the seventies. He studied first at the Berlin Academy, then at Vienna, visited Italy, and returned to Berlin, where he was working up to 1848, when he obtained employment as Engraver and Medallist to the Mint of Altona, from the Danish government. From 1859 to 1861 he filled the post of Chief Medallist at St. Petersburg, and definitely settled at Hamburg towards the end of 1861. For some years he worked in conjunction with his son Johann, their joint productions being signed: H. LORENZ U. SOHN.

By Heinrich Lorenz are the following medals: Portrait-medal of Gutenberg; — Ministerial Director Beuth; — Prize Medal of the Hamburg Agricultural Exhibition, 1869; — Hamburg Künstler-Verein, 1869 (signed: LORENZ U. LORENZ, HANS (Germ.). Mint-warden at Teschen, 1620-1624 and 1643-1649.

LORENZ, JOHANN JACOB (Germ.). Medallist to the Mint of Hamburg, born at Berlin, 24. June 1845, died 29. August 1887. He was the son of the medallist Carl Heinrich Lorenz, from whom he received his first tuition. From 1864 to 1867, he was a student at the Berlin Royal Academy of Arts, and while residing in the Prussian capital he occasionally worked for the Loos Medallic Mint. He then visited Dresden and was employed there by the Court-medallist Friedrich Hermann Jahn. By the end of 1868 we find him back at Hamburg. On the opening of the mint of Hamburg, in 1874, he was appointed Medallist and Mint-engraver, and he died in office, from an apoplectic fit brought on by overwork.

Johann Lorenz is the author of numerous Medallic works, Reliefs, Portraits, Commemorative medals, etc., some of which he executed in conjunction with his father. The coins struck at Hamburg, from 1874 to 1887, were also engraved by him. Among his best known productions are : Large official commemorative medal of the Completion of Cologne Cathedral, 1880 ; — Medal of German Coastguards and Seamen, 1881 ; — Prize Medal of the Geographical Society of Hamburg, with bust of the burgomaster Gustav Heinrich Kirchenpauer, 1881 ; — Burgomaster Hermann Ant. Corn. Weber, 1885 ; — Portrait-medallion of Carl Heinrich Lorenz ; — Baptism of the medallist's daughter, Anna, 24. August 1878 ; — The United Lodges of Hamburg, 1870-1871 (signed : LORENZ U. LORENZO DE' MEDICI, surnamed the Magnificent, Ruler of Florence, 1469-1492, and the greatest Patron of Art that ever lived. He gathered around him all the most renowned painters, sculptors, gem-engravers, literati and poets of his time. At his court at Florence, Michel Angelo essayed the first strokes of his chisel, and many artists, amongst them, Brunelleschi and Donatello, owed their prosperity to the protection of this enlightened Prince.

“Laurent”, says Müntz (Histoire de l'Art, vol. I, p. 56), “est l'arbitre du goût; c'est lui qui dirige l'évolution suprême de la Renaissance florentine, et dont les artistes ou les amateurs de l'Italie entière sollicitent respectueusement les arrêts; l'homme d'initiative qui découvre les talents nouveaux et l'amateur prodigue dont les largesses peuplent Florence de chefs-d'œuvre.”

“Lorenzo's intellectual powers were of exceptional strength and versatility. He could speak with equal fluency on painting, sculpture, music, philosophy and poetry. But his crowning superiority over every other Maecenas known to history lay in his active participation in the intellectual labours that he promoted (Encycl. Brit.).

Lorenzode' Medici was an enthusiastic collector, both of antiques as well as of gems cut in his own day. The finest cameo in his collection was, perhaps, the Tazza Farnese, which is now in the museum at Naples. Many of the gems which belonged to him, and are now dispersed chiefly in the museums of Naples, Florence, and Paris, bear the inscription “LAVR MED”.

But not only was he by far “the most celebrated, as he was the most powerful and the richest”, says Davenport (Cameos, 1900, p. 52), “but he was also probably a real lover and judge of first-rate art for its own sake. He gave advice and directions to medallists and gem-engravers, showing what keen interest he took in that particular branch of art. Giovanni delle Corniole was one of Lorenzo's favourite cameo-and intaglio-cutters, and one of his pupils, Domenico di Polo, executed a fine cameo-portrait of the Prince (illustrated), which is preserved in the Cabinet des Médailles of the Bibliothèque nationale, Paris.

LÖSCH, FRANZ XAVER or JOSEPH (Germ.). Medallist, born in 1770 at Amberg, died in 1826; pupil of J. G. Whitska. He resided at Munich, and, says Bolzenthall, "was much employed by the Bavarian Court, and one of the first who in Germany exercised the art in fine taste and after the example of the French in the old style. His numerous productions prove this; they chiefly refer to events in the reign of King Maximilian Joseph."

He was appointed Chief-engraver at the Mint of Munich in 1808. In 1810 he visited Paris.

Amongst Lösch's medals I may mention : Death of Celestin Steiglehner, last Prince Abbot of St. Emmeran's Benedictine Institution at Ratisbon, 1819; — Presentation Medal of the States of Bavaria to King Maximilian Joseph on the first Anniversary of the Constitution, 1819; — 25th Anniversary of Max-Joseph's Reign, 1824; — Marriage of Prince Frederick William of Prussia with Princess Elizabeth Louise of Bavaria, 16. LOVETT, GEORGE HAMPDEN (Amer.). Medallist, born at Philadelphia, February 14, 1824, died at Brooklyn, January 28, 1894.

The following particulars of this Engraver's life are borrowed from Mr. W. E. Weeks' obituary notice in Amer. Journ. of Numismatics, April 1894, p. 104.

"When still an infant, Lovett's father moved to New York, and there the artist spent the greater part of his life. His father, Robert Lovett, and his brothers John D., and Robert, all of whom he outlived, were die-sinkers. After giving George a common school education, his father took him into his employ, at the age of sixteen, to learn the art of engraving and die-sinking. He spent the rest of his life at that business, in New York City, and during the last twenty-five years, he resided in Brooklyn.

"In March 1873, he issued a circular, in which he claimed "that medal die-sinking is a distinct branch of art"; thus showing his own high estimate of the possibilities of his profession. He thought "competition for national coins and medals should be thrown open to all". Solomon said, "Of making many books there is no end". If he could have seen the hundreds (shall we say thousands) of medals, to which G. H. Lovett stood sponsor, he certainly would have included medals also in his ejaculation. As one of his friends somewhat mildly expresses it, "he was prolific". He certainly was.

"In his advertisement, in April 1879, in the American Journal of Numismatics, which continued in the Journal, without change, until October, 1890, he referred to but four of his patrons by name, Hamilton College of the City of New York, the American Institute, and the Whiting Manufacturing Company. He announced as on hand, for sale, the issues of Mr. Wood's series and of the New York Medal Club. He advertised to design and execute Medals for Societies, Schools and Colleges, and promised particular attention to Political Tokens and Commemorative Historical Medals and Numismatic Series.

"Lovett kept no list of his productions, many of which he donated to the American Numismatic and Archaeological Society. His medals tell the story of the Centennial Exposition, Philadelphia, 1876; — the World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition, New Orleans, 1885; — the North, Central and South American Exposition, New Orleans, 1886; — the Piedmont Exposition, Atlanta, 1887; — the American Exhibition, London, 1887; — and the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893. Numismatic, Historical, and Agricultural Societies, Colleges and Schools, and the Social Clubs, American and foreign, the Masons, Odd Fellows, Grand Army, National Guard, firemen and politicians have sought his aid, time and time again.

"His work commemorates the battles and principal events of the Revolution and the Civil War, the erection of statues and monuments, and the dedication of cathedrals, churches and public or historic buildings. Medals were designed by him to celebrate events abroad as well as at home. He cut the dies for the coins of Honduras, and for the plantation or hacienda currency on the Island of Cuba. The Lord's Prayer, on a diameter of less than half an inch, he cut without the aid of a reducing machine.

“His membership in the American Numismatic and Archaeological Society dates from December 23, 1867. He engraved the plate for the printing of certificates of membership, and cut the dies for the striking of membership medals of the Society in 1876.

“He was married three times. His first wife was Sarah Basmore. He married his third wife, Mary A. Turzanski, September 7, 1868. She survives him, with three children, Mary Emma Lovett, Robert Lovett, and Joseph P. Lovett.

Medalet of George Washington, by G. H. Lovett.

“His last illness was but short, but he had been in failing health for several years. He had a press at his house, where he could work quietly and without interruption. Only a short time before his death, he brought home a gold planchet to strike, and told his wife he should spend the afternoon at home striking the medal. When night came, he said, with evident feeling, that he was too feeble to undertake the work, and he should have to get some one else to do it. Death had set his seal upon him! He died of nervous prostration, January 28, 1894, at his residence, No. 26. Irving Place, Brooklyn”.

Among the works of G. H. Lovett which have come under my notice, I may mention : Series of 16 Portrait-Medalets of U.S.A. Presidents, from Washington (illustrated) to Lincoln (some signed : G. H. LOVETT ; — G.H.L. ; — and GHL<sup>NY</sup> ; others unsigned) ; — Several medals of Washington ; — Dr E. K. Kane (3 var.) ; — Dr Valentine Mott, Med. LUCENTI or LUCINI, GIROLAMO (Ital.). Sculptor, Medallist and Mint-engraver at Rome, circ. 1668-1690; pupil of Cav. Algardi, became Assistant-engraver in 1668 under Gasp. Morone. He worked principally for the Popes Clement X., Innocent XI., and Alexander VIII., and also for Sa. Maria di Monte Santo. As a rival of the Hameranis, he did not however attain their fame. His statue of an Angel with the nails of the cross on Sant' Angelo Bridge at Rome is no mean work. For his accomplishments as an artist he was raised to the knighthood by Clement X.

Lucenti engraved many dies for medals and coins which bear his signature in various forms: G. L.; — EQ. HIER. LUCENTI; — EQ. LVCENTI; — EQV. HIER. LVCENTI; — EQVES LVCENTI; — LV. F. &c.

LUTWYCHE, WILLIAM (Brit.). A Birmingham Die-sinker and Manufacturer of tokens, towards the end of the eighteenth century and during the early years of the nineteenth. He issued large quantities of Tokens for tradesmen all over the country, as well as for himself. We read in Davis' Token Coinage of Warwickshire, p. 24 that "he issued over two tons of his private pieces, on which a large and unjustifiable profit was made. The extent of the fraud on the public was great, for it was afterwards discovered that manufacturers were supplied with tokens to pay the wages of workmen, at the rate of 36/ face value for 20/. This ill-gotten wealth did not satisfy those who trafficked in it, as tons of imitation pieces were also struck, of only half their proper weight."

We meet with the names of the Engravers Arnold, Dixon, Jacobs, James, Ponthon, and P. Wyon on Lutwyche's issues of the end of the eighteenth century and early part of the nineteenth, which comprise Lutwyche's own tokens; — Pidcock's Royal Menagerie Tokens; — Tokens of various dates for Appledore, Aylesbury, Bakers, Banbury, Bath, Beccles, Benenden, Birmingham, Brighton Camp, Brighton, Bristol, Bungay, Bury, Burnt Island, Canterbury, Chelsea, Chesham, Cinque Ports, Coventry, Deal, Devizes, Dunkirk, East Grinstead, Falmouth, Feversham, Glasgow, Hastings, Hawkehurst, Hereford, Holt, Hoxae, Kendal, Kent, London (numerous issues), Maidstone, Manchester, Northiam, Norwich, Perth, Plymouth, Poole, Romney, Sandwich, Sleaford, Staplehurst, Sussex, North Wales, Warwickshire, West Cowes, Westminster, Wiltshire, Winchelsea, Woodbridge, Yeovil, York, etc.

One of Lutwyche's Tokens, engraved by James, commemorates the War with France, 1794, and has on obv. a bust of Fox; another, is a Masonic Penny Token of the Prince of Wales, 1795.

LYKOMEDES (Greck). A chalcedony intaglio of the Tyskiewicz Collection, representing a female portrait, diademed, and probably that of the first Cleopatra, with forehead surmounted by headdress of Isis, is signed  $\text{ΞΗΔΗΜΟΧΥΛ}$ , and attributed to an ancient Gem-engraver. This gem is reproduced in Furtwängler, Antike Gemmen, Pl. xxxii, 31, and also described in Gemmen mit Künstlerinschriften, Jahrbuch, 1888, p. 206, Pl. iii.

LYNCH, LYNCH or LINCHE, GERMAINE or GERMYN (Brit.). Mint-master for Ireland under Henry VI. and anni 1-13 of Edward IV., and Graver of the puncheons. He was granted a patent for the coinage of Groats, Half-groats, Pennies, Halfpennies or Mailles, and Farthings or Quadrantes, to be issued at the various mints of Dublin, Cork, Drogheda, Limerick, Trim, Waterford, and Wexford.

Chaffers Gilda Aurifabrorum, p. 37, gives the following information on Lynche: "German Lynche of London, Goldsmith, Warden of the Mint, was elected Graver of the Puncheons for life (1460-1483), Master and Warden of the King's Mints in his realm of Irland within his castle of Dybelin, and he was authorized to strike money for currency in Ireland, to make all manner of puncheons, irons, gravers, &c., within the city of London, or elsewhere, as should to him seem most speedful".

Dublin Groat of Edward IV.

"Simon, on the authority of a manuscript in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, states that in 1472, Germyn Lynch was indicted for making light groats at Drogheda. But, independent of this authority, there is evidence in the Act of 1471, that Lynch had been deprived of his office of Master of the Mint, for on the eighteenth of October, in the tenth year of his reign (1470), William Crunye and Thomas Barby, merchants, were by letters patent constituted masters of the coinage; and in 1473, it was ordered, that Germyn Lynch be Master of the Mint during good behaviour.

"It is reasonable to suppose, that Lynch, being restored to his office, would be anxious to adhere more strictly to the provisions of the Statutes; and as so many frauds had been committed in the coinage, he probably adopted the letter G as his privy mark; and I find that the Groats with this mark on them are remarkable for the uniformity of their weight, and correspond pretty closely with the standard fixed in 1473. Lynch's coins are more numerous than the other varieties, which, with few exceptions, do not appear to be regulated by any standard". (Dr Smith, op. cit., p. 29).

LYSANDER or LYSANDROS. A scarabeus in the Volterra Museum bears the inscription  $\Lambda\Upsilon\Sigma\text{A}\Delta\text{P}\text{O}$ , which is evidently the owner's name, and not an Engraver's signature.

LYSIPPUS (Ital.). Medallist of the second half of the fifteenth century; a nephew of Cristoforo di Geremia. Friedländer was the first to place his name among the medallists, and more recently Herr von Fabriczy has been able to add several medals to the already known list of his works.

Raphael of Volterra informs us that Lysippus was entrusted with the execution of a medal of Pope Paul II. († 1471), and as he wrote at the beginning of the sixteenth century, we can fairly accept his assertion. He however does not give any further information about this artist, and under the medals of Sixtus IV. none may be attributed to him with any reasonable grounds. Fortunately, continues Von Fabriczy, two of his signed productions have been traced; the one is a Portrait-medal of Giulio Marasca (reproduced on a print of 1610); and the other, also a Portrait-medal, of Marinus Philethicus, a poet and scholar, professor at the University of Rome in 1473 (now in M. Prosper Valton, Armand's heir's collection). The latter medal presents on oov. the laureated bust of Philethicus, and the R. a copy of the pelican of Pisano's Victorino da Feltre medal, accompanied by the legend in Greek : ΕΡΓΟΝ ΛΥΣΙΠΠΟΥ ΝΕΟΤΕΡΟΥ (the work of Lysippus the younger).

By comparison with these authenticated works, the following may be ascribed to Lysippus without much doubt : Giovanni Luigi Toscani (6 var., some of which bear the signature L(y)sippus P(ictor)); — Giovanni Francesco Marasca; — Antonio da Santa-Maria; — Francesco Massimo; — Francesco Vitali; — Partheniu. (Ippolito Aurispa); — Pier Paolo Mellini; — Militias Jesuallus. These medals have all in common the same style and the preference of their author for Greek legends. Further they all represent personages who officiated between 1473 and 1484 at the Curia as Abbreviatori, Uditori di camera, Advocates and Notaries, and most of them are young and garbed in similar costumes.

Portrait-medal of Cardinal Raffæele Riario, by Lysippus.

To Lysippus we may also ascribe two medals of Giovanni Candida, who probably studied sculpture under him, — on one of them, which is preserved in the Este Museum at Modena, he is depicted as a youth, and apparently as a pupil of an ecclesiastical seminary; on the larger one, which belongs to M. G. Dreyfuss, (illustrated), and which is of oval shape, we see him still in clerical garb. Both pieces, observes Von Fabriczy, and especially the last, belong, for the ingenuousness of the conception and softness of the modelling to the gems of Quattro Cento medallic art.

From the similarity of style as well as from the testimony of Rafael da Volterra, who informs us that Lysippus was working for Pope Sixtus IV., we may still further consider as the work of this artist the medal of Raffæele Riario, the Pope's nephew, who was raised in 1478 at the age of 17 to the dignity of a cardinal. The R. of this medal represents St George on horseback spearing the Dragon, an allusion to the cardinal's title of San Giorgio in Velabro. And closely connected with this medal is that of Catalano Cosali

To the above list of Lysippus's productions, Dr Bode<sup>1</sup>, in his review of C. Von Fabriczy's Medaillen der Italienischen Renaissance, has been able to add the following : Diomedè Caraffa (illustrated);

G. L. Toscani, by Lysippus.

— Girolamo Callagrano (with arms on  $\mathcal{R}$ ); — Catalano Cosali, a Bolognese, 1478; — Fabricio Varano; — and probably also Gabriel, Cardinal San Prassede, with a Greek legend :  $\text{ΚΑΛΟΝ ΓΕΡΟΝΤΑ}$

Portrait-medal of Diomedè Caraffa, by Lysippus.

$\text{ΚΑΙ ΤΑΛΛΗΝΩΝ ΜΑΘΕΙΝ}$ ; — also the larger medal of Giovanni Aurispa ( $\mathcal{R}$  arms), which was formerly attributed to Pisanello, &c.

1. Dr Bode, Zur neuesten Forschung auf dem Gebiete der italienischen Medaillenkunde, Zeitschrift für bildende Kunst, 1903, p. 41.

Lysippus was a Mantuan, according to Armand, but it is remarkable that most of the personages he has depicted are of Neapolitan origin, many of them having belonged to the Roman Curia.

Both Friedländer and Armand have given to this artist the medal of Sixtus IV., but later writers have not confirmed this attribution.

The style of Lysippus is often dry, and as a rule the reverses are not of exceptional merit. He was greatly surpassed by his pupil Giovanni de Candida, and Dr Bode says : “ Weit bedeutender als Lysipp, der regelmässig trocken ist und auf komponierte Rückseiten sich nicht einlässt, ist sein Schüler Giovanni Candida aus vornehmen Neapler Geschlecht ”.

On the R of the medal of Giulio Marasca, the artist signs himself : LYSIPPVS AMICO OPTIMO. This medal is reproduced in Petavius Pa P. in Francor. curia consilia : antiquariorum suppellectilis portiuncula Parisius, 1610.

I. M. (Mexic.). Initials of a Mint-master or Engraver at the Mint of Mexico, under the short reign of the Emperor Augustine, 1822-1823. These letters I. M occur on the 1822 and 1823 A Onza, R. Peso (4 or 5 var.), Peseta, Real and Medio Real; and Betts, Mexican Imperial Coinage, 1899, considers them as the Engraver's signature.

IM. (Swiss). Medallist's signature on a Portrait-medal of Bartholomäus Schubinger (Schowinger) of St. Gallen, 1500-1585, dated Medal of Barttlme Schowinger, 1561.

1561. Vide Dr Merzbacher's Kunst-Medailien Katalog, Mai 1900, lot 351. This medal, notices Erman, does not belong to the sixteenth century master-pieces; the lettering is particularly broad and flat.

MABILLE, JULES LOUIS (French). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Valenciennes (Nord), 14. August 1843; a pupil of the medallist Jouffroy. He has signed a number of Portrait-medallions in clay, or cast in bronze; — 1894. Hippolyte Maze; — Emile Liénart, &c.

MACCASIUS, JOHANN JACOB (Austr.). Mint-master at Joachims-thal, 1670. The coins issued by him are usually signed M.

MAC CLURE, J. CROSSLAND (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing in London; a member of the Society of Medallists, to the exhibitions of which he has contributed.

I have seen by him: Portrait medallion of Wm. Lees McClure; — Panel "Good Luck"; — Dawn, Relief; — Brooch in bronze, &c., and in the Royal Academy, 1901, he exhibited a Portrait-medallion.

MACCHERONI, CESARE (Ital.). Engraver at the Mint of Rome under Pope Clement VII. Cellini mentions his name in his Autobiography.

MACCHIAVELLI, ANTONIO (Ital.). Mint-engraver at Bologna, under Pope Leo X., 1520-1523. He was commissioned to engrave dies for a new coinage consisting of Fiorini d'oro, Leoni d'argento, Mezzi and Quarti Leoni, Bolognini and Mezzi Bolognini, and billion Piccoli. This coinage does not appear to have been issued.

MACÉ, ÉMILE LOUIS (French). Contemporary Sculptor; born at Angers; pupil of Cavalier. By him are several Portrait-medallions in bronze: 1884. Portrait of M. E. L***; — 1893. Three Children's heads; — Dr Lujelouze's children; — 1896. Portrait-medallion.

MAC GILES, MARGARET (Mrs Bernard Jenkin) (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor and Modeller, a member of the "Society of Medallists", who has produced at various times, a number of fine medallic works; thus: Seal and Impression for a Submarine; — Portrait-medallion; — Friendship, medallion; — Two medals, &c.

MAC GILL, DAVID (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, residing in London, a member of the Society of Medallists, at the exhibitions of which association he has shown some very artistic productions: Portrait-medallion; — Medal for Cambridge; — Design for a medal and reverse; — The Nineteenth Century; — St. Peter's College, Westminster; — Prince of Bhavnagar; — The Mirror of Nature; — Cambridge University Medal (illustrated in The Studio, XXII, 126); — Hero and Leander; — Hugh Mac Gill, &c.

MAC GILLIVRAY, PITTENDRIGH (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor, born in Aberdeenshire, and brought up at Edinburgh, where he attended the School of Design and went through the usual curriculum. He then studied under William Brodie, R.S.A., Edinburgh, and John Mossmann H.R.S.A., Glasgow. He is now an Associate of the Royal Scottish Academy.

This sculptor has also touched medallic work: Portrait-medallion of Mrs Hannah Kindlay; — A Portrait; — Bas-reliefs "Burns and Highland Mary"; — "Rhythm", &c.

"Gifted with imagination and artistic sensibility, with a facile and skilful hand the work he has already done is the best guarantee that can be advanced for his future success" (The Studio, XVI, 205).

MACHAULT, PAUL ÉMILE (French). Sculptor, born in Paris, r. September 1800, died in 1867; pupil of Francin and the Ecole des Beaux-Arts. By him are Portrait-medallions in bronze, some of which were exhibited at the Salon of 1834.

MACHAULT, PAUL (French). Son of the preceding; Sculptor and Medallist, residing at Paris; pupil of Simart. Amongst his medallic productions are: 1864. Portrait-Medallion of M. Paul C***; — 1868. Portrait of M. B***; — Portrait of M. M***; — 1873. Portrait of M. S***; — 1874. Portrait of M. Quinsat; — Portrait of M. Lesaffre; — Portrait of M. Surge. — 1875. Portrait of M. H. Pinat; — 1876. Portrait of M. May; — 1878. Portrait of M. H. Lozier; — Portrait of M. P. May, &c.

MACKENZIE (Brit.). Medallist and Engraver, who presumably resided at Lucknow, towards the end of the eighteenth century. His name occurs in full on School Prize Medals (1.65 in), and medallic double and single Rupees, with General Claude Martin's bust, the founder of the Martinière Schools. Although unsigned, the smaller medal (of the size and weight of a Rupee), is undoubtedly by the same engraver. These medals occur in gold, silver and copper.

The so-called General Martin “Rupee”.

One side has the General's bust and motto, the other a Persian inscription with title. The work is exceptionally good (Vide C. J. Rodgers, Coin-collecting in Northern India, Allahabad, 1894.)

Claude Martin, a French adventurer, was born at Lyons in January 1732, and died near Lucknow, 13. September 1800.

He distinguished himself first under Count de Lally, the French commander in India and Governor of Pondicherry, then he enlisted in the service of the East India Company, as chief of a company of French deserters. Later, he became a favourite of Sidi-ed-Daulah, king of Oudh, and amassed a colossal fortune. The splendour of his palace at Constantia, near Lucknow, was proverbial. In 1796 he was appointed Major General in the East India Co. He founded several schools, known under the name of Martinière Schools, at Lyons, Calcutta, Chandernagor, and Lucknow, some of which still exist. The medals above-described were intended as Prizes for the encouragement of study and diligence at those schools.

Tradition has ascribed to General Martin the issue of a number of imitation zodiacal half Rupees, which were evidently not intended to pass as counterfeit money, but merely struck as ornaments, Marsden however denies the General's connection with these forgeries, on the authority of Martin's personal friends (Marsden, Numismata Orientalia, II, p. 615. — Stanley Lane-Poole, The Coins of the Moghul Emperors of Hindustan in the British Museum, London, 1892, p. LXXXIV).

MACKENNAL, EDGAR BERTRAM (Brit.). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Melbourne (Australia). At the Paris Salon of 1894 he exhibited a Portrait-plaque of M<sup>me</sup> Sarah Bernhardt, and a bronze relief, Silence.

MACKNITZKY, ZACHARIAS (Pole). A public notary at Breslau, who in 1710, issued a commemorative medal, which bears his initials Z. M.

MACKWORTH, SIR HUMPHREY (Brit.). Owner of silver mines in Wales, temp. Anne. Some of the current money of that reign, with plumes on the R., was struck from silver derived from the Welsh mines of Sir Carberry Price and Sir Humphrey Mackworth. "An order of Council of 5th of April, 1706, directed that money coined from silver brought into the mint by the Governor and Company for melting down lead with Pitcoale and Seacoale should have the mark of distinction on each piece as represented in their petition, i. e., roses and plumes alternately. The coins with the plumes were frequently called Quakers' money, because the company by which the mines were worked comprised among its members many persons of that denomination."

MAC MONNIES, FREDERICK WILLIAM (Amer.). Contemporary Sculptor and Medallist, born at Brooklyn in 1863; pupil of Falguière, Mercié, and Saint-Gaudens; he now resides at Brooklyn, after having spent some years in Paris and on the continent of Europe.

The Niagara Falls (Obv.).

In 1884 he left Mr. St. Gaudens' studio in New York, where he received his first artistic training. So talented had been his drawings and sketches that the older sculptor was of the opinion that Mc Monnies might become great in both arts.

Although his medallic productions are few in number, they are of exceptional merit. One of them, the Niagara Falls (illustrated) was purchased for the Luxembourg Museum, and was exhibited, together with the medal dedicated "To my friend Elijah Robinson Kennedy" at the Paris Universal Exhibition, 1900. By him is also a Portrait-medal of Miss Kennedy, etc.

The sculptor and Medallist John Flanagan is one of Mc Monnies' pupils.

MAI... (Greek.). Abbreviation of a Coin-engraver's signature ΜΑΙΩΝ or ΜΑΙΘΙΩΝ. Dr Arthur Evans was the first to publish it (Numismatic Chronicle, 1890, p. 292).

This inscription MAI occurs on a Tetradrachm of Himera in the Paris Medal Cabinet. I reproduce it here from Dr Evans' woodcut.

(4 diams).

The type of this interesting tetradrachm belongs to the period which immediately preceded the destruction of Himera by the Carthaginians, circ. B. C. 409.

Obv. Nymph facing, head to l., wearing sleeved chiton and peplos, the ends of which fall over right arm; she holds in r. hand patera, over altar with square horns; behind her, a Seilen, facing, bending sideways to receive on his l. shoulder jet of water issuing from lion's head fountain; in exergue: PI.

Rv. Quadriga to r., driven by charioteer wearing long chiton, who holds rein in both hands; horses in high action; above, Nike to l., holding wreath and tablet or pinakion inscribed MAI; in ex., hippocamp to l.

Tetradrachm. of Himera.

In drawing attention to the similarity of this type with that of the Syracusan engraver's, Euainetos, Dr Rudolf Weil had already suggested the presence of an artist's signature on the tablet which Nike holds in her hand, but none of the specimens known when he wrote were sufficiently well preserved to enable one to decipher the inscription MAI which however Dr Evans has discovered on the Paris coin. The M is not very distinct, but the signature could scarcely be other than MAI, which when completed would form the name of Mæón or perhaps Mathiôn.

It is certain that the coin of Euainetos served as prototype to the engraver MAI of Himera. Dr Evans shows numerous points of similarity between the two pieces and proves that the tetradrachm of Himera is much later than the Syracusan one, issued circ. 425-420 B. C., and probably belongs to the period preceding immediately the destruction of the town, circ. 409-408 B. C.

MAINHART, G. (Germ.). Mint-master at Bornstädt, circ. 1605, in the service of the Counts of Mansfeld, Bruno II., William and John George (1604-1607). His initials G. M. occur on the coinage. He also acted in the same capacity at Eisleben, Halle and Stolberg, 1595-1615.

MAINONI (French). Superintendent of the Tobacco régie at Strassburg, who in 1797 issued a medal with bust of Bonaparte, commemorating the Treaty of peace of Campo Formio.

MAINWARING, WILLIAM (Brit.). Engraver of Tokens, and Medallist, whose productions date between 1790 and 1798. He resided at Birmingham, but I have been unable to trace any further information concerning his life.

From Pye we learn that Mainwaring was a Manufacturer of Tokens, as well as Die-sinker. By him are : Hickman's, Birmingham, Halfpennies, 1792, with bust of John Howard (4 var.); — P. Deck's, Bury, Pennies (one var. illustrated), and Halfpennies, 1794, with bust of Charles, Marquis Cornwallis (sev. var.); — Robert Reynolds & C<sup>o</sup>'s, Halfpennies of Coventry, 1792, with. obv. Lady Godiva on horseback (7 var. one illustrated); — R. B. Wilkins, Isle of Wight, Halfpennies, 1792, with bust of Robert Bird Wilkins; — S. Barker's, Lichfield, Halfpennies, 1797, with bust of D<sup>r</sup> Samuel Johnson (sev.

var.); — W. Steward's, London and Middlesex, Halfpennies and Farthings, 1792, with bust of Shakespeare (sev. var.); — J. Fielding's, Manchester, Halfpennies, 1792; — Dunham and Yallop's, Norwich, Halfpennies, 1792 and 1793 (sev. var.); — North Wales, Halfpenny Token of Coventry, 1792.

Halfpennies, 1793, with head of Druid (sev. var.); — North Wales, Farthings, 1793, with youthful bust, laureate (8 var.); — South Wales, Farthings, 1793, with laur. bust (10 var.); — Farror's Warwickshire, Halfpennies, 1791, with bust of Shakespeare; — H. Hickman's, Westminster, Halfpennies, 1792, with bust of John Howard (sev. var.); — Non Local. Halfpennies, with busts of Louis XVI. and Marie-Antoinette, 1793 R. MURD. BY THE FACTIOUS, &c. (numerous varieties; either obv. or R. having been used in connection with R. or obv. of other tokens, as David Garrick, Two men at a forge, &c. Vide Atkins, pp. 112-114, 368-369); — Halfpennies, 1793, with bust of the Dauphin, and R. MAY. THE. DOPHIN BE RESTORED TO THE CROWN OF FRANCE, &c.

Mainwaring's signature : W. M. or more rarely : W. MAINWARING FECIT occurs on the following medals : The Rev. Caleb Evans, † 1791; — John Howard, F. R. S., Memorial, 1790; — Selina; Countess of Huntingdon, 1791; — Frederick, Bishop of Osnabrück, 1791; — Decapitation of Louis XVI., 1793 (copy of a medal by Fr. Loos); Others, on the same event, with R. CUNCTIS ILLE, &c. cypress tree, or guillotine, &c. (many varieties); — Decapitation of Marie-Antoinette 1793, with her bust on obv., 1793; — Louis XVI. and Marie-Antoinette, 1793 (sev. var.); — Louis XVII., 1793, obv. Bust of the Dauphin. R. Crown (sev. var.); — Frederick, Duke of York, Valenciennes surrendered, 1793; — Thomas Ryder, actor, etc.

The work of Mainwaring compares favourably with that of his foremost contemporaries, J. G. Hancock, Peter and Thomas Wyon, C. H. Küchler, and others.

MAIRE, ANNA (French). Sculptor and Medallist; daughter of J.-B. Maire (q. v.). She is the author of Portrait-medallions in bronze of J.-B. Maire; — Herself; — Abbé E. M***; — 1901. Mgr. Petit, Archbishop of Besançon; — 1905. Just Becquet, statuary.

MAIRE, JEAN BAPTISTE (French). Medallist, born at Besançon, 5. August 1787, died there, 13. December 1859. His first teacher was Dominique Paillot, Director of the Drawing school of his native city. He then studied medicine, and in 1809, accompanied the French army to Spain as surgeon, but wounded at the siege of Saragossa, he returned to Besançon and turned his attention to sculpture. In 1816, he was admitted at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, and worked under and for the sculptor Lemot, whom he assisted in the execution of certain of his works, as for instance, the statue of Henry IV., re-erected by Louis XVIII., near the Pont-Neuf.

J. B. Maire exhibited at the Paris Salon, from 1819 to 1852, in the section of sculpture. His principal works are : Head of Christ (in Besançon Museum); — Head of St. John the Baptist; — Bust of Lieut.-General Donzelot, governor of Martinique; — Bust of Mairet; — Head of Eurydice; — Bust of Cardinal de la Luzerne; — Bust of Mgr. de Quélen, &c.

On the invitation of his friend, Charles Weiss, town librarian of Besançon, the artist executed a series of medals representing distinguished citizens of Franche-Comté. A subscription was opened in 1836, and the first medal which appeared was that of Gilbert Cousin, the friend of Erasmus; the last was that of Mgr. Mathieu, archbishop of Besançon, which his daughter, M<sup>lle</sup> Anna Maire, had to finish, death having overtaken the medallist before he could achieve it. He could not either complete the  $\mathcal{R}$ . of General Lecourbe's medal, and only prepared the model of that of Bichat.

All the medals of J. B. Maire are struck. At his death, the dies were acquired by the Municipal Council of Besançon and deposited in the Archaeological Museum of that town. He had invented a Reducing Machine for the use of medallists, which is now preserved at the Conservatoire des Arts et Métiers.

MALER, CHRISTIAN (Germ.). Son of Valentin Maler, to whose business as a Goldsmith and Medallist he succeeded, circ. 1603. He was born at Nuremberg about 1584 and died there after 1648, but neither the date of his birth, nor that of his death are known. The period of his activity is placed between 1603 and 1648. Although a son of Valentin Maler, and grand-son of Wenzel Jamnitzer, his productions, which are very numerous, "are executed," says Bolzenthall, "in a mechanical manner and frequently in a bad style."

Christian Maler was most successful in the portraits of some Nurembergians, but worked also for the House of Brandenburg, and the Emperors Rudolph II., Matthias, and Ferdinand II., "from whom he received permission to strike medals in his own house, a privilege noted on most of his works cum privilegio."

Hans Jakob Tetzl, by C. Maler.

Most of Christian Maler's medals are struck; some however are cast, and bear the monogram CM incuse, whereas it is raised on medals. Amongst these, Erman mentions the following: 1605. Ernst Haller; — Georg Volckamer; — 1628. Georg Graf; — 1629. Hans Jakob Tetzl (illustrated); — Undated. Maximilian, Count Pappenheim; — and probably also : Henricus Coler, Consul. Primarius. Lvbecensis, 1636 (illustrated), &c.

Similar in style are the medals signed MH and many other oval portrait-pieces of Nuremberg, of the two first decades of the seventeenth century; many of these, suggests Erman, should certainly belong to Christian Maler.

This artist's medals are variously signed  ; C. M.; — C.

M. C. P.; — C. M. C. PRIVI. CAES.; — C. MAL.; — C. MALER.; — C. MALLER.; — C. PRI. C. M.; — C. PRI. CAE. C. MALER.; — C. PRIVI. C. MALER.; — C. PRIVI. CAE. C. M.; — CVM. PRIVI. C. C. M.; — CVM. PRIVI. CAE. C. M.; — M. C., or privy mark, a crane.

I have made a note of the following medals by Christian Maler, which however only represent a small portion of his work: Frederick, Count Palatine, and Princess Elizabeth, 1615. R. Shields of arms; — Coronation of Frederick and Elizabeth of Bohemia, Coronation of Frederick and Elizabeth of Bohemia, 1619.

1619 (4 var.; one illustrated); — Elizabeth Stuart, oval badge, 30 x 38 mill., obv. QVAE SIM POST TERGA VIDEBIS. Crowned bust to r. R. SIC NVNC : PVLCHERRIMA QVON-DAM. Skeleton holding hour-glass above table inscribed : CVM PRIVI. CAES : C. M. (illustrated); — Emperor Rudolph II.; — Emperor Matthias and consort Anna; — Matthias II. King of Hungary, 1611 R. King on horseback; — Emperor Matthias and consort Anna, 1617; — Archduke Ferdinand, 1617; — Empress Eleonora, 1630; — Jeton on the Capture of Jülich, by John Sigismund, Margrave of Brandenburg, 1610 (2 var.); — Frederick William, Margrave of Brandenburg, and consort, Louise, 1648; — Christian II., Margrave of Brandenburg, 1606 (2 var.); — Marriage of Joachim Ernest, Margrave of Brandenburg, with Princess of Nassau-Orange, 1646; — Brunswick medal of 1615, obv. ALACRITAS CALCAR LIBERALITAS R. CAVTE Acrobats, &c.; — Religious Medal, Ein vernunfftig Weiberfrischt ihres Manns Hertz, &c.; — Another, Bust of Christ, EGO.SVM.VIA VERITAS ET VITA; — Reformation Memorial, 1630; — Proclamation Medal and Coronation of Matthias II., at Frankfort-on-M., 1612 (sev. var.); — “Apostles” Medal; — Matthias II., Wars against the Turks, 1612; — Matthias II.’s solemn entry into Ratisbon, 1613; — “Utraquistenmedaille”; — Ferdinand II. and the six Prince-Electors; — The Nuremberg Town Hall, 1619; — Rudolph II. and the six Prince-Electors, 1607; — Medal of Strassburg, 1615; — Siege of Brunswick, 1615.

Among the personal medals engraved by Christian Maler are ; Martin Luther, 1617 (sev. var.); — Johann Tserclaes Tilly, 1628; — Ernest, Count Mansfeld; — Prince-Elector Frederick William of Brandenburg and consort Louise of Nassau-Orange, 1646; — Duke John George I. of Saxony; — Prince Maurice of Orange-Nassau, 1600 and 1613 (sev. var.); — Georg Volckamer, 1624 and 1627; — Emperor Matthias II., obv. legend : MATTHIAS MVNDI MODERATOR MAGNIFICATUS; — Emperor Ferdinand II. (sev. var.); — Frederick V., Count Palatine, King of Bohemia, 1619; — Rudolph II.; — Prince Henry Frederick, of Orange-Nassau; — Christian I., Prince of Anhalt, 1607 (oval medalet).

At the Kunstgewerbe-Ausstellung, Dresden, 1906, the following medals by Christian Maler were exhibited, which Prof. Dr B. Pick describes in his Catalogue : Emperor Rudolf II., 1603 (R. gilt. Gotha Museum); — John Casimir, Duke of Saxony, in Coburg (R. gilt. Weimar); — Anna, consort of Prince Christian of Anhalt, 1607 (Æ. gilt); — Emperor Mathias and his family; Coronation medal of Frankfort-on-Main, 1612 (Æ. Gotha); — Joachim Ernest, Margrave of Brandenburg-Ansbach, 1612 (Æ.); — Another, similar (but undated); — Ernst, Count of Mansfeld, undated (Æ. Gotha); — John Frederick, Duke of Württemberg, undated (Æ. gilt); — Maximilian, Duke of Bavaria, undated (Æ. gilt. Gotha); — Medal of the Beyersdorf Convention, with busts of the four Frankish Princes (Æ. gilt); — John Georg I., Prince Elector of Saxony, 1520 (Æ. Gotha); — Johannes Dresel von Hoelfeld, abbot of Erbach, 1618 (Æ. gilt and enamelled. Gotha).

Christian Maler engraved dies for coins, as for instance the "Reichsvikariat" Thaler of John George I., 1612, and a Portrait-thaler of George, Margrave of Brandenburg, but he never filled the office of a Mint-engraver. According to Oesterreicher, he applied on 13. November 1630 for the post of Die-cutter at the Vienna Mint, and recalled in support of his application his twenty years' services to that Mint.

By Christian Maler are also Portrait-medallions in coloured wax.

MALER, CHRISTOPH (Germ.). Die-cutter to the Vienna Mint, 1609. His initials C. M. occur on Thalers of Vienna, of that date. But I suspect the author of the Vienna Mint Catalogue has misinterpreted these initials which undoubtedly stand for Christian Maler, who was engaged on various occasions with work for the Vienna Mint.

MALER, VALENTIN (Germ.). A celebrated Medallist of Nuremberg; son-in-law of Wenzel Jamnitzer, the famous Nuremberg goldsmith; and father of Christian Maler. The date of his activity ranges from 1568 to 1603, in which year, according to Doppelmayer, he probably died. Mummenhof has traced this artist's origin to Iglau in Moravia, and Erman has further shown that before settling at Nuremberg he had been employed as Mint-engraver at Joachimsthal. He married Wenzel Jamnitzer's daughter Maria in 1569, and by special favour of the Nuremberg Town Council obtained the privileges of a Mastership.

It is highly probable that Valentin Maler settled at Nuremberg in, or some time before 1568. A few years later we find him taking up his residence at the Saxon Court, which might account for the fact that of 1573 only one medal is known by the artist and of 1574 and 1575 none at all. He may also have worked in Silesia. After his return to Nuremberg, he remained in connection with the Prince-Elector of Saxony, and in 1590 executed a Portrait-medal of Christian I.

Valentin Maler's cast medals are usually signed:  $\mathcal{M}$ . The following are known to Erman: Undated. Hans Erasmus von Schwanberg, Mint-master-general for Bohemia, previous to 1566, and perhaps Maler's chief, when engraver at the Joachimsthal Mint; it was executed before 1568; — Undated. Georg Pichl von Pichlberg, a Bohemian (aet. 26; i. e. modelled before 1568); — 1568. Hans Thomas Newkum; — Wenzel Jamnitzer (2 var.; one, dated 1571, formerly in the T. W. Greene collection); — Katharina Goswein; — Leonhart Tucher; — Lorenz Durnhofer; — theologian.  $\mathcal{R}$ . Head of Luther, in flat relief (illustrated); — Undated. Johann Rieter, † 1584; — 1584. Wenzel Jamnitzer, oval; — Matthaeus Schyrer; — (1584). Ernst von Mengersdorf, bishop of Bamberg; — Undated. Frederick VII., of Limpurg, Court Chamberlain to the Count Palatine, at Heidelberg; — Martin Rehlen; — 1585. Sigismund Feierabend; — 1587. Heinrich Thenn (the head and arms are cast separately and soldered on a silver plaque); — 1593. Hermann Heher; — Undated. Joachim Camerarius; — Simon Naub and consort (Naub was a native of Frankfort-on-M., his wife was of Nuremberg); — Felicitas Sidelmann; — 1594. Johannes Masler (in British Museum; published by Dr Julius Cahn, Num. Chron., 1904, pl. vii, 6); — Paul Luther, (Luther's son), Facing portrait (Berl. Münzblätter, 1903, p. 390).

The above list of Maler's cast medals is no doubt very incomplete. Erman suggests that the following unsigned medals of Würzburg and Bamberg are by him also. In style and workmanship they bear a strong similarity to the medals of Georg Mylius of 1584 and Matthias Schilherr of 1578; the portraits are facing, and in very low relief, and the lettering reminds one entirely of Maler's peculiar characteristics. It is further known, from contemporary documents, that the artist worked for the Bishop of Bamberg, but did not sign his productions at the episcopal court. Heller (p. 27) has recorded a payment of 22 florins made to Maler for the modelling of the Portrait-medal of Ernst von Mengersdorf, bishop of Bamberg; a cast in gold was made of this by the Bamberg goldsmith, Bernhard Rehm. Erman ascribes to Valentin Maler the Portrait-medals of : 1575. Julius Echter, bishop of Würzburg; — 1577. Wilhelm Schutzper, surnamed Milchling, of Würzburg (Zeits. f. Num., 10, 174); — Johann Georg, bishop of Bamberg; — Undated. Adam Calvus, of Würzburg; — Lienhart Hiebner and consort Barbara (probably a son of Lienhart Hiebner of Nuremberg, who was born in 1502).

Amongst the unsigned Nuremberg Portrait-medals in very low relief Erman suggests the attribution of the following to Valentin Maler, and in support of this he points out that the Fetzter medal of 1576 is a copy of that of 1572, which bears the artist's monogram. As however, Maler's productions before 1568 cannot be traced, there must still be some uncertainty as to the authorship of these medals : 1567. Paul Behaim; — 1573. Gabriel Tucher; — 1575. Lorenz Zollikofer; — 1576. Matthaeus Fetzter; — Leonhardt Nierenberger and consort Frau Froniga; and probably also : 1580. Willibald Imhof the Elder; and 1588. Michael lensinger.

Many of the medals formerly ascribed to Wenzel Jamnitzer belong in reality to Valentin Maler.

Besides the above-mentioned cast medals, Maler is the author of numerous struck pieces, most of which, says Erman, were made for sale, but some also as Presentation-pieces for princes, as the oval badge of Charles II. of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen (Zeits. für Num., XI, pl. 2). These struck medals are by no means inferior in style to the cast pieces, but are usually signed V.M. or still more frequently : V.M. CVM PRIVILE. CAES. ; and also FA. V.M.C. PRIVILE (Faciebat Valentin Maler cum Privilegio). The following struck medals bear Valentin Maler's signature ; they however represent but a portion of the artist's productions in that category : Jakob Scholtz (one of the artist's earliest medals, the dies of which were formerly preserved at the Joachimsthal Mint) ; — Portrait-jeton of Valentin Maler ; — Maximilian II., ℞. Eagle supporting orb in its claws (sev. var.) ; — Coronation Medal of the Emperor Rudolph II., 1576 and 1589 (sev. var.) ; — Medal of the Prince-Electors, ℞. MANE NOBISCVM &c. (sev. var.) ; — Medal of the Augustine friar Gottfried, of Raab, 1601 ; — Leonhard Dillherr von Thummenberg, of Nuremberg ; — Sebald Haller von Hallerstein, 1569 ; — Stephan Brechtel, mathematician, of Nuremberg ; — Wolff von Breuningen ; — S. Ludovicus Schaublein (?) ; — Homage to the Emperor Rudolph II. and his ancestors, 1590 and 1594 (sev. var.) ; — Nuremberg New year's Medal, 1580 ; — Building of the Fleischbrücke on the Pegnitz, by the Nuremberg Urban Council, 1598 ; — Accession of Prince-Elector Christian II., Duke of Saxony, 1601 ; — A. Jewelled Badge of Duke Augustus of Saxony, circ. 1574 (2 var.) ; — Medallie Thaler of Christian, Duke of Saxony, 1590 ; The Prince-Elector on horseback ; ℞. Arms ; — Commemorative Medal of the Shooting Fête at Nuremberg, 1592 ; — Birth of Princess Claude of France, a presentation piece to Nuremberg notabilities, 1580 ; — Medal of 1599 struck in honour of the Burgomaster and Aldermen of Frankfort-on-M. (sev. var.) ; — "Shooting" Thaler of Frankfort-on-M., 1582 (sev. var.) ; — Capture of the Fortress of Raab (Schwarzenberg), 1598 ; — Various Religious medals ; — Jakob Fugger the wealthy (attributed to Dürer by Erman) ; — Bishop Johann von Speyer (the last two medals are very similar in style), &c.

At the Dresden 'Kunstgewerbe-Ausstellung', 1906, the following medals by Valentin Maler were exhibited, and they are described in Prof. Dr B. Pick's catalogue : Andreas Imhoff, 1569 (lead, uniface) ; — Jakob Muffel, 1569 (lead, uniface) ; — Wenzel Jamnitzer, 1571 (lead, uniface) ; — Julius Echter, bishop of Würzburg, 1575 (℞. gilt) ; — Another, smaller (℞.) ; — Georg Mylius, of Augsburg (℞. Martin Luther), 1584 (℞. gilt. Gotha) ; — Wenzel Jamnitzer, 1584 (lead, Gotha) ; — Sigismund Feierabend, of Frankfort, 1585 (℞.) ; — Hieronymus Paumgartner, 1598 (℞. gilt). All the above are cast medals, whereas the following are struck specimens :

Emperor Rudolf II., undated (Æ. Gotha); — Prince-Elector's medal, 1589; — King David. Medal of David Weiss of Augsburg; — Balthasar Paumgartner, 1592 (lead, uniface. Gotha). The last may be by Val. Maler, and is a cast piece.

Johann Neudörffer, by V. Maler.

Some interesting notes are given by Dr Julius Cahn in his article on German Renaissance Medals (Num. Chron., 1904, p. 41): "So far as the technical work of medals of the German Renaissance is concerned, the masters of the sixteenth century preferred casting, only few examples of striking being in existence. It is well known that casting is the nobler and more artistic method of producing medals, and among all nations the best work in this branch of art has been done in this way.

Andreas Imhoff.
(Portrait-medallion in wax).

"The models were, as a rule, first carved in wood, the letters being afterwards fastened on. Many of these wooden models are still preserved, and serve as ornaments of our collections. A good many medals were also executed in honestone. The art of modelling in wax came into use later, but, once known, was soon in general favour. The finished cast was often worked over with the chisel, in order to bring out details. But there are also in existence most successful casts which have not been touched. The metal in general use was bronze; silver was less used at first, and one must not be surprised to find that many of the medals are of lead. The first casts, which were at the same time the proofs, were always produced in the less valuable metal, and of many medals we possess only these casts in lead."

Valentin Maler, says Dr B. Pick, modelled his medals in wax, and many of his Portrait-medallions in wax are still in existence. One of Andreas Imhoff (illustrated) was formerly in the Felix Collection.

The artist was employed also by various mints, as Würzburg, Nuremberg, &c., to engrave coin-dies. A rare Guldenthaler of Würzburg, dated 1593, bears his initials.

MANFREDINI, LUIGI (Ital.). Medallist, born at Bologna in 1771, died on 22. June 1840. He was for many years Professor of Medallic Art at the Milan Academy of Arts, and Mint-engraver there, Napoleon I., 5 Lire, 1811.

from 1798 to 1830, (first as assistant, then chief-engraver from 1808) during which period he cut dies for the Kingdom of Italy, the Austrian province of Lombardy, and executed a series of medals of indisputable merit. His predecessor and colleague at the Mint was Giuseppe Salvirch, by whom are also Milanese Patterns of Napoleon I. The Medallist Gerolamo Vassallo was also a colleague with Manfredini as Engraver at the mint from 1808 to 1819.

Manfredini's series of coins comprise : Napoleon I. Al. 40 Lire, 1808-1814; 20 Lire, 1808-1814; R. 15 Lire, 1808-1814; 2 Lire, Lira, 15, 10 and 5 Soldi, 1808-1814; Parpagliola, 1808-1813; 25 Centesimi, 1808; Æ. Soldo, 1807-1813; 3 Centesmi, 1807-1813; Centesimo, 1807-1813. Also various Patterns of 1806 and 1807, and a curious Lira of 1810 reading NATOLEONE. — Francis I. Various Pattern coins : Æ. Scudo da 6 Lire, 1816 (2 proofs in the Imperial Medal of the Cisalpine Republic, 1797, by Manfredini.

Museum, Vienna); Lira austriaca 1822, 23, 24; Mezza Lira, and Quarto di Lira, 1822-1824; Æ. 5 Centesimi, 1822 and 1834; 3 Centesimi, and Centesimo, 1822 and 1834. Currency : ℥. Sovrano, 1820-1830;  $\frac{1}{2}$  Sovrano, 1820 and 1822; ℞. Tallero, 1819-1831; Fiorino, 1822-24, 1827, &c. — Marie-Louise, Duchess of Parma. ℞. 40 and 20 Lire, 1815 and 1832; ℞. 5, 2, and 1 Lire, 1815 and 1832, and subsidiary currency, ℞. 5 and 10 Soldi; Æ. 1, 3 and 5 Centesimi, 1815, 1830, 1832, &c.

The list of Manfredini's medals is a large one, but only the following have come under my notice. They are usually signed : L.M.; but also M.; L. MANFREDINI and L.F.M. : Napoleone Bonaparte ℞. Cisalpine Republic, 1797; Bonaparte ℞. DVX·TVTVS·&c. (illustrated); — Attempt on Napoleon's life, 1800; — 'Courier national' of the Cisalpine Republic, 1801; — Constitution at Lyons of the Cisalpine Republic, 1802 (4 var.); — The Commune of Parma to Bodoni, 1802; — Royal Institute of Sciences and Arts, 1806; — Coronation of Napoleon I. at Milan, 1805 (2 types; one with : LA ZECCA DI MILANO·MAGGIO on obv.); — Capture of Vienna, 1805; — Battle of Jena, 1806; — Prize Medal of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts of Milan, 1806 (sev. var.); — Medal of the Royal Italian Institute of Sciences, Letters and Arts, 1806 (signed : L); — General Marmont; dedicated by the inhabitants of Spalatro in Dalmatia, 1807; — Milanese Prize Medal for useful Discoveries, 1807; — Battle of Ratisbon, 1809 (℞. only; obv. by Vassallo); — Battle of Wagram and Campaign of 1809 (2 var.); — Marriage of Napoleon I. with Marie Louise, 1810 (Hymen driving Mars before him); — Birth of the King of Rome, 1811; — Return of Duke Francesco IV. to Modena, 1814; — Proclamation (Giuramento) Medal of Francis I., of the Lombardo-Venetian Kingdom, at Milan, 1815 (struck in three sizes, both for Venice and Milan); — Visit of Francis I. to Milan, 1816 (℞. only); — Visit of Francis I. to the Milanese Mint; — Visit of the Archduke John to the Mint of Milan, 1816; — Visit of the Archduke Rainer to the Milanese Mint, 1816; — Belzoni's discoveries in Egypt, medal presented by the inhabitants of Padua, 1819; — Elizabeth, Duchess of Devonshire (sev. var., with the Column of Focas at Rome, &c.); — Helmeted head of Athena; — Laureate bust of Dante; — Bust of Virgil; — Death of Lord Byron at Missolonghi, 1824 (sev. var., with Sepulchral urn; Nude male figure leaning on a globe; Female figure wearing mural crown; and smaller medalets); — Giovanni Battista Bodoni, typographer, 1802; — Marie Louise, Empress of Austria, 1816, Memorial Medal (struck by order of Francis I.); — Joseph Eckhel, numismatist, 1837; — Coronation of Ferdinand I., Emperor of Austria, 1831; — Dr Giacomo Tommasini, of Parma, 1822; — Dr A. Scarpa, of Pavia; — Galileo Galilei; — Dr A. Sacco, of Milan; — Giuditta Pasti, ℞. Heads of Goldoni and Alfieri, 1829; — James, Count of Carrara, Director of the Academy of Bergamo, 1797 (this is the first Portrait-medal engraved by the artist); — Archduke Rainer, Viceroy of Lombardy, 1818; — Giuseppe Barbieri, 1833; — Inauguration of the Bridge on the Trebia, 1825 (a successful medal, with portraits of Francis I. and his daughter Marie-Louise); — Prize Medal of the Milanese Military Academy; — Prize Medal of the Academy of Fine Arts of Venice (with R. Minerva); — Coronation Medal of Ferdinand I., 1838; — Medal of the “Academia filodrammatica” of Milan, 1840, with busts of Goldoni and Alfieri (one of Manfredini’s last productions); — Industrial Prize Medal of Prague (obv. only); — Andrea Appiani, 1826; — Leonardo da Vinci (2 var.); — Francesco Hayes, etc.

Luigi Manfredini rose to the first rank of early nineteenth century Italian medallists; his coins, in particular, display a great effort of art. Many of his medals were from designs of the celebrated painter, Appiani, whose portrait he has represented on a medal executed in 1826.

MANTEGNA, ANDREA (Ital.). A celebrated Italian Painter and Engraver, born at Padua, 1430-1504. His works were numerous; he did altar-pieces and frescoes, his greatest being "The Triumph of Caesar". He was a man of versatile genius and poet as well as painter. His influence on Italian art was very considerable.

At the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, are two bronze Plaques, both representing The Entombment, probably contemporary adaptations from the engraving on the same subject by Mantegna.

Others, Christ standing in the Sepulchre; — The Virgin and child under a canopy with saints; — A Roman sacrifice, &c. are described in Fortnum's Catalogue of Bronzes in the South Kensington Museum, as of the school of Mantegna.

Mantegna may be the author of the admirable bronze Portrait-medallion of himself on his tomb in the chapel of S. Giovanni, in Sant' Andrea Basilica at Mantua.

MARCHANT, NATHANIEL (Brit.). Gem-engraver and Medallist, born in Sussex in 1739, died in Somerset Place, London, in April 1816, aged 77. He was a pupil of Edward Burch, R. A., and in 1766 became a Member of the Incorporated Society of Artists. In 1773, he went to Rome, where he studied and worked for sixteen years. He sent impressions from ancient intaglios to the Royal Academy from 1781 to 1785, and continued to exhibit there until 1811. In 1791 he was elected Associate of the Royal Academy, and Academician in 1809. He was also a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and a Member of the Academies of Stockholm and Copenhagen.

Marchant was employed from about 1782 by the Royal Mint; not as Engraver of dies, but, under the appellation of Probationer, or Designer, to make models for L. Pingo and T. Wyon, the engravers, to copy; and held the office till 1815, when he was superannuated. He was also styled Engraver of H.M.'s seals.

The earliest coins for which Marchant executed models appear to be Pingo's Seven Shilling Pieces, 1804, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, although, we gather, from Ruding, that he was appointed Probationer at the Mint in anno 37 of George III. (1797). His head of the King appears further on the Bank Token Coinage of 1812, consisting of 3 sh., 1 s. 6 d., 9 d., which was continued until 1816 (except the 9 d. which exists only for 1812); Bank of Ireland 10 d. Token, 1813; and Guinea (the so-called "Military Guinea") of 1813, which is by Thomas Wyon.

Marchant's bust of George III. occurs on Half Guineas of 1804, 1806, 1808-1811, and 1813, and Seven Shilling pieces of same dates. It was copied by William Wyon on his Pattern Crown of 1817.

Marchant's signature : N. MARCHANT is found also on some medals, as on the large gold Peninsular Medal, the R. of which representing Britannia, he modelled. The same type occurs on the small gold Peninsular Medal, which is however unsigned.

"As an Intaglio-engraver," observes Billing, "Marchant was one of the best and, in a pecuniary point of view, most successful of the Gem-engravers of the eighteenth century; his works, excepting portraits, are all copies from the antique statues in Rome; they are all intaglios, except one poor copy, from an obelisk, of a hieroglyphic Sphinx, — which is not a real bas-relief, but sunken, like the Egyptian one on the staircase of the British Museum."

King calls Marchant the chief of English Gem-engravers of the eighteenth century, and says that he executed many fine works, both modern portraits, antique heads, and groups in the Greek style. He adds : "There is much grace and delicacy in his figures, but the finish of them is too minute to be effective, and consequently his heads are deficient in boldness and expression. At the sight of his engravings you become sensible that they were executed with the aid of a powerful magnifying glass, and they require to be viewed through such a medium to produce their full effect. This is a common error with modern engravers, and one of Pichler's chief merits is that he has avoided it, and that his works, like

ed in his own times; probably from the circumstance of his carrying on his profession at Rome, and thus becoming known to wealthy English amateurs, who at all times have preferred to pay pounds for works of art abroad, rather than as many shillings for productions of equal merit executed at home. I have seen a Sard, engraved by him, with two female figures, the one seated, the other standing by her, apparently portraits, for which he was paid 200 guineas. Clarac mentions his having been shown at Otranto a paste taken from one of Marchant's gems, which, backed with a slice of Sard after the usual manner of such forgeries, had been sold at an enormous price to an amateur as a first class Greek work, recently discovered in that locality."

Marchant's gems are usually signed : MARCHANT; — N. MARCHANT; — ΜΑΡΧΑΝΤ ΕΡΟΙΕΙ; — and also MARCHANT F. ROMÆ.

"The artist", says Mr. Wroth, "had a high and well-merited reputation as a Gem-engraver. His productions are intaglios, and consist of portraits from the life, and of heads, figures and groups." In his style, he successfully imitated the archaic Greek, especially coins, in its sublime simplicity, but with a little stiffness. (Nagler's, Künstler-Lexikon).

Intaglio, by Marchant.

"He published by subscription in 1792, "A Catalogue of one hundred Impressions from Gems engraved by Nathaniel Marchant, London, 4<sup>to</sup>, to accompany a selection of casts of his intaglios. A number of his works are described in Raspe's 'Tassie's Gem Catalogue'. Various intaglios by him are in the British Museum, but many of his choicest pieces were made for the Marlborough cabinet, and among these may be mentioned his 'Hercules restoring Alcestis to Admetus', a commission from the Elector of Saxony, and a present from him to the Duke of Marlborough. The duke sometimes specially sent fine stones to Rome to be engraved by Marchant. The Prince Regent (George IV.) appointed Marchant his Engraver of gems." (Wroth, loc. cit.).

executed after his canonization in 1450, and perhaps from mémory. "All the works of Marescotti", says von Fabriczy, "show something of the severe realism, the strong modelling of Pisanello. Although in this among all Pisanello's successors he approaches nearest to the master, nevertheless he is far from attaining the grand style, the monumental conception, which go hand in hand with these qualities in the Veronese. The insignificant reverses cannot in the least compare with Pisanello's, either in choice of subject, in concentration of composition, or, finally, in the mighty cast of the figures. They display for the most part nothing but emblems : thus the medal of San Bernardino bears only the so-called Chrism of his order, the monogram of the Saviour (Y. H. S.) enclosed in a nimbus of flames."

As von Fabriczy remarks, Marescotti's style is closely allied to that of Pisanello, except that it lacks in grandeur and power, and that his reverses are of commonplace design.

MARL, FRIEDRICH (Germ.). Medallist of the first half of the eighteenth century; a pupil of Raimund Faltz, “of whose dies he became possessed on his death”. He worked for the Berlin Mint, and was appointed Chief Medallist to the King of Prussia. He died in 1743. This artist’s earliest works date from 1704. One of his medals, signed : F. MARL and commemorating the Alliance of William of Orange with the Elector of Brandenburg in 1688, is really a copy from a die by Faltz, and was not struck before 1704. Marl's usual signature is : F. MARL ; — F. M ; — M ; or M. By him are : Medal of the Berlin Academy of Sciences, 1711 ; — Aggrandizement of Berlin ; — Marriage of King Frederick I. of Prussia with Sophie Louise, Princess of Mecklenburg, 1708 ; — Peace of Breslau, with bust of Charles XII., 1709 (illustrated) ; — Princess Johanna Char-

MARMÉ, J. W. (Germ.). Medallist of the third quarter of the eighteenth century, and perhaps a relative of the last. By him are : Golden Wedding of I. I. van Westreven and I.C. Mamuchet, 1759; — Portrait-medal of Prince Hendrik Friso of Orange; — Marriage of Prince William V. of Orange with Princess Frederika Sophia Wilhelmina of Prussia, 1766.

This Engraver's medals are all connected with Holland.

MARMITTA (or MARMITA) the Elder (Ital.). Painter, Gem-engraver, and Medallist, of Parma, first part of the sixteenth century. Pupil of the painter and sculptor, Francesco. He is said to have excelled in engraving gems after the antique, and to have produced some works of note.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. — Mariette, Histoire des graveurs en pierres fines, 1750.

MARMITTA, LUIGI (Ital.). Son of the last, and also a Painter, Gem-engraver, and Medallist. He was better known by the name of LUDOVICO DA PARMA, and, as an artist, greatly surpassed his father. We learn from Vasari that he was in the service of Cardinal Salviati at Rome, where he distinguished himself by his extraordinary talent, at a period when nothing mediocre would have passed muster there. He engraved crystal and gems in intaglio and cameo, his most famous work being a cameo of Socrates, but he did not confine himself to this branch of art, as is proved by the medals "of his own invention" which he executed. Bolzenthall mentions that "some medals of Gregory XIII. and Urban VII. have been attributed to this artist, but no doubt in error, as it is hardly to be supposed that he lived and worked until the time of these pontiffs". King further states that Marmitta abandoned gem-engraving for the more profitable trade of making dies for imitations of ancient coins.

Luigi Marmitta executed many cameos in imitation of the antique, which were sometimes bought as antique; one of the most remarkable is that with a bust of Commodus, which Mariette describes from the Zanetti collection.

MARQUART, JEAN BAPTISTE (Belg.). Assayer-general to the government of the Netherlands, appointed on 7. June, 1749. At various times he was instructed to make stamps, seals &c, in connection with his office.

MARQUART, J. B. C. (Belg.). Son of the last; studied metallurgy under his father, and was sent by the government of the Netherlands to learn medal-engraving at the Vienna Mint. Returning after a few months' stay in Austria, he went to Paris where he resided for thirteen years. We then find him filling an official post in government mining works in Hungary, and in 1764, appointed Warden of the Brussels Mint. Pinchart describes a medal by him, probably executed in Austria, of the Archduke Joseph, dated 1755, and signed : MARQVART F.

MARSCHALL, DR. GOTTFRIED (Austr.). Publisher of a medal, engraved by Leisek, on the Jubilee of H. H. Pope Leo XIII., 1893.

MARSCHALL, RUDOLPH FERDINAND (Austr.). Contemporary Medallist, born at Vienna on the 3rd of December 1873; studied at the School of Engraving under Professors Schwarz, Schulmeister, and Zapf. In 1891 he was awarded a First Prize (silver medal) by the Commercial and Industrial Institute of Lower-Austria; then the bronze and silver medals of the Engravers' Association, for modeling, drawing and engraving. After an absence of some duration, during which Marshall visited the principal artistic centres of Europe, he returned to Vienna, and became a pupil of the Academy of Decorative Arts, devoting three years to the study of medallic art under the special supervision of Prof. Tautenhayn. During that time, he obtained numerous prizes, amongst which the gold Fügen Medal. In 1898 he left the Academy, and has since produced numerous works, not only in medallic art, but also in sculpture and statuary.

The following are Marschall's best known medallic productions : 1893. Silver Wedding of Matthaëus and Hermine Marschall (cast, 155 mill.); — 1894. At the Paris Universal Exposition, 1900, Marschall was awarded the bronze medal. A writer in Num. Circular. 1901, col. 4893, makes the following comment on this clever artist's work : " Dem Schöpfer solch idealer Bilder müssen die Musen ihren Weihekuss auf die Stirn gedrückt haben. Allein das Verdienst des also Bevorzugten liegt in seinem Fleisse, seinem Talente erst Wert verleiht, denn nur durch diese war es möglich, dass Marschall in so jungen Obv. of Medal of H. H. Pope Leo XIII., 1901.

Jahren schon so Bedeutendes geleistet und so viele Erfolge aufzuweisen hat, welche leicht zu Selbstüberhebung, die gleichbedeutend mit Stillstand und Rückgang im Schaffen eines Künstlers ist, führen könnten. Bei Marschall ist dies nicht zu fürchten, denn er gehört zu jenen Künstlern, die stets an ihren eigenen Arbeiten strengste Kritik üben, die sich nie oder selten mit ihren Leistungen zufrieden geben und an ihrer künstlerischen Vervollkommnung unermüdlich weiter arbeiten. Auf seinen Reisen durch Deutschland, Frankreich und Italien hat er mannigfache Gelegenheit zu interessanten Studien gefunden, der stete Vergleich mit den besten Werken alter und neuer Meister hat ihm einen Maasstab für seine eigenen Schöpfungen gegeben und ihm den weiten Weg vorgezeichnet, den er auf seiner künstlerischen Laufbahn noch zurückzulegen hat."

MARTIN, DIEGO (Span.). Goldsmith of the fourth quarter of the sixteenth century, about whom Bolzenthall (p. 173) gives the following particulars: "Towards the end of the sixteenth century, an artist, who might pass for a second Cellini, worked for the Electoral Court of Brandenburg, in the reign of the Markgrave John George. A cloud seems to rest over his name and history, which we may perhaps succeed in dispelling. Might he not be identified in the Spanish goldsmith, Diego Martin, whose works for the Electoral Count are of great beauty and fineness. Two medals may be ascribed to him, of the well-known Count Rochus of Lynar. One of them has on the obverse the arms of the Count with the legend : ROCH·GRAF·ZV·LINAR·MEIN·HOFNVG·ZV·GOT and on reverse, the emblem of two hands clasped; the date is 1578, and the Spanish inscription reads : RA (me)·ESTOS·ASSI·IVNTADOS·AMAS·SEAN·A·PARTAC(ar). The other medal bears a portrait of the Count and his consort, Anna of Montot. It is true that neither of these productions display that skilful hand, assurance and practice one would expect to find in Martin's work. Diego does not appear to have remained very long in the service of the Elector, for after his residence at the Count of Lynar at Spandau, in 1580, every trace disappears of his life and doings in the Electorate. At the end of the sixteenth century, a silver worker of the name of Martin, was employed in England, according to Walpole, but it is hardly possible to identify him with the Spanish goldsmith.

“Diego Martin was succeeded at the Electoral Court by Peter Wolff, who in 1583 was appointed Court-Goldsmith, Gem-engraver, and Assayer, and who also cut dies for coins.”

MARTIN, GUILLAUME (French). Moneyer at the Mint of Saint-Lô, 1551.

MARTIN, GUILLAUME (French). Sculptor, Goldsmith, and Engraver of Paris, whose period of activity is comprised between circa 1558 and 1590, which latter date is supposed to be that of his death. Although somewhat inferior to Etienne de Laulne, as an artist, he nevertheless ranks amongst the first Masters of the early French Renaissance Medallic School. On the 24. March 1557 (1558) the Cour des Monnaies authorized him, at the same time as Claude de Héry “à faire chef-d'œuvre de tailleur et graveur général”, but the work of his competitor obtained the preference.

Martin's first production on record is a gold medal, commissioned by Henry II., in 1558, with the King's bust, which was to be presented, after the treaty of Cateau-Cambresis, to the German troops in his service. Specimens exist in silver, which give a very good idea of the artist's style.

In the same year, the artist was entrusted with the execution of dies with portraits and emblems of Francis II. and Mary Stuart (“des coins pour meetre en tenailles, pour monnoyer et faire

but appears to be a pattern coin or a medal rather than a real “Testoon”. It is the work of a clever engraver.

Jeton, or Pattern Coin of Francis II. and Mary Stuart.

Seven years later, Martin was commissioned to prepare dies for “large gold pieces of ten Ecus” with busts of the King (Charles IX) and Dowager Queen. None of these are extant, but a silver piece of 1565, in the French National Collection, was no doubt struck from the same dies.

To the same Engraver, Mazerolle ascribes several medals, all in silver, with portraits of Henry II., Catherine de' Medici and their sons. The puncheon of the bust of Henry II. (1558) was used for a restitution medal, the  $\mathcal{R}$  of which represents Diana and bears the date, 1552. With a similar puncheon of Catherine de' Medici, preserved in the Paris Mint Museum, various medals were struck. The  $\mathcal{R}$  of Martin's medal of 1565 is also used as the obv. of a piece which shows on  $\mathcal{R}$  the monogram JHC under a crown. The head of the same Queen occurs with a bust of Henry II. (1558), and under the reign of Henry III., with the busts face to face of Henry III. and Charles IX. By Martin are no doubt also the two struck medals of Catherine de' Medici & Bust of Francis II., Charles IX., and Henry III. (illustrated), and Henry II., 1559 & Fame blowing her trumpet (illustrated). This last medal displays uncommonly fine work and is of charming taste.

Medal of Henry II., 1559.

On the death of Marc Béchot, Engraver-general of the coins (1558) Martin applied for his post, but, as we have seen, Claude de Héry was appointed. The artist's merit however obtained recognition under the reign of Charles IX., when in 1565 he was granted, by letters patent, the right of cutting dies for the coins of the Kingdom, and a yearly stipend of three hundred livres. The creation of this novel office raised strong objections on the part of the Cour des Monnaies, and it is difficult to say whether the artist ever really exercised his right.

Obv. of Teston of Jeanne d'Albret.

In 1565, Martin engraved dies for the Ducats and Testons of Jeanne d'Albret, Queen of Navarre, and contemporary documents prove that he filled the office of Engraver-general of the coins of Navarre, circ. 1564-1571. In 1565 he engraved two jetons with bust of Jeanne d'Albret (one illustrated). The  $\frac{1}{2}$  Teston is by him also, and probably various other coins of Navarre. The original puncheon of Jeanne d'Albret's Teston is preserved in the Paris Mint Museum. Both Brucher and Beaucousin seem to have engraved dies from models or puncheons by Martin.

de Béchot, mais il égale au moins Etienne de Laune par la pureté de son style et la suave expression de ses figures. Son œuvre personnifiée, avec celles d'Etienne de Laune et d'Antoine Brucher, cette belle Renaissance française, qui, se dégageant peu à peu de l'influence italienne, atteint sa pleine maturité dans la seconde moitié du XVI<sup>e</sup> siècle”.

The puncheons and dies which still exist of Guillaume Martin show him to have been an Engraver of real talent, but who however comes second to Etienne de Laune (Vide Rondot, op. cit., p. 220).

MARTIN (or MARTYN), SIR RICHARD (Brit.). (1534-1617). The following exhaustive account of Martin's life was contributed by Mr. Warwick Wroth, to the Dictionary of National Biography (Vol. XXXVI). "Master of the Mint and Lord Mayor of London was born in 1534. He adopted the business of a Goldsmith, and in 1594 is mentioned as one of the goldsmiths to Queen Elizabeth (Cal. State Papers, Dom. 1591-4, p. 559; 1603-10, p. 574). In 1559-60 he was appointed Warden of the Mint, and held this office till 1594-5, and perhaps later. In 1580-1 he was appointed Master of the Mint, and appears to have held this office till his death in 1617 (ib. 1611-18, p. 489; cf. ib. 1603-10, p. 566). In September 1597 he petitioned the Queen for sixteen pence on every pound weight of silver coined, on account of his losses in connection with the mint. He declared that he had done good service in apprehending counterfeiters of the coin, and that the money made in his time was richer by 30,000 l. at the least than the like quantity made by any former Mint-master, ' by reason of his care to keep the just standard' (ib. 1595-7, p. 506). A manuscript tract by Martin, entitled 'A brief Note of those Things which are to be done by the Warden of the Mint', is in the Brit. Mus. (Harl. MS. No. 698, fol. 13), and some extracts from it are given in Ruding's 'Annals of the Coinage', I, 71. About 1600 Martin made an offer to improve the coinage of Ireland, and to make 'small copper moneys' for currency in England (Cal. State Papers, Dom. 1598-1601, pp. 516, 517). In May (?) 1601 he issued the report of himself and eleven other commissioners appointed by the Queen 'to inquire concerning the preservation and augmentation of the wealth of the realm' (ib. 1601-3, pp. 47, 48). On 11 Sept. 1610 Martin received a warrant from James I. for the repayment of 410 l. still due to him as warden of the mint under Elizabeth (ib. 1603-10, p. 632; cf. Nichols, Progresses of James I., II, 411).

"Martin was elected Alderman of the city of London on 29. May 1578, and was sheriff in 1581. He was Lord Mayor for the remainder of the year, on the death of Sir Martin Calthorpe, on 5. May 1589, and again on the decease of Sir Cuthbert Buckle, on 1. July 1594. He was a strenuous supporter of the city's rights. On 31. August 1602 he was removed from his aldermanship, the reasons assigned being his poverty and imprisonment for debt, and his refusal to surrender his office after having accepted one thousand marks as a condition of his retirement (Remembrancia, 1579-1664, 20. Dec. 1602).

“ Martin was knighted by Queen Elizabeth some time between 1562 and 1594... He died in July, 1617, and was buried in the south chancel of Tottenham Church... One of his five sons, named Richard († 1616) was citizen and goldsmith of London, and was from about 1584 associated for several years with his father in the mastership of the mint.

“ A fine silver medal (obv. illustrated) in the British Museum, cast and chased by Stephen of Holland in 1562, and believed to be unique, bears the portraits of Martin and his wife (Vide Vol. II. p. 531) ”.

Under Martin in 1582-3, the old standard and weight of the gold coins, which had been slightly debased by Louison, his predecessor, was restored, but in 1601, the weight of the money both of gold and silver was somewhat reduced.

The curious and unique Pattern Halfcrown of Queen Elizabeth reproduced here, which was originally in the cabinet of the Earl of Oxford and is now in the National Collection, was supposed to have been engraved at the Royal Mint, in the last year of the Queen's reign, under the Mint-master, Sir Richard Martin.

Horace Walpole “ Catalogue of Royal and Noble Authors ”, 1st ed., I, 126, describing a fragment of one of the gold coins of this Queen, says : “ Vertue, the engraver, had a pocket book of Isaac Oliver, in which the latter had made a memorandum that the queen would not let him give any shade to her features, telling him, ‘ that shade was an accident, and not naturally existing in the face ’. Her portraits are generally without shadow. I have in my possession another strongly presumptive proof of this weakness; it is a fragment of one of her last broad pieces, representing her horridly old and deformed. An entire coin with this image is not known; it is universally supposed that the die was broken by her command, and that some workman in the mint cut out this morsel which contains barely the face. As it has never been engraved, so singular a curiosity may have its merit in a work which has no other kind of merit. ” The fragment referred to was purchased by the British Museum at the Strawberry Hill Sale, 1842, and is engraved in Ruding, Suppl. part ii Pl. III, N<sup>o</sup> 7.

MASIO, JEAN DE (Ital.). Mint-master at Chambéry, 1421. He was a native of Asti, and filled a similar office at Turin, 1418 (under Louis of Achaia), and Embrun, 1420.

MASLITZER, HANS (Germ.). Goldsmith and Medallist of Nuremberg, circ. 1538-1574, of whom however very little is known. The late Alfred von Sallet suggested that he may have been the author of the medal reproduced here, which bears his portrait on obv.

Neudörffer in his Nachrichten von Künstlern und Werkleuten, 1547, gives the following particulars of this artist: "dieser Maslitzer ist eine Zeit lang Rechenmeister gewesen und ein zierlicher Schreiber, wohl gegründet und berühmt. Seinen Anfang im Giessen hat er von Herrn Melchior Pfinzing, Propst, aber sein Fleiss und Uebung hat ihn mit göttlicher Hilf dahin bracht, dass er allen Goldschmiden genug zu giessen hätte. Er geusst aber von Gold und Silber und durchbrochen so rein, als wäre es verseubert (ciselirt) hohl gegossen oder getrieben.

"In Probieren allerlei Erz Bergwerk, und Silber auch im Scheiden, ist er ganz gewiss (der erste) und alles das so an ein Münz gehört, kann er verrichten, und weiss im Prägen der Münz solche Vortheil, wie wenig Münzmeister noch erfunden werden. Die Probierung zu machen, hat er einen grossen Beruf, aber die Streichnadel von Gold und Silber zuzurichten, wird seines gleichen wenig gefunden. Er hat a. 1538 die goldene und bleierne Münz gegossen, die zum Gedächtniss an dem Bau zwischen dem Vestner und Thiergärtner Thor gelegt worden. Ward Genannter des grösseren Rathes 1532 ”.

Maslitzer died, according to Lochner, in 1574. The medal attributed to him, by Neudörffer, of the Building above-mentioned, is not by him, but by Peter Flötner, whose initials it bears; and it is more likely that Maslitzer was not a modeller, but only a clever founder, who may have been employed to cast medals as well as other decorative and sculpture works. His Portrait-medal however is signed  $\text{F}$  which characteristic mark occurs on his tombstone, where we find his name as Hans Maczliczer. It seems possible therefore that this interesting medal is by him, and that it may have been executed to commemorate his election to the Gross Rath in 1532. Bolzenthall expressed the same opinion, and states: “ It is said of Hans Maslitzer that in 1538 he cast medals in gold, silver, copper and lead, which were laid as a memorial under the Building between the Vestner and Thiergärtner Gates. As Maslitzer was celebrated for his cast works in gold and silver, so do his medals belong to the most remarkable works of the kind, and as he lived until 1574, we may conclude that he executed many. Perhaps his own likeness at the age of 27 may have been his own production. ”

Ammon adds that Maslitzer did not sink irons, but on the other hand von Sallet connects his name with seal-engraving.

MASSYS or METSYS, QUENTIN (Belg.). Also QUINTIJN MESSIJS or QUINTIN MATSYS, a celebrated Smith and Painter of Antwerp, born at Louvain about 1460, is said to have died in the Carthusian convent at Antwerp, during the second half of 1530, between July 13 and September 16. He was brought up by his father as a

smith, “a pursuit then often requiring artistic knowledge and manipulative skill.” The early years of his life were spent at Louvain, where he began to distinguish himself, then he settled at Antwerp, and there, falling in love with a painter’s daughter, in order to gain her hand, he took to painting, removing for a time to Brussels to learn the art of Roger van der Weyden. In a short time he was able to handle the brush as well as the hammer. In 1491 he was admitted a master into the Antwerp guild of St. Luke, and shortly afterwards he married Adelaide van Tuyt, by whom he had six children; after her death, he married again in 1508-9, and had by his second wife seven children. In the well-known portrait at Florence, Massys is represented with his second wife, Catherine Heyens; it is dated 1520.

Quentin Massys was undoubtedly one of the most celebrated painters of his time at Antwerp. His master-piece, the "Taking down from the cross", painted in 1508, for the altar of the chapel of the Joiners' company in the cathedral, is now one of the principal attractions of the Antwerp Museum. It is most carefully and elaborately executed, and is an admirable work, in spite of its Gothic taste. The painter received only three hundred florins for it, about £ 25; and the city purchased it of the Joiners' company for fifteen hundred florins in 1577. Queen Elizabeth wished to possess it, and is said to have offered in vain forty thousand florins for it. The careful works of this painter are well-known in this country, from the so-called "Misers" at Windsor, the picture in the National Gallery, and other examples. Quentin enjoyed the friendship of the municipal secretary, Peter Gillis (Egidius), of B. Thomas More, of Dürer, and Holbein.

The painter was originally buried in the convent of the Carthusians, and when this convent was suppressed his remains were reburied in front of the cathedral at Antwerp, with the following inscription placed in the wall of the cathedral, to commemorate the circumstance and his history: — "Quintino Matsys, incomparabilis artis pictori, admiratrix grataque Posteritas anno post obitum saeculari CIO. IOC. XXIX. posuit. Connubialis amor de muliebri fecit Apellem" (Dict. of Univ. Biog., III, p. 333).

On Erasmus of Rotterdam's own testimony, we learn that Massys executed a Portrait-medal of himself (...Unde statuarius iste nactus sit effigiem mei demiror, nisi fortasse habet eam quam Quintinus Antverpiae fudit ære). The medal, reproduced here (p. 605), has been hitherto attributed to Quentin, but recent research has led Dr Simonis (L'Art du Médailleur en Belgique, 1900) to conclude that it is the work of the medallist Jean Second, who probably modelled it from Massys's medallion (Vide, op. cit., pp. 31 and 83).

But there are at least two other Portrait-medallions, which are ascribed to the celebrated painter; one with his own portrait (illustrated), and the other with that of his sister Christine Massys (in the possession of M. le Chevalier Van den Bergh, of Antwerp). These medals are absolutely different in style and treatment to that of Erasmus, who probably knew of the work of Jean Second, as he says in a letter to Botteus: "Where did this sculptor procure my portrait? Perhaps he possesses that which Quentin Metsys cast in bronze at Antwerp?"

l'ensevelissement du Christ du tableau du musée d'Anvers. C'est le grand art de la médaille iconique, sans ornements, sans détails qui déparent la grandeur et la simplicité de l'œuvre. Nous connaissons, jusqu'à ce jour, deux médaillons attribués à Quentin Metsys ; sa médaille à lui, qui a été reproduite dans Van Mieris, et la médaille d'Erasmus, datée de 1519, qui figure à la fois dans Van Mieris et dans le Trésor de numismatique (Médailles allemandes). Les médailles de Quentin Metsys et de sa sœur sont comme des bas-reliefs, tenant plutôt de la sculpture ; elles ont entre elles les plus grandes analogies et proviennent certainement du même artiste ; mais la médaille d'Erasmus est plutôt, comme le dit M. Picqué, une œuvre de peintre à fines dégradations de plans.”

Medal on the Loyalty of the Tyrolians to the Emperor Francis II., 1797.

Death of Gedeon Laudon, 1790; — Loyalty of the Tyrolians to Francis II., 1797 (illustrated), &c.

Zeller mentions that this engraver followed in the footsteps of his father and grandfather, producing many works of exceptional merit, from the two Portrait-medals of Field Marshal Laudon, executed in 1790, to the medal, engraved in 1810, commemorating the Acquisition of Salzburg by Bavaria.

MAUGER, JACQUES (French). Engraver at Paris, circa 1684.

MAUGER, JEAN (French). Medallist of the second half of the seventeenth century and first quarter of the eighteenth; probably born at Dieppe about 1648, where he is said to have had his first training as a carver in ivory, which trade was then a flourishing one in that town; died at Paris on the 9th of September 1722 at the age of seventy-four. Nothing is known of the circumstances which led the artist to settle in Paris, circa 1677, and later to enter the King's service as an Engraver. B. Duvivier states, however, that he studied under the famous Warin. In Mint documents, Mauger is variously called Graveur des médailles, Médailleur du Roi, and officier médailleur du Roi. By an order of the Court, dated 27. April 1698, he was given an apartment (the seventeenth) in the Louvre Galleries, which on his death fell to the Duviviers, who preserved it until the end of the eighteenth century.

Mauger married, some time previous to 1698, Elizabeth Clay, the daughter of a Paris goldsmith, by whom he had five children.

The period of the medallist's activity extends between 1677 and 1772, and his works are very numerous; they are variously signed: I. MAVGER. F.; — MAVGER F.; — M., &c. His bust of Louis XIV. occurs on many medals with reverses engraved by different artists.

Mauger was patronized by the Academy and was principally engaged on the medallic series of Louis XIV. "His works are of bold and vigorous workmanship; many were executed after designs drawn by Sebastian Le Clerc" (Med. Ill., II, p. 732).

It is as well to notice that the dates of the events represented on Mauger's medals hardly ever correspond with those of their execution, and we find that the artist repeated between 1700 and 1703 the whole series of Louis XIV. from 1643 to 1700.

In my list of Mauger's productions, I mention first all those that have some connection with English history: Battle of Dunkirk, 1658; — Another; R. by Henri Roussel; — Cession of Dunkirk, 1662; — Another; R. by Thomas Bernard; — Alliance of France and Holland, 1666; — The English driven from the Island of St. Christopher, 1666; — Battle of Solebay, 1672; — Louis XIV. receives James II., 1689; — Battle of Fleurus, 1690; — Action off Beachy Head, 1690; — Quebec attacked, 1690; — Capitulation of Mons, 1691; — Namur taken, 1692; — Battle of Steinkirk, 1692 (sev. types); — Sea fight off Gibraltar, 1693; — Battle of Landen, 1693; — Expedition to Brest, 1694; — Dunkirk bombarded, 1695; — Indian trade molested, 1695; — Successes of Louis XIV., 1697; — Peace of Ryswick, 1697 (sev. types); — Naval Engagement off Malaga, 1704; — Battle of Almanza, 1707; — Toulon relieved, 1707; — Battle of Villa Viciosa, 1710; — Gerona taken, 1711; R. by Dassier; — Peace of Utrecht, 1713. Many varieties of legends, types, &c. occur of most of these.

The Americans claim the following medals by Mauger in their series: French Conquest of St. Christopher Island, 1666; — Victory at Martinique, 1674 (2 var.); — Recovery of Cayenne, 1676 (2 var.); — Victory at Tabago, 1677; — Quebec attacked, 1690 (1 var.); — Carthagenia recaptured, 1697 (5 var.).

Guiffrey's list of Mauger's productions comprises the following: Birth of Louis XIV. (several types), 1638; — Death of Louis XIII.,

1643; — Italy pacified through the French Troops; — Regency of the Queen Mother, Anne of Austria; — Battle of Rocroy; — Capture of Thionville; — Capture of Trin and of Sturi Bridge; — Battle of Carthagena (2 var.); — Taking of Gravelines, 1644; — Peace of Italy; — The three Engagements of Freiburg; — Capture of thirty Towns; — Capture of Roses, 1645 (2 var.); — Battle of Nordlingen; — Embassy from Poland; — Campaign of 1645; — Restoration of the Elector of Treves; — Capture of Balaguera; — Thirty-four towns taken; — Capture of Dunkirk, 1646; — Thirteen towns taken; — Capture of Courtrai, Winexbergen and Mardik; — Capture of Piombino and Portulongo; — Eleven towns taken, 1647; — Defeat of the Duke of Bavaria, 1648; — Battle of Lens; — Peace of Münster, or Westphalia (sev. var.); — Ypres captured by the French; — Tortosa taken; — Siege of Guise raised, 1650; — Condé and Maubeuge taken; — Battle of Rethel; — Successes of the French Troops in Flanders; — King Louis XIV. attains his majority, 1651 (2 var.); — Return of Louis XIV. to Paris, 1652; — Capture of several towns by the French, 1653; — Capture of Belfort, 1654; — Coronation of Louis XIV.; — Capture of Stenay; — Siege of Arras raised; — Capture of fourteen towns; — Capture of Cadaques and Castillon, 1655; — Capture of Landrecy, Condé and St. Ghislain (2 var.); — Establishment of the “Hopital général”, 1656; — Queen Christina of Sweden in Paris; — Capture of Valencia; — Capture of Kapelle; — Capture of Montmédy, 1657; — Mardik and Saint-Venant taken; — Battle of the Downs, 1658; — Convalescence of the King (Calais); — Rapidity of the King's victories; — The Spaniards defeated at Dunkirk; — Dunkirk captured for the second time; — French victories on the Scheld; — Capture of Mortare; — Conferences for Peace, 1659 (2 var.); — The Citadel of Marseilles, 1660; — Peace concluded between France and Spain; — Interview between Louis XIV. and Philip IV.; — Marriage of Louis XIV. with Maria Theresia of Austria (sev. var.); — Arrival of Maria Theresia in Paris; — The King rules the State, 1661; — Assiduity of the King at the Councils; — Chamber of Justice; — The King accessible to all his Subjects; — The Secret of the King's Councils; — The Duke of Lorraine renders homage to Louis XIV.; — Birth of the Dauphin (sev. var.); — Creation of the Order of the Knights of Saint-Esprit (in two sizes), 1662; — Abolition of duelling; — Precedence; — The Famine of 1662; — The Carrousel; — Acquisition of Dunkirk (2 var.); — To the glory of Louis XIV., 1663; — Flourishing state of France; — Foundation of the “Académie des Inscriptions”; — Marsala taken; — Alliance with the Swiss; — The King's “Motto”; — Erection of a Pyramid at Rome, 1664; — Engagement of Saint-Gothard; — Audience granted to the Pontifical Legate; — Capture

Guiffrey gives lists of the dies and puncheons Mauger had to alter at various times, as late as 1707 and even after that date ; also of dies by him not approved of by the Academy. In all over four hundred puncheons are known of this engraver, which however do not represent the whole of his work, as neither his earliest medallic productions nor the latest have been placed on record.

Until 1698, the medals of the Louis XIV series were struck in sizes of 30, 32 and 36 "lignes" ; about that time, Abbé Bignon induced Mauger to engrave 200 medals, at 150 livres each, of the size of 18 lignes, which were executed between 1699 and 1703.

Bolzental remarks that Mauger took the chief part in a series of small medals, principally from Pontchartrain's designs, and from drawings of Coypel's medals, of which in less than seven years he had engraved in steel two hundred and sixty pieces, with the King's bust on all of them, the monarch's likeness, however, being rather poor. In 1702 the artist claimed 1400 livres for seven puncheons, one with the head of Louis XIII. and the other six with that of Louis XIV. at the respective ages of 5, 11, 22, 27, 34 and 42 years, which were to accompany the reverses of the series of 18 lignes (36 mill.) medals.

The artist was paid 30.000 livres for work done between 1697 and 1701, but in 1703 he claimed another 38600 livres, and his claim was supported by Abbé Bignon.

Mauger never belonged to the Royal Academy of Painting and Sculpture, although he appears to have held a distinguished rank among his rivals, Bernard, Chéron, and others.

MAURA Y MONTANER, BARTOLOMÉ (Span.). Contemporary Medallist and Line-engraver, born at Palma de Mallorca, circ. 1850. He went to Madrid in 1858 in order to continue his studies, and there became a pupil of D. Frederico de Madrazo at the Escuela Especial de Pintura, Escultura y Grabado. For five consecutive years he was engaged at the Prado Museum reproducing in copper-plate the most famous works of Spanish Masters, direct from the originals. Since 1869, he has executed a large number of engravings, and especially portraits of ancient as well as contemporary personages.

The artist obtained Awards at the Spanish National Competition, 1871; Universal Exhibition of Philadelphia, 1876; Medal of Honour at the Universal Exhibition of Vienna, 1873; Gold Medal, General Exhibition of Fine Arts, Madrid, 1901.

From time to time Maura has also engraved medals, amongst which the best known are: Fourth Centenary of the Discovery of America, 1892; — Prize Medal of the National Spanish Exhibition, Fine Art Section; — Medal of the Exhibition of National Industries, Madrid, 1897-1898; — Visit to the Mint of the Queen Regent Maria Cristina, 1894; — Medal on the Majority of King Alfonso XIII., 1902; — Commemorative medal of Queen Maria Cristina's Regency, 1903; — Medal on the Catalonian Journey of Alfonso XIII., 1904; — Visit to the Mint of King Alfonso XIII., February 1904; — Prize Medal of the "Anales del Ejercito y de la Armada", with bust of Mars; — Medal on the third Centenary of the publication of Don Quixote; — Coronation of Alfonso XIII., 1902.

Since 1887, Maura has been Engraver to the Bank of Spain, and in 1893 he was appointed Chief-engraver and Artistic Director at the Royal Mint of Madrid.

The coins issued at the Madrid Mint, since 1893, bear the artist's initials : B. M. and consist of : 1893-1903 : Third Coinage of Alfonso XIII. A. 100 and 20 Pesetas; Æ. 5, 2 and 1 Pesetas, and 5 Pesetas of Alfonso XIII., 1896.

50 Centimos. 1904. Fourth Coinage. The King in uniform. Similar denominations.

Maura is in possession of the Cross of Carlos III., Encomienda de Isabel la Católica, Civil Order of Alfonso XIII. and various other distinctions.

MAYER, LÉON (French). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Paris; pupil of Joseph Chéret. At the Salon of 1883 he exhibited a Portrait-medallion in bronze of M. Paul Foucher.

MAYER, RUDOLPH (Austr.). “The revival of the Medal is arousing at the present time more interest in Germany than has hitherto been shown in this branch of art, one of whose chief exponents is Professor Rudolph Mayer, of Karlsruhe. The artist is a native of Austria, and his technical knowledge of metal-work was gained in the Art-Handicraft School (“Kunstgewerbeschule”) in Vienna. He won his first laurels at the Vienna Exhibition of 1873, and as a result was invited to Stuttgart as teacher of medalling in the School of Art-Handicraft there. After twelve years' teaching he went in a similar capacity through the Lehrer-collegium of the Kunstgewerbeschule at Karlsruhe, where he has now been engaged for the past sixteen years. Apart from his teaching, he has undertaken many private commissions, particularly for embossed gold and silver vessels. For some years past, however, he has continued to indulge his old fancy for the medal and the plaquette, which was stimulated by a first prize which was awarded to him. The few medals and plaquettes reproduced here give ample proof of his ability. In addition to figures and heads are ornamental works, which, as decorative objects, became popular when issued from the minting establishment of B. H. Mayer of Pforzheim.

Professor R. Mayer takes the best modern Frenchmen as his models, without directly imitating them, however. He strives to present his motive in all simplicity, with broad effects, but without disregarding detail. Therein one recognizes the accomplished ciseleur, and realises how out of the craftsman has sprung the artist." (Studio, XXXI, pp. 81-83).

Among the artist's best productions are : A Child's head (illustrated); — Schopenhauer; — Liszt (illustrated); — Melanchthon (after Hagenauer's medal); — Goethe; — Richard Wagner and many prize medals, plaquettes, decorative subjects suitable for badges, ornaments, pendants, brooches, &c. struck at the die-sinking establishment of B. H. Mayer of Pforzheim.

Some of the latest productions of the artist are reproduced in The Studio, November 1905.

Commenting on Prof. Mayer's work, a writer in Moderne Medaille, 1900, p. 37 refers to the Artist's Portrait-plaquette of himself in the following terms: "Die Unmittelbarkeit, Lebenswahrheit, mit der diese Medaille uns die ganze Persönlichkeit des Meisters versinnlicht, spricht sowohl für das ausgezeichnete Talent des Künstlers, wie für die Höhe der Kunst, auf welcher er steht. Ihr Anblick zeitigt in uns den Wunsch, es möchte auch anderen Meistern des Stichels gefallen, der kunstliebenden Mitwelt ihr künstlerisches Autograph in Gestalt von Selbstportraits zu übergeben, es würde hiedurch der Kunstrichtung unserer Zeit eine Reihe von Denkmälern gesetzt werden, in welchen diese weit richtigeren Ausdruck fände, wie in so manchem unter dem Hochdruck der Mode entstandenen und mit dem ganzen Rüstzeug der modernen Anschauungen geschaffenen Werke".

Two Mark piece of Baden, 1902.

Prof. Mayer prepared the models from which the 1902 coinage of Grand Duke Frederick of Baden was struck, consisting of 50,000 Five Mark pieces and 375,000 Two Marks (illustrated). These coins are amongst the best now struck.

MAYNERT, F. JOSEPH (Austr.). Son of Gottfried M.; Medallist at Warsaw, during the second half of the nineteenth century. By him is a portrait-medal of his father, and I have also noticed his signature on commemorative medals of the inauguration of the railway from Warsaw to Vienna, 1845 (2 var.).

MAYR, A. (Germ.). Medallist to the Mint of Nuremberg, circ. 1770.
— His signature occurs on the R of a medal, the obv. of which is by G. F. Nürnberger, on the election of the Emperor Charles VI.
and prediction of a successful reign.

MAYR, HANS (Austr.). Warden, and later Mint-master at Salzburg, 1599-1620.

MAYR, JOHANN JAKOB (Austr.). Mint-engraver at Kremnitz,

MAYR, ISAAK Vide MAYER. A Jew of Prague who worked the Imperial Mint of Breslau, between 1546 and 1549.

MAYR, MARX VON (Germ.). Member of the " Münzsocietät ", Munich, 1691.

MAYR, WOLFGANG (Germ.). Mint-warden at Stuttgart to the District of Suabia, 1599-1615.

MAZARON. Vide ANTOINE MASCARON. Mint-master at Marseilles, 1593-94.

MAZENS, GEORGES (French). Contemporary Sculptor, born at Paris; pupil of Gautherin. By him are various portrait-medallions in bronze, some of which were exhibited at the Paris Salon of 1883.

MAZIÈRES, ANTOINE DE (French). Mint-engraver at Villeneuve-Saint-André-lès-Avignon, 1523-1547. In 1540 he was assistant warden at the Montpellier Mint.

MAZIERES, BERNARDIN DE (French). Mint-engraver at Villeneuve-Saint-André-lès-Avignon, 1545-1551.

MAZIÈRES, PIERRE DE (French). Mint-engraver at Villeneuve-Saint-André-lès-Avignon, 1560-1569.

MAZURE, ANTOINE (French). Mint-engraver at Villeneuve-Saint-André-lès-Avignon, appointed by the King in 1534. Probably the same as ANTOINE DE MAZIÈRES (q. v.).

MAZZAFIRRI, MICHELE (Ital.). Florentine Medallist, born circ. 1530, died about 1597. He was attached to the Court and person of the two successors of Cosimo I. and especially to the third Grand Duke, Ferdinand III., of whom and his consort, Christine of Lorraine, no less than eleven medals are known by him. He was really a Goldsmith by profession, and attained greater celebrity in that branch than in medallic art, although none of his works of plate and jewellery have come down to us, and are only known from documentary evidence. The filigree-like delicacy of the elaboration of all the accessories marks them as the works of a goldsmith's hand, and v. Fabriczy notices that the artist's fame as a goldsmith surpassed that of the medallist, documents proving that he received a great number of commissions for goldsmith's work.

Ferdinand I. of Lorraine, Grand Duke of Tuscany.

The following medals bear the artist's signature, which occurs in various forms : MI. MA. ; — M. M. ; — MICHE. M. ; — MICHELE
